The angels say that the word angel begins with a, which stands for “ask”. It ends with l, which stands for “listen”. “If you’ll remember to ask and then listen,” the angels say, “everything in between will begin to gel.” Let’s all ask together:

Dear God and the angels,

Please help us to keep our thoughts centered on peace and love. Please remind us when our minds wander from the path. Help us to know that we truly create our reality each moment, and guide us in making the best choices in our thoughts and deeds. We ask for and accept additional angels in our lives. Please help us to know and feel Your love, so that we may experience and teach the peace that is Your will for us. Amen.

— from the book Divine Prescriptions: Using Your Sixth Sense. Spiritual Solutions For You And Your Loved Ones, by Doreen Virtue, Ph.D.

Doreen Virtue is out of the closet. That’s right. Gone are the days of the quiet whisper: “Do YOU believe in angels?” She openly talks about angels with EVERYBODY—the man on the street, the housewife, the cop, the doctor, the lawyer, even the clergy.

It’s a bit like the old story about do you light a lamp and hide it under the basket, or put it high on the hill for all to see. And what does she find? Most people DO believe in angels—and not only believe in them, but

Reflections At This Time Of The Holiday Season

All hustle and bustle and jingle bells aside, in the spirit of its best intentions, the Holiday Season is a reminder of Possibilities, of Miracles, and especially of the Joys of Giving. The fact that you are reading this issue of The SPECTRUM is one such miracle-of-giving of this Season, and for that we are very thankful.

We are thankful to those of you who have seen fit to share your generosity with us. We are astonished by the level of sacrifice some of you have made in order to help out our tedious financial bind. We are deeply honored by the ever-encouraging notes of good cheer which have accompanied your monetary gifts—notes written from the heart and sometimes OVERWHELMINGLY expressive of your strong support for what we are all about.

You think maybe I'm exaggerating a bit when I say some of your notes are overwhelming? Well, consider this: it can even become "embarrassing" to open your notes in a public place! Our business manager, Gail Cortright, says she's often ready to burst out in tears—right there in the line at the Post Office—if she picks up the mail first and makes the "mistake" of opening some of your wonderful notes while in the line attending to other postal business.

We also chuckle (along with you) in response to some of your other laughter-is-the-best-medicine kinds of comments. For example, you're quick to point out how the "good people" just don't generally seem to have much money, while the "bad people" seem to always have and hoard plenty—and wouldn't it be nice if the opposite could prevail more often. Of course, the Big Test we all face on this schoolroom planet is what we do with what we HAVE, not what we'd LIKE to have!

Meanwhile, there are a few noisy ones heavily under dark influence who have been quick to gloat that we (The SPECTRUM) must be doing something "wrong" or we'd be rolling in money. Oh? The miracle is the fact that we're alive at all! Moreover, again, on a darkened planet so materially focused, it is not the Mother Teresas, but the Rockefellers, who have the extra money. And such intrinsically "me first" entities (invariably backed by the cautions of their lawyers and accountants and other low-frequency advisors) are hardly of a mindset to support an enterprise of Awakening Mankind To Truth, which would surely put the material ones in an uncomfortable—and maybe even profoundly unfavorable—Light!

President William Jefferson (Rockefeller) Clinton, in his weekly radio address the Saturday after Thanksgiving, mentioned a new report which was just released stating that philanthropic giving was at an all-time high this past year. But, now, here's the REAL meat of the matter—added almost as an afterthought, and worded as diplomatically as possible: "The wealthiest gave a smaller percentage of their income than did those of more moderate or modest means."

Exactly my point. Indeed, it is largely the people of "modest means" who are the dear ones efforting to keep us—and apparently a lot of other organizations—afloat.

I can't help but remember a brief but VERY important point made near the end of Rick Martin's front-page story on the Montauk Project and time travel (October 2000 issue of The SPECTRUM), during his first-person interview with Michael Ash. Michael said the crooks in high places were—get this—MOST afraid, NOT of the other crooks in high places who ALL want to be THE "king of the hill", but of the "little people" who, say, clean the toilets in the buildings wherefrom these so-called elite power brokers control world affairs.

Why? Because the crooks KNOW the Unlimited LIGHTED Potential available to any of the decent, honest, uncomplicated, hard-working people should they desire to put their mind to something creative. This gets into several of the spiritual messages herein—about the power of TRUE, selfless Giving, and the amplifying Universal Law which governs the effects whenever such Energy currents are put into motion. It is God's will—and no less!

And speaking of giving, let me report that, in terms of the numbers for this month, the situation is the same as last month. That is, about 50% of our minimal operating expenses were met from the wonderful generosity of you readers and supporters. The other 50% was again covered through a loan from America East Publishers (who produce the WISDOM OF THE RAYS: The Masters Teach volumes of spiritual messages). However, now America East is completely out of resources and unable to help us further. Yet, Dr. Pierre Cloutier of America East still firmly maintains that the survival of The SPECTRUM is a prerequisite to collecting together and publishing the unique spiritual messages which are always first presented to you who read this publication.

As I said at the start, the Holiday Season is, at its best, a reminder of Possibilities, of Miracles, and especially of the Joys of Giving. We cannot find the words which seem at all adequate to the job of conveying our deep appreciation for all you (and YOU know who YOU are) have done, are doing, and will yet do to help keep alive this unique conduit for The Great Awakening Of Planet Earth.

The Holiday Season can also be a reminder of who your friends REALLY are. We sure know who YOU are, and we're deeply thankful for your friendship. Bless you. And let's all move forward in Light as the New Year dawns.

WATCH-OUT AMERICA: MILITARY TO BECOME POLICE

From The SPOTLIGHT, via M.O.M., <nox2128@blackfoot.net>, 9/25/00: [quoting] (Exclusive to The SPOTLIGHT, by Mike Blair.)

Military Trained For Police Ops

A retired colonel charges that the U.S. military's elite units are being trained in civilian areas in America to take over the role of domestic police.

A high-ranking retired Special Operations Command officer told The SPOTLIGHT that elite military units have been undertaking urban warfare maneuvers in cities and towns across the United States in preparation for assuming the duties of U.S. law enforcement. The retired colonel confirmed for the first time that the mysterious training engaged in by U.S. Army Special Forces and Delta Force, Navy Seals, Marines Force Recon, and U.S. Air Force Air Commandos is intended for domestic operations.

Use of U.S. troops to enforce civilian law is a gross violation of the Posse Comitatus Act, legislation passed during the Rutherford B. Hayes administration prohibiting the U.S. military from engaging in domestic law enforcement, and the Constitution. The officer, a retired colonel, told The SPOTLIGHT that the Pentagon has been purposely misleading the public by explaining that these exercises are urban warfare training to prepare American elite troops for missions in foreign lands, such as hostage rescue operations at a besieged U.S. embassy or other U.S. interest centers. The colonel said, however, the fact is the troops are primarily training for police-type activities, particularly in the United States.

Two units have been heavily involved in the training: the Army's Delta Force and the Night Stalkers, the latter group being a unit of highly-trained helicopter pilots, who ferry the Delta Force troopers into action and have been responsible for flying low, at almost tree-top or roof-top level, over civilian areas.

The colonel, who spoke with The SPOTLIGHT on the condition of anonymity, has been supported in his revelations by disclosures to the Internet website, World Net Daily, by former Night Stalker, Captain Jeff Norgrove

"These aren't really military exercises" Norgrove said. "They are SWAT training. The Army will never admit that to you, but that's what it is."

Last year, Delta Force and the Night Stalkers were involved in a controversial exercise in Kingsville, Texas, where the SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics) troops used live ammunition and explosives to conduct their training. Special Operations Command officials at Fort Bragg, NC, insist that only "training ammunition" was used during the exercise in Kingsville and other American communities.

A number of retired military officers have come forward to insist that Army claims of the use of only "training ammunition" are untrue. "They really think we're so stupid that we can't figure this out" Norgrove said.

Most of the Night Stalkers and the Delta Force troops, according to Norgrove and the retired colonel, are young and not fully aware of what is going on. "They just do what they are told" Norgrove explained. "It's exciting and the pay is very good."

The colonel told The SPOTLIGHT that the young Delta Force soldiers and Night Stalkers involved in the activities are heavily indoctrinated. "They would not have any hesitation to shoot at their fellow Americans if they were ordered to do so and felt that it was the right thing to do under a given circumstance" the colonel said. "They are part of what the military refers to as 'the warrior class' and if they are asked to take out the enemy, that could mean, to them, under the right circumstances, either foreigners or their own countrymen" the former Special Operations officer explained.

While the FAA regulations require aircraft to fly well above the tops of houses and buildings, the Night Stalkers are criss-crossing American cities and towns at extremely low levels, many contend, endangering the civilian population. In Kingsville, as an example, a helicopter struck the top of a telephone pole, causing a fire near a home.

The Delta Force and Night Stalkers do not even wear standard military uniforms. Instead, just like any SWAT team, they are garbed in black uniforms, complete with black helmets and face shields. They also wear bulletproof body armor and are usually discharged from the Night Stalkers helicopters wielding German-made Heckler and Koch 9-mm machine guns.

The maneuvers are always conducted at night. The helicopters are painted dark, with a special paint that has a sandpaper texture, appears black, and enables the aircraft to avoid radar. They are flown without lights by Night Stalker pilots utilizing night-vision goggles. The helicopters bear no markings that can be seen in the darkness. The special paint is obviously responsible for stories about and sightings of "black helicopters", which have long been pooh-poohed by the Pentagon as the hallucinations of "right-wing nuts".

You don't suppose the above exercises could be at all connected with (in anticipation of) the engineered presidential election brawl that has been our nation's main focus of attention for weeks now? MORE ON CHEMTRAILS

From the INTERNET, 10/29/00: [quoting]

I've seen elements of the information below before. It is VERY likely that this information is CORRECT.

Information on Discovery Channel and Art Bell Show CONFIRM that Rockefeller had a corpse dug out of glacial ice to extract and grow SPANISH FLU VIRUS from his lung tissue. Story was later circulated that it had somehow gotten stolen from the lab. Yeah, sure. Rockefeller is big into the U.N. population REDUCTION scheme. The only way we can fight this is to get this information CIRCULATED!

I've tried to show you how important it's become for these monstrous fiends to give us FLU SHOTS.

This all makes sense. WE HAVE TO STOP PEOPLE FROM WANTING TO TAKE THESE SHOTS!

Chemtrails

So, you haven't yet figured out the airborne conditioning-agent release program that is being operated by the government? I'll give you some hints, but first I'll give you a little information about myself. I'm a retired government scientist with an advanced degree in one of the health-related disciplines. I do not use my real name for fear of retaliation, either against me, or against members of my family. I always try to route my e-mail communications so that they appear to come from another source, usually from one somewhere within the government. Sometimes I use the Internet resources of the public library—whatever it takes to hide my true identity and confuse those who don't want the sort of information I possess to fall into the public's hands.

I have a small circle of friends who are, or were, in key positions within our military and several government agencies. These are not the very top-level personnel, but mid- to upper-mid-level people, scientists and analysts, who are in positions where they can see the day-to-day activities of what's going on, who are charged with implementing the details, but who are never quite privy to the schemes behind the work they do.

Each of my contacts has been able to supply me with a portion of the puzzle, but separately, none of them understands the whole story. I'll tell you what I've pieced together so far. But I have to admit that this information frightens me because there is no place I can go with it. What am I supposed to do—write my congressman? I believe that would be like signing my own death warrant.

This whole chemtrail issue is related to the plan for decreasing the world population to around 450-500 million—and starting with the US first. Why? The people of the US are the only ones with even the remotest chance of stopping this. That is, if they knew about it. That's why the US has to be the first to go. You have to understand that the world's elite covet the US for its geographic diversity—and they would love to return this country to its condition as it existed prior to Columbus setting foot here, but without the Native Americans this time, of course.

You may have already heard how several [quite a few, actually] national parks have been designated as world biospheres—that's the plan for all of North America, a giant Nature park and playground that will be devoid of annoying human beings (that would be us). And the people actually involved in doing the spraying, as well as those who will take part in the rest of the plans, are being duped into believing they will be spared, that is, permitted to live and remain on this continent as administrators and caretakers of this vast Nature preserve.

I understand that about 150 to 200 thousand people are projected as necessary for maintenance purposes. But it's likely these people will not be Americans. Those in charge wouldn't want to risk the possibility of some sort of revolt, so the workers will probably be brought in from Europe and Asia.

There are rumors floating about the Internet that the chemtrails are part of some sort of secret program the government is doing to protect the US from future biological attacks. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The plan is to sensitize, or condition, the US population to being wiped out by influenza A. Over the past few years, people have been encouraged to get flu shots to protect them against the generally non-lethal strains that circulate through the population during flu season.

Each year the US government has guessed which strains were most likely to spread. They seem to always guess right—don't they? This flu season, the government protected people with a trivalent vaccine that included the A/

Beijing/262/95-like (H1N1) and the A/Sydney/5/97-like (H3N2). It also contained the B/Beijing/184/93-like hemagglutinin antigens. For those not familiar with virology, the H and N refer to proteins on the outside of the virus, the hemagglutinin and neuraminidase, which are responsible for the virus attaching to, and then invading, a host cell. The public has been quite pleased with the success of the vaccines offered so far.

But that will change in the future.

Researchers at the US Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases (or USAMIRDIID) at Fort Detrick in Frederick MD have reconstructed and modified the H1N1 Spanish Flu virus, making it far more deadly than it ever was back when it was responsible for the 1918-1919 flu pandemic that killed over 20 million worldwide and over 500,000 here in the US. Consider that it could have killed many more, but back then, people couldn't hop on a jet and travel from New York to L.A. in five hours. Now, our ability to travel will increase the spread and will be our downfall.

The flu vaccines contain killed virus and protect the body well against challenge by that particular strain, but work poorly against other strains not included in the inoculation. At some point, the vaccine stockpile will include the more lethal modification of the 1918 H1N1 in its live form. Most people receiving this vaccine will simply be renewing their annual flu shot, and the vaccine will still include the inactivated version of the more benign form of H1N1 (as was included in this year's vaccine). The presence of the milder strain in the inoculum will slow down the progression of the more lethal H1N1 form, so people will become sick more slowly—but they will still eventually die. It will just take a few weeks longer.

In the meantime, they will be carriers for the lethal form of the virus, passing it on to everyone with whom they make contact. And as people hear that others are dropping dead from the flu, they will flock to get their own vaccination. And the entire population will be more receptive to infection because their lungs will have been pre-conditioned to guarantee it.

If you will remember back to 1968 and '69, the Hong Kong flu, which was influenza A type H3N2, killed over 30,000 people in the US alone. That was a fortuitous learning event for some because it taught them that the flu could still conceivably be used to wipe out a population. But at the same time, it pointed out the need to precondition the populace so that those who might normally be resistant could be rendered susceptible. Hence the development of the vaccine program and the aerial spraying procedures to condition the population.

The purpose of the chemicals in the chemtrails is to help the viral envelope fuse with lung cells, permitting easier penetration and infection.

But what about those few individuals who don't succumb to the flu? Probability alone demands that there will be some who survive—pockets of the population that are either not reached or somehow (and this is less likely) are resistant to the lethal H1N1 strain. At this point you must also remember that our military personnel have been immunized against a variety of pathogens, including the anthrax bacillus.

For those geographically isolated areas where the flu doesn't do its job, it's a fairly simple matter to lay down anthrax spores and then send in what's left of the military to take care of anyone still breathing. The anthrax spraying will probably come under the guise of a flu protection program to save those still alive after the epidemic. And the military, having been exposed to civilians with the flu, will eagerly await their own flu shots. I should emphasize that this is a last resort scenario. Those orchestrating the plan will not want to use anthrax until all other possibilities are exhausted—this because of the long-term viability of anthrax spores. To scatter them over the countryside would mean the area would be dangerous for use by humans, at least those not vaccinated against the bacteria.

And think about this for a moment: Why do you suppose agencies like Fish and Wildlife are so eager to reintroduce wolves and other species into areas of the country which haven't seen these animals for generations? It's all part of the plan to restore this land to what the elite envision as its early paradise-like state, with wild animals freely roaming the uninhabited plains and forests. Granted, it will take some time to clean up the place and to maybe destroy a lot of small towns that might otherwise be considered a blight on the landscape. But, for the global elite, it will be a small price for us to pay for their enjoyment.

[End quoting]

Of course there is no way to confirm the above information. However, IF this writer has some of the pieces of a bigger scenario, due to a confidential government employment position, then his conscience would likely motivate him to share this information as he has done. Wide publicity is the most effective way to cause an alteration in the plans. Also, be sure and read the eye-opening vaccination items further along in this News Desk. You KNOW the push for vaccinations is more sinister than "merely" the profit margins of the pharmaceutical companies.

DOING AWAY WITH THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE IS RUSE TO REPLACE CONSTITUTION

Senator Wants To Do Away With Electoral College

I may not know as much as the rest of you. But if the Electoral College was established by the 12th Amendment, doesn't this mean that a Constitutional Congress will have to be convened?

And if a Constitutional Congress is convened to do away with the 12th Amendment, do you really think we will have a Constitution left after the Constitutional Congress adjourns?

No, I think the bid to do away with the 12th Amendment is just a ruse to get rid of our Constitution.

[End quoting]

For a long time the crooks in high places have been efforting to create some "situation" wherein the U.S. Constitution could be "adjusted" more to their liking without awakening or alarming the majority of the public to the REAL agenda being carried out. Every time, recently, that this proposal comes up on the evening news to do away with the Electoral College via tinkering with the Constitution, because of an obviously contrived presidential election brawl, one can easily become more and more suspicious.

WATER FLUORIDE TESTS KILL 80% OF RATS BEFORE STUDY FINISHED!

From the INTERNET, <<http://sightings.com>>, 11/12/00: [quoting]

US EPA CONCEALS STUDY RESULTS FROM PUBLIC

By George Glasser
<gtigerclaw@worldnet.att.net>

Couched in an obscure paragraph of a twenty-two page response to the House Committee on Science, Charles Fox, US EPA spokesman wrote:

"In 1999, EPA convened a group of experts to carefully consider the results of the Varner et al. (1998) study. As a result of that conference, EPA has requested that the National Toxicology Program consider the possibility of conducting additional studies of the neurotoxicity of aluminum that include verification of the results observed in the two previous Varner et al. studies."

The initial Varner et al. study was done to see if alum (aluminum sulfate) added to drinking water as a clarifier [makes the water appear clean] would combine with fluoride and penetrate the blood-brain barrier. The results were startling. 80% of the animals in the low-dose range died before the experiment was completed. The dose of fluoride and alum fed to the animals in drinking water was similar to that in artificially fluoridated drinking water. The same results were confirmed in two subsequent studies.

The animals given both aluminum fluoride and sodium fluoride in low doses suffered from significant kidney and brain damage.

The Varner team stated that: "Striking parallels were seen between aluminum-induced alterations" in cerebral blood vessels that are associated with Alzheimer's disease and other forms of presenile dementia. They concluded that the alterations of the blood vessels may be a primary event triggering neuro-degenerative diseases.

Astounded by their results, the researchers also noted in the study: "Not only did the rats in the lowest-dose groups die more often during the experiment, they looked poorly well before their deaths. Even the rats in the lowest-dose group that managed to survive the 45 weeks looked to be in poor health."

The Varner et al. study was a replication of the disturbing results of two previous studies conducted by the same team. Despite these alarming findings, it may take two to three years for the National Toxicology Program to act upon the US EPA request for further research.

This research, as hushed as it was kept, should awaken us to what water fluoridation is all about, if nothing else did. Though the above experimental results are quite a bit more dramatic than other studies and professional opinions opposing fluoridation, there has long been stated a link between the agenda to fluoridate drinking water and the goal of people control through mind control, since a docile mind is an easily controlled mind.

VICTORIOUS!

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by Jerry Myers, 11/13/00: [quoting]

The SPOTLIGHT readers acted quickly to save us from police-state legislation.

Responding quickly to an Emergency Liberty Letter published in The SPOTLIGHT Oct. 30, readers flooded the House of Representatives with phone calls and e-mails and played a major part in stopping passage of police-state legislation lurking in the budget battles.

The Fugitive Apprehension Act (S. 2516) had already sailed through the Senate and would have empowered the attorney general to issue subpoenas without a court order as required by the Fourth Amendment.

Under the defeated legislation, the attorney general could act on a tip ("information") to send federal lawmen into your home or office and seize your personal files, papers, and computer.

They would have been empowered, without

Your friends and neighbors could be subject to the same subpoenas if they pre-alleged to have some knowledge of you.

Carl Thorsen, counsel to the House Judiciary Committee's crime panel, told The SPOTLIGHT that the bill was going to "sit" (die) because congressmen received phone calls and e-mails from constituents concerned about Fourth Amendment rights.

The bill will probably be introduced again in the new Congress to be seated in January, Thorsen said, where the whole legislative process would have to begin anew.

IF SPOTLIGHT SUPPORTERS WRITE OR CALL THEIR CONGRESSMAN THANKING HIM FOR HELPING TO KILL THE LEGISLATION, IT WOULD HELP TO BUILD A DEFENSIVE WALL AGAINST THE LEGISLATION IN THE NEXT CONGRESS [emphasis mine], a congressional source said.

E-mails can be sent conveniently through The SPOTLIGHT's web site at <spotlight.org>. [End quoting]

Have you often wondered how you can help to deal with the crooks in high places without making a big commitment in time or effort? This is certainly something worthy of a little effort to stop a big injustice from becoming law.

FBI MENTORS REACH OUT TO YOUNGSTERS IN VALLEY

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, for 11/9/00: [quoting]

With their right hands raised, 64 children at Pacoima Middle School took an oath Wednesday to obey laws and do their best in school.

And then the children in grades six through eight were sworn in as "Junior Special Agents", as part of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's community outreach effort.

"It's cool and fun and interesting" said eighth-grader Nancy Padilla, 13. "I wish to be an FBI agent or maybe in the CIA. If I can't do that, I'll major in forensic science."

This is the first such program in the San Fernando Valley.

The program, which started two weeks ago, calls for 10 FBI community outreach specialists in the classroom for an hour every two weeks to discuss the importance of staying in school, and the perils of gangs and drugs.

In addition to the mentoring, students are required to complete written assignments that test their memory and awareness skills, and general knowledge of law enforcement issues.

If the kids finish the class successfully, at the end of their school year they will receive Junior Special Agent badges and credentials.

Nancy, the daughter of a factory worker and hospital technician, said the program has inspired her to one day work in law enforcement.

The FBI developed the program 10 years ago in Washington, DC, as a way to help at-risk students become good citizens. Currently, the FBI operates its program at about 80 schools across the nation. Along with Pacoima, authorities have a program in place in Compton. In the coming years, authorities hope to reach out to schools in Watts, Orange County, and the San Gabriel Valley.

"I think it's very important that the kids know there's an outside world" said Pacoima Middle School Assistant Principal Aaron G. Moretzsky. "The importance of contact with the 'real world' is an important ingredient in a child's education." [End quoting]

Well, what better way to filter potential candidates for the FBI (and other agencies) than through such a cover as this scheme? Why wait till they're college age for recruitment? Plant the seeds now, while they're quite young and impressionable.

One of the most important things the CIA does to any new recruit is to run them through a number of levels of mind-control—depending upon what their assignments will be. I'm quite certain the FBI is no different. Once they have been mind-controlled, they no longer can be considered to know what they are really doing—shades of Lee Harvey Oswald, Columbine school children killers, and hundreds of others who commit the assassinations and other dastardly deeds for the crooks in high places.

ON VACCINES AND RELATED MATTERS, IS HILLARY "FOR THE CHILDREN"?

By Phyllis Schlafly

That great national authority on health care and on children, Hillary Rodham Clinton, owes it to her public to give her opinion on two current controversies in New York State. Does she support government-mandated medical treatment of children over the objections of their parents?

In Utica, NY, parents of 77 middle schoolers were warned in October that their children will be taken and turned over to Child Protective Services for neglect unless they are vaccinated against Hepatitis B within two weeks. Yet, there is no emergency, no epidemic of Hepatitis B against which children need to be protected, and no evidence that Hepatitis B is being transmitted at school.

The "emergency" is that the school district will lose a substantial amount of state funding if students do not comply with the vaccine mandate. So school district physician Dr. Mark

Zongrone, giving his financial (not medical) diagnosis, says "We refuse to let that happen."

How did we get to a circumstance in America where a school, for its own financial self-interest, imposes medical treatment on children in opposition to their parents' wishes? Is this America or Nazi Germany?

Hepatitis B is primarily an adult disease spread by multiple sex partners, drug abusers, and those in occupations where they are exposed to blood. Unless the child is born to an infected mother, children under the age of 14 are three times more likely to die or suffer adverse reactions from the Hepatitis B vaccine than to catch the disease itself.

Down the highway in Albany, in September, a family court judge ordered the controversial drug Ritalin to be given to a seven-year-old diagnosed as having ADHD (Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder).

The parents, who had tried Ritalin but wanted to stop it because of adverse effects, were visited by the Albany County Child Protective Services, served with a petition to appear in court, and intimidated into compliance by what was described as "at least the theoretical threat of having their child removed from their custody".

Public schools are increasingly accusing parents of neglect when they refuse to drug their children with Ritalin, and some are fighting back. Two major class-action lawsuits have been filed against the manufacturer of Ritalin, and Britain's National Institute of Clinical Excellence is expected soon to announce strict guidelines for its use and even ban it for children younger than five.

We would be very interested in Hillary Clinton's comments about these New York cases. We would also like to know where she stands on the letter Rep. Dan Burton (R-IN), chairman of the House Committee on Government Reform, wrote to HHS Secretary Donna Shalala on October 25.

His letter was the result of a July 18 hearing about the health dangers from vaccines containing thimerosal (mercury). Babies who are injected with the vaccines specified on the Universal Childhood Immunization Schedule, which are typically delivered in four to six shots during one doctor's visit, may receive 40 times the amount of mercury that is considered safe under Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) guidelines.

An independent evaluation conducted by the National Research Council confirmed the EPA guidelines as accurate, and the FDA's own website states that "lead, cadmium, and mercury are examples of elements that are toxic when present at relatively low levels". Credible testimony was also given regarding the possible relationship between symptoms of mercury poisoning and the skyrocketing rate of autism, now occurring in one in 500 children nationwide.

Requests to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to recall all thimerosal-containing vaccines by Chairman Burton and by parents of vaccine-injured children have so far been ignored. This is despite the fact that the FDA admits that the vaccines on the Childhood Immunization Schedule are all available in a thimerosal-free version.

Apparently, the FDA is not planning to recall any of the 50 thimerosal-containing vaccines but only suggest a “phase out” over time, thus allowing the pharmaceuticals to unload their defective merchandise on unsuspecting children. For years to come, these toxic vaccines will continue to be injected in babies in Public Health Clinics, doctors’ offices, and managed care facilities.

It is unconscionable to continue to put thousands of babies every day at risk from mercury poisoning, especially when the government is recommending use of these vaccines and the schools are making them mandatory, and when safe alternatives are easily available.

Leaving these dangerous vaccines on the market so that the pharmaceuticals can continue to receive revenue from current inventories seems to be the pattern. Even after it was known that oral polio and whole cell pertussis vaccines caused a higher rate of adverse reactions, clinics and doctors continued to use their supplies for years rather than pitch them in favor of safer vaccines.

If there is any reason for HHS and FDA to continue to put thousands of babies at risk from dangerous vaccines other than to protect the profits of the powerful pharmaceuticals, we’d like to know what that might be [done as part of the mass depopulation plan]. What does our great national health care authority, the one who wants the “village” to raise children, have to say about the government’s responsibility for vaccine injuries to children?

We have covered this unconscionable vaccination issue in many past issues of The SPECTRUM. Most recently we carried a special report on page 3 of the last issue—this time announcing that the leading national physicians organization is calling for a moratorium on all government mandated vaccines and vaccinations. What more do you need when even the doctors are getting nervous enough about the pharmaceutical companies’ greed to say “enough is enough”?

But they’re not aware, for the most part, about the Larger Picture, wherein even the pharmaceutical prostitutes are merely agents for administering some of the depopulation poisons disguised as vaccines. Moreover, the crooks in high places are VERY afraid of the children being born into this world right now, often called the Indigo Children, who bring fantastic gifts and powers to help reverse what the crooks have worked so long and hard to create, and thus they have assembled a “special effort” to incapacitate the children.

“FREE TRADE” BACKFIRES IN MEXICO

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by Clayton Potts, 11/20/00: [quoting]

More and more, companies that crossed the Mexican border after passage of NAFTA in search of cheap labor are finding out that the costs of doing business south of the border are too much.

Some internationalists who rushed to close their industries in the United States to exploit cheap labor in Mexico under NAFTA are departing broken-hearted, according to Ted Farrell, who has been involved in business there for 50 years.

Long-standing, entrenched government corruption that extorts entrepreneurs, extensive crime by public officials and private citizens, and workers who toil hard while illegally in the United States but become lazy when sent back to Mexico are among the factors Farrell cited.

Farrell, 71, operates out of Coronado, California and Ensenada, Mexico.

“Many a company from the United States is closing and trying to escape with some of their expensive, movable equipment to avoid confiscation of whatever they have,” Farrell said.

Such departures are usually on “weekends and at night with the help of their lawyers and truckers” Farrell said.

Farrell’s wife, Elisa, said that while Mexico has many unemployed loafers begging, the “help wanted” signs abound.

“It seems that anything more complicated than sewing a T-shirt is cause enough to walk off the job” she said.

One businessman shifted operations from Glendale, California, where his company was producing uniform shirts at a cost of $4.50 each, for labor to Mexico, where he expected to reduce the costs to $3.50 each.

The gentleman said he started off with 300 employees upon opening” she said. “He started with T-shirts, and when he thought he was ready to do uniform shirts, 200 employees walked off because it was too much work.”

“Here in Mexico we cannot find responsible people who will take the work for $3.50 in U.S. currency” she said.

Corruption prevails at the petty level in Mexico, said Farrell.

“When the police needed CB radios, any American caught with one in his vehicle lost it,” he said. “I fought for mine, and, as it was illegal to steal it and with powerful friends, I did not lose mine. But I did move it from my vehicle. These acts are a national custom.”

On one occasion, the government seized a television set belonging to his company, claiming a small tax liability. He paid the tax, but they could not find the TV to return to him. Months later, it was discovered in the home of one of the employees of the agency that had seized it.

Mexicans are unaware “that their nation and military have been passed on to the United Nations” he said.

“Mexico is an oil-producing, oil-exporting nation, yet when the U.S. industrial complex raises prices on oil that the United States is importing, Mexico raises its prices accordingly” he said.

“I say, buy from Iraq and stop murdering that sovereign people” Farrell said.

“There is no way to be honest and survive in business in Mexico; for that reason, the government likes the American factories that come south leaving Americans jobless or working for less” Farrell said.

American entrepreneurs in Mexico who fail to “become close to those in power, or marry into their families, will be putting their plant or factory in the hands of the government” he said. “That is the name of the game.”

While “I disapprove of drugs, if they were legalized the government might go bankrupt because it is heavily involved for immense profits” Farrell said.

A particular extortion involves government utility companies that discover an “unpaid” bill, sit on it while interest rates of 300 percent mount up, then chase down the consumer for payment, Farrell said.

Many Americans cross the border for cheap auto repairs but “if you are not lucky, Mexican authorities will confiscate your vehicle and whatever else you may have” Farrell said.

“They make it so expensive for you to recover your losses that, after many months and trips with attorneys, most Americans just give up and take their loss” Farrell said. [End quoting]

It looks like the elite pulled another big scam on the ones in business who didn’t have enough “correct contacts” before they made the move to Mexico. Think of the fortunes that “someone” made on this scamming of US businessmen who fell for this “get rich quick” deal. Don’t ever think that the big boys didn’t know what would happen to these businessmen without their organized protection.

But then—there is a kind of justice underneath it all, don’t you think, in terms of those businessmen who were focused on profit too single-mindedly above the welfare of stranded employees they left behind in the United States at the time of the move south. The companies that stayed in the United States probably feel a lot better right about now.

JAPAN DOLPHIN KILLING STARTS

Dear All—Please help the dolphins by sending a quick e-mail to the Prime Minister of Japan. Thank you!

THE HUNT IS ON

JAPAN'S DOLPHIN SLAUGHTER IS ON AGAIN

Officials instruct: "Keep out of public view"

The slaughter of dolphins by Japanese fishermen for sale to commercial markets for human and domestic animal consumption resumed this month.

Warned by the Japan Fisheries Agency to "keep dolphin killings out of public view", those conducting the "drive fisheries" at coastal towns once waited until after dark to herd dolphins into shore, trap them in nets, and slaughter them, and claimed the dolphins had beached themselves. In October 1999, Japan's Whale and Dolphin Action Network (IKAN), caught a daylight dolphin drive on videotape at the port of Futo. When the tape was shown at the annual meeting of the International Whaling Commission in Adelaide, Australia, last June, the Japanese delegation walked out.

"Japan's dolphin hunt kicked into high gear in 1986, the year the ban on commercial whaling went into effect" said Paul Watson, president of Sea Shepherd International. "Japan is steadily hunting its coastal cetacean populations to extinction. By 1995, a single species—Dall's porpoise—was being taken at a rate of 17,000 per year. Hundreds of boats are licensed to kill, and they have severely depleted, in sequence, populations of striped dolphins, pilot whales, beaked whales, and Dall's porpoise."

The crossbow and hand harpoon fishery kills 10,000-15,000 dolphins and porpoises annually. The drive fisheries, killing 1,000-2,000 dolphins, are driven by the dolphin captivity industry, which pays fishermen up to $30,000 each for a few live dolphins for aquariums and amusement parks, with the rest of the captured pods consigned to slaughter. The hunts take place every year between October and April.

A recent Environmental Investigation Agency report revealed that Japan has killed more than 400,000 dolphins and small cetaceans over the last 20 years.

"There's no control and no enforcement" said Andrew Christie, information director for Sea Shepherd International. "Japan routinely ignores resolutions by the International Whaling Commission to at least reduce the slaughter to the point where its numbers do not threaten the existence of the targeted species. The federal government passes along responsibility for quota enforcement to the local prefectures where the drive hunts take place, and the prefectures pass responsibility to the fishing cooperatives, which consist of the fishermen who do the killing. They promptly report to the government that they are not killing too many dolphins."

ACTIONS TO TAKE : (1) Send a fax to Japan Prime Minister Yoshiro Mori: (0) 81-3-5511-8855; (2) or send him an e-mail from this website: <<http://www.ijnet.or.jp/sorifu/kantei/foreign/comment.html>> and also send to: <ldp@hq.jimin.or.jp>, Liberal Democratic Party of Japan; (3) Fax the Embassy of Japan in Washington, DC: (202) 265-9482 (in USA). These are very special creatures who serve a much needed purpose in terms of planetary stability. Japan would be wise to consider the precarious geological conditions under which it remains afloat and then consider treating these awesome beings with respect and appreciation.

TELL BIG BROTHER TO GET OUT OF OUR WASHING MACHINES

From the INTERNET, "Janine Hansen" <info@nevadafamilies.org>, 12/3/00: [quoting]

By Phyllis Schlafly

Few changes in our society have done as much to liberate women from the drudgery of "women's work" as the washing machine. American ingenuity and the private enterprise system combined to provide us with a wide variety of models of this convenient labor-saving appliance, the envy of women all over the world.

Some 81 million households are equipped with washing machines and 10 million are bought every year. But Big Brother Busybodies in the Clinton-Gore Administration want to take off the market the models that Americans have been buying, and then force us to change to a style the environmental extremists claim will reduce global warming.

This is the same Administration that sanctimoniously espouses "a woman's right to choose". But it wants to deny us the right to choose the kind of washing machine that sales data prove we prefer.

In a back room deal without consumers or taxpayers present, the Clinton-Gore environmentalists conspired with industry to mandate the manufacture of only front-loading, instead of top-loading, washing machines. The mandate requires elimination of the agitator which is the element that washes our clothes.

Front-loading washers are available now, but they make up less than 12% of sales. So Big Brother's attitude is, let's force people to buy front-loading washers.

On October 5, the Department of Energy (DOE) proposed two new regulations, one for clothes washers and the other for residential air conditioners and heat pumps. Not many homemakers make a practice of reading notices in the Federal Register, and the 60-day comment period will expire just as households are busy getting ready for Christmas.

DOE Secretary Bill Richardson had the nerve to issue a press release claiming the new regulation will bring "big savings for consumers and the environment". However, the regulations will actually add $240 to the price of a clothes washer, $274 to the price of a residential central air conditioner, and $486 to the price of a residential heat pump.

In addition, a load of laundry will take about 10 minutes longer to wash than in ordinary washers, and will require a special detergent. If the housewife uses her ordinary detergent, it over-suds; if she cuts back on the amount, her clothes won't get clean.

The reason for these mandates is that the Gore-style environmentalists want to reduce the amount of water and electricity Americans use in order to comply with United Nations treaties about energy, even if the United States hasn't ratified them. And they don't care how much this costs consumers or how much it reduces our standard of living.

Where does the Department of Energy (DOE) get the authority to upset housewives all over America with these draconian rules? A 1987 law, the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act, authorized the DOE to impose efficiency standards in order to reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil. The Clinton-Gore environmentalists are trying to exploit this law to implement the Kyoto Protocol on Global Warming, a treaty so extreme that the Senate has refused to ratify it.

These regulations come from the same mindset of the bureaucrats who in 1992 banned the sale of toilets that use more than 1.6 gallons of water per flush. Today there is a flourishing black market in old-style toilets because the new toilets simply can't carry out the mission assigned to toilets.

The 1.6-gallon toilets don't help the environment, either, because it usually take two flushes to do the job that the old-style toilets can accomplish with one flush.

Don't look to big business to defend us from the federal environmentalists who are now licking their chops at the prospect of dictating all our energy use if Al Gore is elected President. The appliance manufacturers are glad to support the new rule to force us to buy the more expensive front-loading washing machines that otherwise don't sell.

One manufacturer said, "selling it in the marketplace is easy if there's a [government] standard in place". A press release from Whirlpool "commends" DOE for requiring Americans to buy and use the more expensive energy-efficiency appliances "because consumers have historically shown a disinclination to pay more for products that are more environmentally friendly."

The manufacturers have also been induced to go along because the White House is proposing a tax credit for appliance manufacturers who cooperate with these regulations. This washing machine mandate is a good example of the anti-free-market, high-tax-regime that would be imposed by the Gore environmentalists who truly believe that government knows best, even about such things as how to wash our clothes.

At this late date in the congressional session, the only practical step citizens can take is to demand that Congress append an amendment to any piece of must-go legislation to order DOE to extend the public comment time until those of us who actually use washing machines have time to register our objections. Call your Members of Congress today.

[End quoting]

Here is yet another test to see if the sheep are yet docile enough for complete control of our lives. What's next to be done "on our behalf" since we can't make choices for ourselves? The appliance repair people are probably smiling also, since front-loading washers have always been notoriously prone to problems from leaks around the door gaskets to bad bearings which mean major repair surgery. And then—dare we mention it—there will spring up a thriving "black market" in the old-style washers!

"TOILET TOTALITARIANISM" FLUSHED BY AMERICANS

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by F.C. Blahut, 11/20/00: [quoting]

Every cloud has a silver lining. Americans against government interference are using an international trade agreement against Washington's bureaucrats.

More and more Americans are lining up at plumbing supply stores just across the U.S. border in Canada to purchase toilets with a 3.5 gallon tank capacity. Then they bring them back and install them into their homes.

It's a reaction to a "Big Brother Knows What's Good For You" decision by the environmental bureaucrats in Washington who, some six years ago, decided toilets were using too much water.

Their solution? Limit the capacity of toilet tanks to 1.6 gallons.

The obvious problem with the 1.6 gallon toilet tanks is that they don't work sufficiently well.

U.S. toilet makers, such as American Standard, Mansfield, Kohler, and Eljer, have been using the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) to make the larger capacity toilets only for export.

But there is no law stopping Americans from driving across the border into Canada, buying the big ones, and bringing them back to the United States.

Of course they aren't permitted in new homes, so if some overzealous bureaucrat catches you—or your contractor—the fine is $100 per commode. And then you have to put in the little ones.

But resistance is growing in the United States against government intrusion into your bathroom.

"Why do I need the government to tell me what kind of toilet to buy?" Linda Walton told Water News.

The Waltons (parents and two sons) had traveled more than five hours from their home in Indianapolis to Windsor, Ontario, to get a toilet that works.

According to reports, they are far from alone. Canadian border towns from New Brunswick to British Columbia now offer what one Vancouver plumber has called "Canuck commodes".

According to Water News, the Indianapolis family was shopping at Windsor's Veteran Plumbing and Supplies "conveniently located only two blocks from the mouth of the tunnel from Detroit".

Some of the toilets carry a sticker saying "For Export From The U.S. Only".

Made in the U.S., the toilets are shipped to Canada, where at least half of them, according to informal surveys, are sold to Americans and come back south—across the border.

Kurt Sutts, the owner of Veteran Plumbing, told Water News: "It is legal for Americans to bring them back home."

Of course, a new home in the United States won't pass inspection with a large capacity toilet. But many Americans, with bureaucrats' inspections behind them, indulge in what has come to be known along the border as "toilet swapping".

Tim Harmon, the owner of Tim & Billy's Salvage Store in Indianapolis, said: "We have people building million-dollar houses, but they come in here to buy an old toilet".

Harmon added: "Everybody complains about the new ones. The biggest argument that you hear is that you have to flush it two or three times, so who's saving water?" Good question.

One Michigan home-builder, Mario Muglia, said that about one-quarter of his clients insist on old-style toilets.

And, in a membership survey by the National Association of Home Builders, almost half said the new toilets were a problem.

And more Americans are fighting what one radio personality calls "toilet totalitarianism", boasting that he went overseas to acquire illegal toilets for his home.

It isn't a trivial problem, insists Rep. Joe Knollenberg (R-MI), who is sponsoring legislation to restore toilet choice.

The congressman reportedly assailed Washington for imposing a one-size-fits-all toilet on the entire nation.

According to Knollenberg's aide, Paul Welday: "We found that we had a number of constituents who were crossing the bridge to get those toilets."

He says the congressman has received support from all across the nation and expects the measure to come up again during the next legislative session. [End quoting]

Again we see the hand of Big Brother attempting to herd the sheep. The problem here for the bureaucrats is that this matter becomes such a daily annoyance to so many of the sheep that it becomes, in essence, a constant reminder to the sheep of what happens when government takes free-will choice out of the hands of those sheep—so it's likely to backfire and wake a few of them up!

BATTERY BATTLE

From POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, for December 2000: [quoting]

We love our digital cameras, PDAs, and portable CD players—until they run out of juice at the wrong moment. To keep these high-drain devices running longer, Energizer and Duracell have developed new alkaline batteries that, they claim, last 50 to 80 percent longer than regular alkalines.

Energizer's E2 unlocks more power with improved cell construction and a unique titanium compound that facilitates the flow of electrons. Duracell's Ultra M3 improves performance by reducing inert materials, which frees up more space for fuel. Duracell also reformulated the remaining battery compounds for better electron flow.

So are the E2 and Ultra M3 worth the 30 percent premium you'll pay over regular alkaline batteries? We tested them against non-premium Rayovac Max AA alkaline batteries in a Kodak DC3800 2.1-megapixel digital camera, shooting in dark areas so the flash was used each time, until each battery was completely drained.

The results: 301 shots with the E2, 293 with the Ultra M3, and 184 with the Rayovac Max—or roughly 60 percent more shots with the premiums. While the difference between the E2 and Ultra M3 was negligible, the Energizer E2 earns bonus points for its nifty reclosable plastic carrying case. — Jill C. Shomer [End quoting]

Advances in battery technology have suspiciously lagged quite a bit behind advances in other areas of electronics. One wonders if this latest development is simply a "table scrap" thrown our way while the REAL advances are held in secret. Regardless, the above is some good information just in time for all those Holiday gadgets and other toys that eat up a lot of batteries.

A VIOLENT BIRTH FOR THE BLACK DEATH

Excerpted from POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, December 2000: [quoting]

Long associated with immediate death and widespread destruction, volcanos may have played a far more ominous and subtle role throughout human history; they may have also triggered the spread of catastrophic plagues, including the Black Death, or bubonic plague, which originated in Mesopotamia in the 11th century.

Based on historical records, ice-core samples, and tree-ring data, climatologist Richard Stothers at the Goddard Institute for Space Studies in New York has linked incidences of plague to volcanic events. He discovered that each of the seven largest eruptions of the past 2,000 years spewed at least 100 megatons of sulfurous gases into the stratosphere, where they combined with water vapor to create sulfuric acid particles called aerosols.

As this aerosol curtain spread across the atmosphere, it screened out much of the Sun's radiation and caused the northern jet stream to shift south, which ferried cold polar air to the temperate latitudes of Europe and the Middle East, the data suggest. "This aerosol veil created a cooler, more humid environment" explains Stothers. During the past two millennia, these unusual weather patterns allowed Yersinia Pestis, the plague bacillus, to steamroll across Europe and the Middle East within five years of at least five eruptions, he adds. [End quoting]

Considering the supposedly "inside" information shared early in this News Desk related to the chemtrails sprayings, one wonders if this volcano "hypothesis" is yet another smoke-screen excuse that will get the blame for what will actually be purposeful biological warfare waged upon we-the-people to decimate most of the world's population.

The elite have always had the means to wage biological warfare when they chose to do so. They've had access to (and hidden away) many ancient records of historical data and advanced technical information.

They caused the World War I flu epidemic, they spread smallpox to decimate the Indians through dispensing free blankets "to keep them warm"—laced with smallpox, etc. See the long list of some of their "accomplishments" under the article titled "A Short History Of Secret Human Biological Experiments" as presented in the last issue of The SPECTRUM.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT WORKS YOU OVER

From THE IDAHO OBSERVER, for

Big Boy/Big Brother

A young Spokane, Washington girl named "Spuds McKenzie" almost turned 18 and received a notice in the mail that it is time for her to register for the draft. The girl filled out a form from Bob's Big Boy on North Division Street so that she could get a free hamburger on her 12th birthday. When she filled out the form, she falsified her name to Spuds McKenzie (remember Budweiser beer's "party animal" bull terrier?) and stated her birthday to be two weeks earlier than it actually was.

Six year later, "Spuds" received the reminder in the mail on the birthdate she recorded on the form for a free birthday burger.

How about that? Fast food restaurants are now working for Big Brother as intelligence-gathering operatives.

$1.9 Trillion

In mid October, just driving down the road listening to KXLY talk radio out of Spokane, Washington, I heard the ABC newsman, Doug Limerick, say that some semi-official source had tallied the combined total government employees' retirement funds and it equals $1.9 trillion.

This figure was EXCLUDING federal government employee retirement funds.

Limerick reported that it was speculated that the incredible expansion of the stock market has allowed government employee retirement funds to be so stuffed with cash.

What about the Social Security trust fund? Presidential hopefuls Gore and George Bush, Jr., agree that we must save Social Security.

What a mockery of the American people. While Congress has allowed the tax-paid bureaucrats of this nation to spend the Social Security trust fund into insolvency, they have jealously protected and padded their own retirement funds to the point that the amount of money it holds isn't even a real number, it is so astronomical.

"Code Of Ethics For Government Service"

I was recently furnished with a copy of a document that, at least as of five years ago, was being given to those who hire on as federal employees. Entitled "Code Of Ethics For Government Service", the document was agreed to by the 85th Congress in the form of Concurrent Resolution 175 and fits on one letter-sized sheet of paper. "The Code applies to all government employees and office holders" the document states.

It begins by stating in bold letters that "Any person in government service should: "Put loyalty to the highest moral principles and to country above loyalty to persons, party, or government department.”

It then goes on to tell its minions to “Uphold the Constitution, laws, and legal regulations of the United States and all governments therein and never be a party to their evasion.”

The document outlines several other very noble things that do not seem to occupy the minds of most federal employees. The last three are really noble:

- “Never use any information coming to him confidentially, in the performance of governmental duties, as a means of making private profit;

- “Expose corruption wherever discovered;

- “Uphold these principles, ever conscious that public office is a public trust.”

How about that for a “how the government works (you over)” piece? [End quoting]

What do you think? There must surely be a lot of guilty consciences among government employees. And if we focus on Congress, we’re left with Mark Twain’s observation of a century ago, that: “There is no distinctly native, American criminal class—except Congress.”

ENERGY BILLS GOING WILD

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, for 11/5/00: [quoting]

SAN DIEGO—Gov. Gray Davis and the state’s top energy regulators urged federal authorities Tuesday to order refunds and immediate price controls in California’s troubled deregulated electricity market.

The governor told the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission that it has broad authority to order rebates, impose price and bid limits on power sales, and make other changes “to nurse this marketplace into equilibrium.”

[End quoting]

The public utility energy problems that California is now having will be a problem for the rest of the US if we all don’t protest now! California is often used as a test-case for many of the elite’s more outrageous scams. And for a lot of you readers who reside in California, you know first-hand about the soaring electricity bills you’ve been receiving in recent months, starting with the nonsense in San Diego which led to riots many months ago.

Those fortunate enough to be “off the grid” (or even partially so) will better appreciate the REAL value of their alternative energy systems as this calculated energy-deregulation scam kicks into high gear—where “accidental” power outages may compound the misery of artificially high utility bills.

THE TRUTH THAT NO ONE WANTS TO ACKNOWLEDGE

From A READER, 10/27/00: [quoting]

What is the truth that no one wants to acknowledge? Could it be that we are living in a world of the blind and the crippled? Could it be that our so-called modern civilization has now entered the terminal stage of decadence? Could it be that everywhere we look, whether it be education, medicine, or government, what we see are unenlightened experts who, after offering to solve our problems for a fee, invariably create more problems to be solved? Is it not then a choice between compassion and laughter?

In Love’s pure Light, A.H. [End quoting]

As more people come to recognize the Truth in the words above, maybe their will be a third choice: action. That’s the test in progress at this time on schoolroom Earth.

TWO SCHOOLS BAN POPULAR ENERGY DRINKS

Excerpted from THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 11/13/00: [quoting]

BURBANK, CA—Students in Burbank High School English classes took pen to paper to call attention to a possible problem with energy enhancing drinks, after three local students went to the hospital after drinking them.

School officials said two student athletes fainted at John Burroughs High School last month after consuming an energy drink; they were both unconscious for several minutes and had to be taken to the emergency room.

As a result, administrators at Burbank High School and Burroughs decided to ban the beverages from the campuses although they weren’t sold at school.

When Burbank High School English teacher Kim Kosach told her classes about the ban, one girl said she, too, had to be out of school for a few days when she fainted after drinking one.

Fired up, more than 70 of Kosach’s students wrote letters to support the ban and ask merchants not to sell them to minors.

In her letter, Carolyn Davidian said the issue should be taken very seriously, the products should be tested and regulated.

“The stores that sell these drinks should put some kind of warning label for kids and have IDs checked” she wrote. “We’re supposed to go to school, not miss school because of energy drinks that make us ill.”

Kosach said she was surprised at the reaction when she read the memo to her classes.

“I thought they would think it was dumb or really lame that this fuss was being made” Kosach said. “I thought to them it would just be another thing we’re not allowed to have at school, when in fact, they were really concerned.” [End quoting]

Since any specific brand names were not mentioned (probably on the advice of newspaper lawyers more concerned about profit margins and lawsuits than public health), we are left with a vague caution to keep in mind concerning ALL such drinks. Too bad the local water is likely to be no more safe to drink than are these concoctions!

SHAKEN BABY SYNDROME OR ADVERSE VACCINE REACTION?

Excerpted from NEXUS magazine, <<http://www.nexusmagazine.com>> Nov.-Dec. 2000: [quoting]

To loving, caring parents, the act of child abuse is abhorrent. However, it must be recognised that child abuse has occurred in the past and inevitably will occur in the future. Medical professionals have the unenviable task of establishing, by applying sound medical practice and scientific evidence, if child abuse has in fact occurred.

Shaken Baby Syndrome (SBS) was described in medical literature in the early 1970s but was recognised as a form of severe child abuse as far back as 1860. It is a collective term for internal head injuries which a baby or young child may sustain from:

(a) being violently shaken (child abuse);

(b) a combination of medical problems exacerbated by a serious vaccine adverse event;

(c) a lone serious vaccine adverse event.

According to New Scientist, researchers may be on the way to identifying a biochemical signature that can help distinguish between brain injuries caused by accidents and those resulting from violent abuse. Whilst this research may identify SBS, it may not identify underlying medical problems which have been exacerbated by a serious vaccine adverse event or a lone serious vaccine adverse event.

Unless sound scientific evidence is initiated swiftly to diagnose the difference, parents could find themselves in the position of a father in Sydney, Australia, who in 1995 was charged with the murder of his child.

VACCINATIONS: THE FACTS!

Excerpted from the INTERNET, <<http://sightings.com>>, 11/14/00: [quoting]

<<http://www.alanlam.demon.co.uk/vac2.htm>>

Immune System FACT: Vaccines trick the body into focusing on only one aspect, antibody production, of the many normally available to the immune system. When the vaccine virus is injected directly into the blood stream, it gains access to all of the major tissues and organs of the body without triggering a normal immune response. Antibodies that do respond to the invading vaccine germs become committed to those germs and are unable to react to other viruses.

FACT: The immune system is designed to help the organism discriminate "self" from potentially dangerous "nonself". Alien viruses injected into the body fuse with healthy cells, and continue to replicate along with those cells. Under these circumstances, the immune system is likely to either invade its own cells (cancer), or ignore danger signs all together, leaving the body vulnerable.

FACT: The thymus gland plays an essential role in the immune response against germs and non-human proteins, making T-cells, protecting against diseases. When autopsies were performed on vaccinated Americans, it was found that the thymus gland had shrunk after puberty, while there was little deterioration in the thymus gland of adults in poorly vaccinated countries. Thymus gland abnormalities are associated with many diseases and tumors.

Contamination FACT: The Simian monkey kidneys, used as the bases for the polio vaccine in the 1950s and 1960s, were found to be contaminated with the SV-40 virus. SV-40 is a powerful immunosuppressor and trigger for HIV—the name given to the AIDS virus. Researchers consider it to be a cancer-causing virus. The greatest spread of HIV coincides with the most intense and recent smallpox vaccination campaigns, which activated the dormant contaminated polio vaccine. The polio vaccine today can still be contaminated with an undetected strain of monkey virus.

Side Effects FACT: The principle cause of encephalitis, in the USA and other industrialised countries, is the childhood vaccination programme. Encephalitis is the inflammation of the brain affecting the central nervous systems. Subtle and often overlooked reactions to the vaccine (a slight fever, fussiness, drowsiness) can be a case of encephalitis which is capable of causing severe neurological complications months or even years later.

FACT: Medicine accepts that the rubella vaccine can cause long- or short-term arthritis. Wellcome notes in The Datasheet Compendium say that the rubella vaccine causes arthritis in 3% of the children and 12-20% of adult women who receive it. As many as 26% of children receiving rubella vaccinations in national testing programs developed arthritis. Some were hospitalised to test for rheumatic fever and rheumatoid arthritis.

Non-Efficacy FACT: In the Philippines, the largest smallpox epidemic occurred between 1917 and 1919, in which there were 162,503 cases and 71,453 deaths. All cases were vaccinated.

FACT: In England, smallpox vaccinations were made compulsory in 1853. Between 1863 and 1865, the population rose 7% and the death rate rose by 41%. Between 1870 and 1872, the population rose 9% and the death rate from smallpox rose 123%.

FACT: Following the introduction of compulsory immunisation, the incidence of diphtheria increased by 30% in France, 55% in Hungary, 200% in Switzerland, and 625% in Germany. In Sweden, diphtheria virtually disappeared without immunisation.

FACT: Germany began compulsory diphtheria vaccinations in 1939. After that country was thoroughly vaccinated, cases of the disease skyrocketed to 150,000. France initially rejected diphtheria vaccinations because of the disasters she witnessed in other countries due to its use. But after the German occupation, France was forced into submitting to the shots. By 1943, cases of diphtheria in that country had soared to nearly 47,000. At the same time, in nearby Norway, which refused vaccinations, there were only 50 cases.

Children FACT: Toxic materials (vaccines) injected into an infant's bloodstream at only two months old destroy critical nutrient stores and can catastrophically damage the baby's still developing central nervous system. By the mid-1970s, Japanese officials realised early DPT shots were, in fact, killing babies.

FACT: Cot Death or SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome), has been linked to the DPT vaccine. Dr. William Torch, of the Nevada School of Medicine, issued a report showing that two-thirds of 103 children who died of SIDS had been immunised with DPT vaccine in the 3 weeks before their deaths, many dying within a day of the vaccine.

Cholera FACT: It is generally recognised that there is no satisfactory cholera vaccine. The product available up to the present has been largely a public relations gambit. So distrusted is the current vaccine that the medical authorities didn't bother to rush the drug to Peru during the outbreak there in 1991.

FACT: Certain vaccines, such as that given for cholera, are known to be of no value, and the emphasis in general practice should really shift more towards proper advice, which can often be more time consuming than injections.

Bad Medicine FACT: In England, the National Health Service pays a "bonus" to doctors with documented vaccination rates above specified percentages. Doctors who vaccinate the largest percentage of patients on their books stand to gain the most, while those who exercise greater discretion in the administration of vaccines, or who are willing to support parents who do not wish their children to be immunised, are financially penalised.

FACT: Scientific literature recommends not giving the pertussis vaccine if the child is ill with anything, including a runny nose, cough, ear infection, diarrhea, or has recovered from an illness within one month before a scheduled DPT shot, or if the child has a personal or family history of severe allergies (i.e., cow's milk, asthma, eczema).

FACT: The Department of Health admitted that if a person has been vaccinated, it has a bearing on the accurate diagnosis of subsequent diseases. This means that for a person who has been vaccinated, the diagnosis of subsequent diseases could be diagnosed as something else (examples include chickenpox, pustular eczema, varioloid and monkeypox).

If you go to the website, you'll find a long list of references from which this alarming sample was extracted—also more information.

Certainly we've given you enough information to make it very clear that vaccinations are a source of much well-founded skepticism—even without the medical revolt we reported in the last issue of The SPECTRUM.

If you want to stay healthy overall, it's best that you pursue more constructive avenues to keep your immune system healthy. Back in the December 1999 issue of The SPECTRUM we presented a dynamite lecture from the well-known Dr. Richard Schulze, titled: "Get Well! How To Create Powerful Health. 20 Steps To A New Healthy Life." That's a very good place to start, if you need a New Year's resolution to work on!

CIA OVERSEES "WAR ON AIDS"

From NEXUS magazine, <http://

> Nov.-Dec. 2000: [quoting]

On 30 April, the Washington Post announced a National Security Agency (NSA) move to place AIDS science, and all public health agencies conducting it, under the command of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Curiously, this move follows South African President Thabo Mbeki's decision to include the testimonies of "dissident" scientists in his country's review of HIV/AIDS treatment practices and the epidemic's origin.

President Clinton, advised by the National Intelligence Council (NIC) to formally declare global AIDS a US "national security threat", signed this policy into law. The action foreshadows the likely persecution, if not incarceration or assassination, of "dissident" AIDS scientists.

The CIA warned in its report to the President and press: "The persistent infectious disease burden is likely to aggravate and, in some cases, may even provoke economic decay, social fragmentation, and political destabilization in the hardest-hit countries."

The study defined "instability" as revolutionary wars, ethnic wars, genocides and disruptive regime transitions. Dramatic declines in life expectancy, the study said, are the strongest risk factor for "such threats to national security".

Killing two birds with one stone—promoting vaccination and medication—the propagandist report stated that such threats and "deterioration" might be followed by "limited improvement...owing to better prevention and control efforts, new drugs, and vaccines."

Given the potentially grave socio-economic, political, and now military implications of uncovering a vaccine-industry-linked cause of AIDS, future publications and open dialogue regarding this hypothesis in the mainstream and scientific media may be increasingly difficult to achieve.

(Source: By Dr. Leonard Horowitz, Idaho Observer, USA, July 2000) [End quoting]

Does it strike you as being just a little bit strange that the CIA would now be put in charge of overseeing the AIDS program? Unless there is something very, very, very big to hide.

HOMESCHOOLING AT RISK?

From the INTERNET, <<http://www.militiaofmontana.com>> 10/30/00:

[quoting]

Tony Esolen, State Coordinator

Rhode Island Guild of Home Teachers

I would like to pass along some urgent information. The Democratic Party has now aligned itself squarely against homeschooling and parental rights. The Democratic National Committee's website (www.dnc.org), endorsed by Al Gore, attacks Republican Presidential nominee George W. Bush for being "soft" on homeschooling. That same website parrots the agenda of the NEA, the nation's biggest teachers' union, insisting that all teachers of all children should be required to possess state certification.

That requirement would KILL homeschooling. It renews the threat of HR-6, which homeschoolers helped to kill in 1994. That bill would have required the same thing, state certification. That means, unless you spend many thousands of dollars and several years taking courses in how to teach, you will not be able to teach your child at home.

That bill passed through the House Education Committee with every Democrat voting for it, and every Republican voting against it. George Miller (D-CA), then chairman of that committee, will become its chairman again if the Democrats win control of the House, and has vowed to reintroduce the bill. This time, the Democrats would not be facing the imminent disaster they faced in the 1994 elections, when Bill Clinton was at his lowest in popularity. They will have little to fear.

IT IS DISHEARTENING TO ME THAT A MAJOR POLITICAL PARTY IN THE UNITED STATES SHOULD SO BLITHELY ATTACK THE FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOM OF THE FAMILY.

It is disheartening, but not surprising. I teach at an American college; I know the left very well. The Democratic Party is now wholly controlled by the left—by people who believe that the state, not the family, is the basic institution of society. That is why the left wants taxpayer-financed day care.

Former feminist, now Christian professor Elizabeth Genovese, warns that public funded daycare is the next arena of assault on the traditional family, and will make it more and more difficult for tax-strapped families to keep the mother in the home, and more and more economically enticing to leave children with others.

That is why the left wants to destroy the Boy Scouts. President Clinton's Justice Department recently decided to examine whether the Boy Scouts should be banned from National Parks, because of their refusal to admit homosexual scoutmasters.

Homosexuals do not mince words when they assert that the traditional family, and traditional manhood and womanhood, must be overcome. That is why they despise homeschooling.

John Taylor Gatto has written a long article on the fight one small Vermont village had when the last one-room, public schoolhouse in the state tried to stay alive. The powerful Vermont chapter of the NEA crushed them.

When the left cannot abide even a traditional PUBLIC school, what makes us think they will be friendlier with us homeschoolers? To a tyrant, any deviation from conformity, no matter how apparently small, is a threat that must be wiped out. We homeschoolers have for a Presidential candidate the governor of the most homeschooling-friendly state in the country, opposed by a party that has cast its lot with: the NEA, the feminists, who despise the traditional family, want nationalized curricula designed to teach children what they should believe.

NOW IS NOT THE TIME TO BE COMPLACENT. NOW IS NOT THE TIME TO SAY "I DON'T UNDERSTAND POLITICS!" OR "WHY SHOULD I VOTE FOR THE LESSER OF TWO EVILS?"

The choice is acutely clear. When will we get another opportunity like the present? Hillary Clinton once compared the traditional family to SLAVERY. And so I urge you, contact your friends and relatives in other states—those who are friendly to homeschooling.

Ask them to consider, this year, whether the freedom of the family is worth preserving. This election will be close! Of course you must vote as your conscience dictates. But I pray that you will think of homeschooling as a touchstone—as a way of telling what the two parties, and the two Presidential nominees, stand for.

Yours, Tony Esolen, State Coordinator,
Rhode Island Guild of Home Teachers

For those of you who keep the Larger Picture in mind, note that the crooks in high places are going after any and all means of avoiding the blatant mind-control people-programming war that is being waged on many levels, from the evening news programs to the classroom. This upcoming generation of Indigo Children so frightens the power elite that they are really clamping down through such as the use of the Ritalin drug and the elimination of home schooling.

Interesting data is starting to emerge at the university level from those young adults who were home schooled. They tend to be much better students—more independently motivated and better focused, as well as more likely to pursue unconventional, demanding, creative majors such as combining concert pianist with computer programming. And the social "backwardness" that was predicted to plague them just has not materialized. Moreover, they tend to mesh better with adults (and thus integrate better with society) and be far less susceptible to peer-pressure "herd mentality" behavior.

Needless to say, none of these traits are helpful to cultivating docile sheep who do not question the world around them! Thus the attack on home schooling by the crooks in high places. Too bad the author of the message is naive to the utter puppetry of EITHER presidential candidate; home schooling will be a target of attack REGARDLESS of who is in the White House.

THANKSGIVING

From the INTERNET, Jon Galt, <justicus@gci.net>, 11/18/00: [quoting]

If you woke up this morning with more health than illness—you are more blessed than the one million who will not survive this week.

If you have never experienced the danger of battle, the loneliness of imprisonment, the agony of torture, or the pangs of starvation—you are ahead of 500 million people in the world.

If you can attend a church or synagogue without fear of harassment, arrest, torture, or death—you are more blessed than three billion people in the world.

If you have food in the refrigerator, clothes on your back, a roof overhead, and a place to sleep—you are richer than 75% of this world.

If you have money in the bank, in your wallet, and spare change in a dish someplace—you are among the top 8% of the world's wealthy.

If your parents are still alive and still married—you are very rare, even in the United States.

If you hold up your head with a smile on your face and are truly thankful—you are blessed because the majority can, but most do not.

If you can hold someone's hand, hug them, or even touch them on the shoulder—you are blessed because you can offer a healing touch.

If you can read this message, you just received a double blessing in that someone was thinking of you, and furthermore, you are more blessed than over two billion people in the world who cannot read at all.

Have a good day, count your blessings, and pass this along to remind everyone else how blessed we all are. [End quoting]

Despite all the negative news circulating around, we should never forget to thank God that most of us reading this still have some blessed freedoms compared to many other of this Earth's inhabitants.

A LITTLE GIRL'S PRAYER

From THE IDAHO OBSERVER owner and editor, "Ingri Cassel" <vaclib@dmi.net>, November 2000: [quoting]

A TRUE TALE FROM AFRICA

Helen Roseveare, a missionary doctor from England to Zaire, Africa, told this as it happened to her in Africa. She told it in her testimony on Wednesday night at Thomas Road Baptist Church. The next Wednesday night Jerry Falwell choked up and said: "I almost feel guilty for standing in the pulpit after the one who spoke here last week."

READ it. You will have goose bumps and weep with joy:

One night I had worked hard to help a mother in the labor ward; but in spite of all we could do, she died, leaving us with a tiny premature baby and a crying two-year-old daughter. We would have difficulty keeping the baby alive, as we had no incubator. (We had no electricity to run an incubator.) We also had no special feeding facilities.

Although we lived on the equator, nights were often chilly with treacherous drafts. One student midwife went for the box we had for such babies and the cotton wool the baby would be wrapped in. Another went to stoke up the fire and fill a hot water bottle. She came back shortly in distress to tell me that in filling the bottle, it had burst. Rubber perishes easily in tropical climates. "And it is our last hot water bottle!" she exclaimed.

As in the West, it is no good crying over spilled milk, so in Central Africa it might be considered no good crying over burst water bottles. They do not grow on trees, and there are no drugstores down forest pathways. "All right" I said, "put the baby as near the fire as you safely can, and sleep between the baby and the door to keep it free from drafts. Your job is to keep the baby warm."

The following noon, as I did most days, I went to have prayers with any of the orphanage children who chose to gather with me. I gave the youngsters various things to pray about and told them about the tiny baby. I explained our problems about keeping the baby warm enough, mentioning the hot water bottle. The baby could so easily die if it got chills. I also told them of the two-year-old sister, crying because her mother had died.

During the prayer time, one ten-year-old girl, Ruth, prayed with the usual blunt inciseness of our African children. "Please, God" she prayed, "send us a water bottle. It'll be no good tomorrow, God, as the baby will be dead, so please send it this afternoon." While I gasped inwardly at the audacity of the prayer, she added by way of a corollary: "And while You are about it, would You please send a dolly for the little girl so she'll know You really love her?"

As often with children's prayers, I was put on the spot. Could I honestly say "Amen"? I just did not believe that God could do this. Oh, yes, I know that He can do everything. The Bible says so. But there are limits, aren't there?

The only way God could answer this particular prayer would be by sending me a parcel from the homeland. I had been in Africa for almost four years at that time, and I had never, ever received a parcel from home.

Anyway, if anyone did send me a parcel, who would put in a hot water bottle? I lived on the equator!

Halfway through the afternoon, while I was teaching in the nurses' training school, a message was sent that there was a car at my front door. By the time I reached home, the car had gone, but there, on the verandah, was a large twenty-two pound parcel. I felt tears in my eyes. I could not open the parcel alone, so I sent for the orphanage children.

Together we pulled off the string, carefully undoing each knot. We folded the paper, taking care not to tear it unduly. Excitement was mounting. Some thirty or forty pairs of eyes were focused on the large cardboard box. From the top, I lifted out brightly colored, knitted jerseys. Eyes sparkled as I gave them out. Then there were the knitted bandages for the leprosy patients, and the children began to get bored. There were some mixed raisins and sultanas that would make a nice batch of buns for the weekend.

Then, as I put my hand in again, I felt the—could it really be?

I grasped it and pulled it out. Yes, a brand-new, rubber hot water bottle! I cried. I had not asked God to send it; I had not truly believed that He could. Ruth was in the front row of the children.

She rushed forward, crying out: "If God has sent the bottle, He must have sent the dolly, too!" Rummaging down to the bottom of the box, she pulled out the small, beautifully dressed dolly. Her eyes shone! She had never doubted.

Looking up at me, she asked: "Can I go over with you and give this dolly to that little girl, so she'll know that Jesus really loves her?" That parcel had been on the way for five whole months. Packed up by my former Sunday school class, whose leader had heard and obeyed God's prompting to send a hot water bottle, even to the equator.

And one of the girls had put in a dolly for an African child, five months before—in answer to the believing prayer of a ten-year-old to bring it "that afternoon".

Please share this amazing story with as many others as you can.

[End quoting]

If only, as adults, we would learn to hold the faith of a child. Think of the possibilities then! (And it wouldn't hurt, either, to go back and re-read the front-page story.)

A LITTLE GIRL'S SAVINGS

And most people think they need millions to do God's work.

From A READER, e-mail, 11/6/00: [quoting]

A little girl stood near a small church from which she had been turned away because it "was too crowded".

"I can't go to Sunday School" she sobbed to the pastor as he walked by. Seeing her shabby, unkempt appearance, the pastor guessed the reason and, taking her by the hand, took her inside and found a place for her in the Sunday School class.

The child was so touched that she went to bed that night thinking of the children who have no place to worship Jesus. Some two years later, this child lay dead in one of the poor tenement buildings and the parents called for the kindhearted pastor, who had befriended their daughter, to handle the final arrangements.

As her poor little body was being moved, a worn and crumpled purse was found which seemed to have been rummaged from some trash dump. Inside was found 57 cents and a note scribbled in childish handwriting which read: "This is to help build the little church bigger so more children can go to Sunday School."

For two years she had saved for this offering of love. When the pastor tearfully read that note, he knew instantly what he would do. Carrying this note and the cracked, red pocketbook to the pulpit, he told the story of her unselfish love and devotion. He challenged his deacons to get busy and raise enough money for the larger building.

But the story does not end there! A newspaper learned of the story and published it.

It was read by a realtor who offered them a parcel of land worth many thousands. When told that the church could not pay so much, he offered it for 57 cents. Church members made large donations. Checks came from far and wide.

Within five years the little girl's gift had increased to $250,000—a huge sum for that time (near the turn of the century). Her unselfish love had paid large dividends.

When you are in the city of Philadelphia, look up Temple Baptist Church, with a seating capacity of 3,300 and Temple University, where hundreds of students attend.

Have a look, too, at the Good Samaritan Hospital and at a Sunday School building which houses hundreds of Sunday scholars, so that no child in the area will ever need to be left outside during Sunday School time. In one of the rooms of this building may be seen the picture of the sweet face of the little girl whose 57 cents, so sacrificially saved, made such remarkable history.

Alongside of it is a portrait of her kind pastor, Dr. Russell H. Conwell, author of the book Acres Of Diamonds—A True Story.

Goes to show WHAT GOD CAN DO WITH 57 cents. [End quoting]

Once again, the moral of the story is what can be accomplished if we but maintain the pure faith of a child who sees no limits to possibilities. And if we remember to call for the Unseen Higher Help that stands ever by us, always ready to assist, there's no telling just what miracle may await us.

Happy Holidays to all of you who share so many possibilities with me and then, through my column, with your fellow SPECTRUM readers. May the New Year open great possibilities for us all.

Expressing Yourself More Fully On Creator's Living Canvas

11/24/00 SOLTEC

Good afternoon, my friend. It is I, Ceres Anthonious "Toniose" Soltec, come in the Radiant One Light of Creator Source. Be at peace.

Allow for the current unfolding events to impact your mind, for there are many teachings in this world that shed Light upon the path back home, to Creator Source. The most important path one can take is the one that is self determined. This is to say, when ones learn to go within and connect for self to the Infinite Oneness, Creator God, they will then have access to ALL knowledge, and will be given that which best serves their current situation.

Great wonders await you all on this journey of personal discovery; there are none who can do the work of spiritual attainment for you. The greatest teacher can but offer insight to you, for to do more would surely usurp your free will. YOU must make a determined effort toward finding true personal en-Light-enment, for the uniqueness of each of God's creations can only be fully appreciated when one truly takes responsibility for all of one's actions and thoughts.

We are all brush strokes on the same living canvas that makes up the Whole of Creation. Creator God is the Master Artist who paints each stroke and gives life and animation to His created works. Each stroke is then given free will to choose how it will manifest in perfection upon the ever-evolving canvas of life.

Each of you will find Greatness within if you but look. The materialism of your current "modernized" world is what is behind all of the conspiracies that take place upon your world. Ones believe that material wealth equates to power. This LIE is being sold to all who will listen, and has been especially swallowed by those ones you call the "elite" controllers of your planet.

So great is the importance placed upon money (in one or another of its forms) that ones look to it as their security, and forget that they are created in God's image as a co-creator. This is a form of idol worship, and yet most of you ones see it not.

Creator is abundance. Creator is security. Creator is all that there is. Look to Creator for your needs. Look from the perspective of infinite abundance, and know that your needs will be met.

Money is not bad. Having material things is not bad. However, when fear of losing the "things" (or money) becomes your greatest concern, then you have become a slave to the material world and, in essence, you spend great amounts of time managing or maintaining your assets.

To those of you who feel this may be intended for you, please ask yourself: how much time do you spend managing or maintaining assets?

Now ask yourself: how much time do you spend in prayer and meditation?

Do you see that you may have become much more fixated on the physical, rather than on the spiritual side of life?

For those of you who have little in the way of money, and feel that you have "struggled" enough, and therefore are deserving of a reward, I say to you: why do you feel the need to punish self in order to somehow justify your worthiness of having? This too is an out-of-balance condition wherein you are unnecessarily punishing self. In many ways you feel that, if you crawl and grovel enough, then God will somehow see you as worthy. This too is an error in perception.

Look not for (and dwell not upon) that which you do not have; rather, see yourself as already having that which is your desire. The difference is the vibrational frequency of the request.

Let me example: When you ask to be healed from a sickness, you are holding onto (and focusing upon) the vibration of sickness. When you ask for perfect health, you are holding onto (and focusing upon) the higher-frequency vibration of well-being. THE TWO REQUESTS ARE NOT THE SAME! Learn to recognize (or better yet, FEEL) these subtle differences, for such is the key to unlocking within yourselves the Unlimited Potential you ones constantly overlook.

Love is the greatest force in all the universes, for it represents the highest vibrational frequency when offered in purity. Love is the greatest healer and the greatest mover of creative energies.

Love, held in the heart, will raise the vibrational frequency of the individual, and thus allow for a greater perception and understanding of all that crosses your path. This same Love simultaneously radiates outward to uplift others.

Learn to discard that which does not resonate with "Love in your heart" in the face of any and all challenges. The energy of Love is infinite and without end; you cannot possibly use it up or have more than your fair share, for each is given an infinite stream of Love (pure Creative Energy) to then re-give to others. Let not anything in your life keep the feeling of Love from being felt and expressed by you.

Security is only a concern for those who hold fear in their heart. Those who have truly eradicated fear will not concern for safety, money, food, clothing, or shelter—for there will always be provisions of same despite what may seem to be any "hopeless" situations or circumstances being encountered. These are hard words to swallow for many who have been thoroughly sold the materialistic ways of the current societal structure.

What lies behind, say, the perceived "need" for a financial "safety net"? Fear of not having enough. Fear of not being taken care of in old age. Fear. In essence this is due to lack of TRUE understanding of, and faith in, your God-self—in that unique spark of Creative Essence which is YOUR core self.

How do you strengthen that Creative Spark and eliminate the fear? Learn to go within and connect to Creator God for yourself and find your own answers to those matters which concern you. The path to greater understanding will be shown to you.

This does take discipline; this does take dedication. But no more does it take than to discipline self to get up in the morning and go to your job or attend to your children when you feel like resting. Make communing with God a DAILY practice—and watch how your life changes for the better.

Many feel themselves “too busy” to take the time to do such a thing. Too busy to find time for your own spiritual growth? So be it, for the choice is, as always, YOURS. There is no punishment for being lazy—other than the self punishment you are unnecessarily putting yourself through by holding fast to your ignorance.

You will find great need to return into the physical, again and again, until the value of the inner world is recognized as the only TRUE purpose of the physical experience. God knows infinite patience, and He will surely wait for you ones to come to Him in your own time and in your own way.

These words are in answer to your many petitions for Guidance and Understanding. The answer is always the same: go within and learn to find YOUR own answers so that YOUR unique situation can be addressed in a quite personal manner.

Does this mean taking responsibility for yourself? Yes, it most certainly does!

Do you feel that you are somehow incapable of finding your own answers? ALL ones are capable of connecting within to the Divine Source for self. If you choose to seek God through external sources, then you will never be wholly satisfied, for there can only come TRUE satisfaction when one can learn to enter into a conscious communication with Creator God for self.

Does this take determination? Yes.

Does this take persistence? Yes.

Does this take the willingness to be responsible for self? Yes.

God knows your needs, wants, and desires. God has provided for them all—and much, much more. As you progress along your spiritual journey back to Source, you will say: “Let Your (God’s) will be done (thru me) on Earth as it is in Heaven.”

There is no greater joy to be experienced, for when this happens, you will have achieved great Wisdom and Knowing about the

Eventually you will come to appreciate that the greatest joys in life and living will ONLY come when you have realized that expressing God’s will through you is the greatest achievement possible. This is to say: “Let Your (God’s) will be done (thru me) on Earth as it is in Heaven.”

Perfection in which you are created. Let not anything—especially fear, in any of its disguises—detour you from achieving this state of Awareness and Joy!

You will always find that giving of yourself (and what has been given to you) is central to achieving this state of joy, since it is in freely giving that the cycle of re-giving back to you is set into motion. No matter what it is you have to give, the principle remains the same and leads to an amplified return of the energy sent out.

Many times you ones petition for great insights into what will befall you in the future. Many are simply looking for confirmation and validity of these very messages. Many of you want to definitively prove or disprove these messages, and therefore you devise tests of prophecy so as to achieve certainty in a most external manner.

To you ones I say: “Go within and find your own answers—and stop relying on others to do it for you!” If you have not the discipline to do so, then start there and work on the self discipline until you can do this.

None is greater than another. NONE. There are simply ones at different levels of knowledge and understanding. With greater knowledge comes greater responsibility. Those who have chosen to bring forth these naturally find that your needs of yesterday have shifted. As you gain in knowledge and responsibility, you will find your sights have shifted higher with each passing experience, as each lesson is recognized and understood.

Eventually you will come to appreciate that the greatest joys in life and living will ONLY come when you have realized that expressing God’s will through you is the greatest achievement possible. This is to messages are in no way greater than are you who simply read them. In fact, these messages are AS MUCH or MORE for them as they are for you.

These ones are striving to be of service while they too find their own answers. They too are asking for the same as are many of you. They have simply decided to go within to seek out their answers, and when appropriate they are asked to share what is given to them so as to learn to flow the Creative Energy (Love) through them, and thus come to understand the giving and re-giving nature of Creator’s grand design.

These ones are students, the same as you, and in no way greater or lesser than any other of Creator’s creations. Allow for these words to enter within your mind and give rise to inner thoughts as such may present themselves to you.

Has there been a stirring within that was not there prior? Examine the nature of your thoughts and the emotions associated with them. What are they telling you? Do you see limitations in the words? Do you see a better way to express the same concept or idea? Would you agree or disagree with the basic concepts? What is this stirring you feel? Why is it there?

Look closely at these inner promptings because there is a message there for you—if you but look and take the opportunity to expand each thought, idea, and feeling until the inner message to YOU is recognized and appreciated.

The nature of man is to evolve and grow. This innate nature requires that he ask questions and find answers to the questions. Those who ask a lot of questions make the best students. The best students make the best teachers.

Each will eventually teach what they have learned. Each will eventually contribute their unique experiences to the whole of Creation, and thus Creation is forever expanding and growing. Life and living is expansion and growth of all ones, everywhere. You all contribute to this expansion, and you each have a unique part to play as you learn to express yourselves more fully on Creator’s Living Canvas.

I am Ceres Anthonious “Toniose” Soltec, along with MANY others who have gathered for this sharing. We come in the Light and Love of Creator God, who we express through us so that His will may be done.

We leave you in this Radiant Light and Love, and pray that the message herein finds its proper place within your heart.

Blessings and Love to you ALL! Salu.

World Healing Begins With YOU!

KNOW that they interact with our lives.

Dr. Doreen Virtue (yes, that is her real name) is a spiritual clairvoyant and Doctor of Psychology who holds BA, MA, and Ph.D. degrees in Counseling Psychology. Dr. Virtue is the author of twenty-two books on mind-body-spirit issues. Inclusive of this list are such titles as: Healing With The Angels; Divine Guidance; Angel Therapy; The Lightworker's Way; and The Yo-Yo Diet Syndrome.

Dr. Virtue is the founder and former director of WomanKind Psychiatric Hospital at Cumberland Hall Hospital in Nashville, Tennessee. She was also an administrator at Woodside Women's Hospital in the San Francisco Bay Area. Both all-women psychiatric hospitals specialized in treating women's psychological issues. Dr. Virtue also directed three outpatient psychiatric centers, including an adolescent drug & alcohol abuse center.

As a child, Doreen was a natural clairvoyant, seeing and conversing with what many people call "invisible friends" (which are really angels and deceased loved ones). But this natural gift and ability was little understood by the young Doreen and her family, and was the cause of teasing by her friends. Consequently, Doreen learned to deny her abilities, effectively shutting them down before she was mature enough to fully appreciate them.

But on July 15, 1995, Doreen's personal life and her career, marked by exemplary but conventional success, would be irrevocably altered by an incident that is nothing short of miraculous. Doreen had been ignoring her angels' guidance to become a teacher of mind-body-spirit issues. So, when an angel warned Doreen that her car was going to be stolen on that fateful July afternoon, Doreen ignored him.

After all, her habit of arguing with and ignoring the angels was deeply ingrained by then. Despite this, the angel did not abandon Doreen in her most dire moment. As she was parking, two armed men, intent on a car jacking, brandished weapons and physically accosted the unsuspecting Doreen. The voice spoke to her again—it was loud, distinctly male, and it instructed her to scream with all her might. This time she listened. She screamed, and her life was saved by passersby who became alarmed and sent her attackers running.

Dr. Virtue immediately began a daily rigorous practice of receiving and deciphering her Divine Guidance. Simultaneously, she was reexamining her spiritual beliefs, along with her Western psychological beliefs. The end result was twofold: Dr. Virtue was guided to look at psychology from a whole new perspective, and her natural clairvoyance rapidly returned with the same clarity and strength of her childhood experiences.

Dr. Virtue's practice then naturally evolved into "Angel Therapy" in which she combines her skills as a Doctor of Psychology with her spiritual abilities.

Dr. Virtue's belief is simple: everyone is born with some form or forms of psychic abilities—in other words, a sixth sense. This ability, like all other God-given abilities, needs to be nurtured and exercised to maximize its strengths. Dr. Virtue cites over three hundred scientific studies from Harvard, Cornell, and other leading universities supporting her beliefs in people's natural psychic abilities and in the power of prayer in healing.

Dr. Virtue currently lectures and gives experiential workshops on spiritual psychological issues worldwide. Doreen's topics include: angel therapy, angel communication, spiritual healing, mediumship, reincarnation, channeling, and other spiritual topics. Many of her students are medical and psychological professionals, including M.D.s, R.N.s, psychologists, and social workers.

Dr. Virtue's national media coverage includes: Oprah, CNN, Good Morning America, The View With Barbara Walters, Donny & Marie, Rosanne, and other national programs. National print media coverage includes: Redbook, Woman's Day, and USA Today. (Contact with Doreen can be made through Mr. Steve Allen, at 661-255-8283, and the www.AngelTherapy.com Internet website.)

Doreen keeps some very interesting company. One of her latest books, Divine Prescriptions, has endorsements from Neale Donald Walsh, James Redfield, Dannon Brinkley, John Edward, and Gregg Braden.

John Edward writes: "If one suffers from diseases like 'loss of faith', 'lack of spirituality', 'narrow-mindedness', or 'cynicism', then Doreen Virtue's Divine Prescriptions is the cure. She gently eases you into understanding how her angelic messages are medicine for the soul."

I'd like to take a moment to express my appreciation to Steve Allen and to Doreen Virtue for taking the time in their very busy schedules to allow for this interview, which we have for some time wanted to share with you, our SPECTRUM readers.

It seemed that everything just happened to come together “coincidentally” so that we could share this as a kind of a gift to you for this Holiday Season. Yes, in some respects it is a continuation of the front-page theme of last month’s SPECTRUM. But the subject IS THAT IMPORTANT! No matter what conspiracy is afoot, what trap has been set for humanity, what enslavement has been ever so carefully put into place—that is ALL third-dimensional in nature, an illusion bought into. We need only remember to rise above that and ask for Higher help. And then there is literally NOTHING that can stand in our way of achieving what we say so often at this time of the year: “Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward All!”

*I haven't even begun to get with God completely.
But as soon as I move toward God inside of me, and start viewing what is taking place,
I start realizing that whatever is taking place, whatever is present,
is just fine.
I realize that I'll get through it;
I'll survive it.
I start seeing that whatever is going on is not going to last,
that things change,
and that everything is in motion.
Then, as I go a little bit higher in consciousness,
I start realizing there is great harmony.
I start seeing the value in most things.
Then I start seeing the value in everything.*

— John Morton, The Blessings Already Are.

Let’s now move directly into a most cordial and en-Light-ening conversation with Dr. Doreen Virtue, which finally (despite her busy schedule) took place on November 13, 2000.

Martin: When you enter a semi-trance state to receive messages from the angels, can you explain that process to our readers to assist them in opening up to receiving help from the Lighted realms?

Dr. Virtue: Sure. I’m a semi-trance and a full-trance channel, and the common denominator to anything I do involving receiving Divine Guidance, involves first, prayer. And what I do, is: I enlist help, or I ask for help—and that puts me into a receptive state which we’ll call a trance.

Because my background is “Christian Mysticism”, which is also known as “new thought”, my prayers are very Western and Christian. In my case, before I do any “reading”, I say: “God, Holy Spirit, Jesus, and the Angels, Archangel Michael, please speak through me. Help me to hear the Guidance very clearly and receive blessings on behalf of myself and the person I’m reading for.” And just saying that flows energy down my body; it seems like it has a central nervous system effect, and I go into an alpha state, automatically.

I also do—before I do readings on TV or where I’m going to be doing public readings in front of a large audience—I do yoga stretches, yoga chanting, or I’ll chant “om” to center myself and go into a meditative state. And I teach these methods to my students as a way of connecting with their angels.

The angels who I connect with—I use the term “angels” as a verb as opposed to a noun, and the verb is “those who help us”—and generally I’m talking about people in the spirit realm who help us, beings in the spirit realm.

There are three types of beings I connect with, when I’m doing this work. The first level in spiritual frequency, the lowest level, are the deceased loved ones of my client. Everybody has these loved ones around them. Usually they are grandparents, second generation back, who have passed on, sometimes before the person was born. Sometimes when they were children, or even recent. There seems to be a real grandparent connection that’s strong. Sometimes, it is their parents, their own parents, or an aunt or an uncle might be there, a brother, sister, or the children who have passed.

And these beings, these loved ones, are there to help us and also to help themselves. Maybe they didn’t fulfill their life purpose when they were living. They can vicariously do some good for mankind through us, by guiding us. Or they have a similar background to what our life purpose is. Maybe Uncle Joe was a journalist and our life purpose is to be a writer, so he’ll be our spirit guide to help us to go in that direction, because that’s ultimately what our life purpose is.

The next layer is the Ascended Masters, and that’s the great teachers who walked on the Earth, who are now helping us from the other side.

Martin: The Ascended Masters are something our readers are very familiar with. So you are right in the zone, as we say, with that area.

Available in your local book store.

Dr. Virtue: Beautiful, so your readers will be familiar with the Ascended Masters I work with, which include: Jesus, St. Germain, some of the saints, Archangel Michael in the angelic realm, but we often think of him as an Ascended Master also. And the Ascended Masters are with the person either for their life purpose or because they have been called.

I'm a clairvoyant, and I see Jesus around, roughly, one out of every 300 people. Not necessarily just because someone calls themselves a Christian. I don't necessarily see Jesus with that person. And people who don't consider themselves Christians may be working with him. He's the one—he seems to be around people who call him, who have a brother relationship with him, sort of a "heart-to-heart" relationship with him.

The other Ascended Masters seem to kind of show up on their own volition, according to the person's life-purpose. For instance, Mother Mary is usually found around people whose life purpose involves helping children, either as a parent of many children, or as someone who's supposed to be a traditional teacher, or someone who's supposed to be a child's advocate.

Archangel Michael works with those who are considered to be Lightworkers. A Lightworker, of course, is someone who feels compelled to help the world in a spiritual way, even if they are not sure how, if they want to make a difference while they're living here, in a Higher way.

So the Ascended Masters are definitely among, what I consider, as a group, the angels. And then, of course, there are the "winged ones" that we traditionally think of when we look at Christmas cards or Valentine cards. And they really do look like that. They don't use their wings for transportation; they don't flap their wings like birds, because they don't need to. It appears more that they come to us looking like that, with wings, because that is how we expect them to look. I believe that the early Renaissance painters mistook the aura of angels for wings and started painting them that way.

Martin: That makes sense.

Dr. Virtue: And so, they shape-shift, according to our expectations. I have a new book out, called Angel Vision, that has case studies of people, adults and children, who've seen angels, and they report seeing the same type of being. But, it's interesting Rick, when I am doing a reading on someone from an Eastern background, their angels don't have wings. Their angels look very different than [those around] Western people. On the inside they're still the same, but the outside looks very different.

Martin: Obviously there's concern among many who have experienced channeling in its various forms—and you go into this in the book Divine Prescriptions somewhat—that dark entities may interject themselves perhaps even before Lighted input.

Dr. Virtue: Yes.

Martin: Have you experienced these deceivers directly, and how do you guard against them?

Dr. Virtue: Well, that's where Archangel Michael comes in. Archangel Michael is, literally, "Superman" among us, and sometimes I have to work with folks who may be reluctant to work with them because of negative experiences with churches, where they are rejecting anyone who sounds like church.

But Archangel Michael is non-denominational and works with anybody. He is also the "bouncer angel", like a night club bouncer. He, like all of the Ascended Masters and all of the archangels, can be with anyone who calls on him, simultaneously. So, he is able to have unique experience with every individual who calls upon him.

And the point I'm making is that we don't have to worry that when we call on Archangel Michael, we're pulling him off of someone else. Just like Jesus says: "I'm with you always." So is Archangel Michael. And if we ask Archangel Michael to live with us, that's the key. He'd like us to do that.

One of my chief life purposes, as I go around meeting audiences, is to invoke or invite Archangel Michael to be with them, because he recruits Lightworkers into the cause of peace. And if we have Archangel Michael next to us, we don't have to even be concerned that a lower entity could come through that door. He won't let it happen.

Martin: Thank you. I'm glad you clarified that because a lot of people, I find, tend to be fear-based when it comes to this sort of thing.

Dr. Virtue: Yeah.

Martin: A lot of it has to do with, of course, fear-based Christian programming.

Dr. Virtue: Yes; the paradox is that those who fear evil attract those lower entities. Like attracts like.

Martin: Would you share with our readers what you mean by the phrase "Divine Prescriptions"?

Dr. Virtue: "Divine Prescriptions" is the Guidance that's been given to us for different situations by the angels. Whenever we ask for help from Heaven, it's ALWAYS answered; we ALWAYS are helped.

But, it's not always direct intervention. It's not always that, say, we pray for a soulmate, then the doorbell rings, and there he or she is. It's more often, when we get Guidance, that we get ideas, or a road map of how we can help ourselves. And these prescriptions that have been given to me over the years, in my case studies, they're answers that just about anyone can use, according to the types of situations outlined in the book.

Martin: How would you suggest that our readers unblock fear to hear angelic guidance?

Dr. Virtue: And, of course, fear is the only thing that keeps us from hearing, or acknowledging that we do hear the angelic guidance.

In my experience, everybody hears angels. Everybody has conversations with God. It's just that many people feel unqualified, because of religion or low self-esteem, to receive it. So they go look for someone special to put on a pedestal.

WE'RE ALL EQUALLY SPECIAL, WE'RE ALL EQUALLY GIFTED PSYCHICS!

When I give an angel reading for someone, the number-one comment I get is: "I had a feeling that's what my angels were trying to tell me." (laughter).

They already know, at a gut level, what's being said. And I also want to mention that it's a misnomer, or misconception, that we only get angel messages by hearing. There are actually four main ways that we get the angels' messages. So the number one thing is to be aware of what you already get.

Martin: That was one of my next questions, the four channels of Divine communication.

Dr. Virtue: Ok, so let's stick with the fear then, because that's important.

I find that the easiest way, the no-brainer way, to clear the fear is, before you go to sleep at night, ask the angels—or, you know, if you feel like you don't want to ask angels because you're nervous about it, then ask Jesus or ask God—to enter your dream at night and clear the fears that keep you from hearing them. It's as simple as that.

It all comes back to: WE'VE GOT TO ASK! If we don't ask, even God Himself doesn't intervene, without our permission. The only exception is a life-endangering situation before it's our time. Other than that, we have to INVITE their help, or they can't do it.

Martin: That, also, is one of my next questions—just talking about the importance of asking, and free will, and free will's part in intervention.

Dr. Virtue: Crucial.

Martin: As last month's front-page SPECTRUM headline says: The Call Compels The Answer—If We But Ask.

Dr. Virtue: If we ask. The angels say that the name angel begins with the letter "a" because it stands for "ask" and ends with the letter "l" because it stands for "listen". And if we'll just ask and listen, everything in between will "gel" in our lives. It's that simple.

Of course, the ego rejects simplicity. The ego wants problems, and chaos, and exotic diagnoses, and such. So, the ego has a hard time that it's just that simple—but it REALLY IS!

The listening goes back to what your other question was about—the four ways that we receive Divine guidance. It is not just HEARING. That's one way that you hear the "still small voice" within, or you actually hear a voice outside your ear warn you, or guide you. But it could also be that you overhear a conversation that gives you some much needed guidance, and you wonder if that's a coincidence. It's not. Or you hear a song on the radio, over and over and over again, or even in your head, spontaneously. Listen to the lyrics to that song, it may be true guidance for you.

Another is SEEING. We often get visual messages from the angels. It could be that we dream about a deceased loved one, and it's a real encounter. It's not just a dream. Or we get a vision in our dream of some answer that we've been looking for. It could be that we see sparkles of light out of the corner of our eye. And that's acknowledging that we're seeing the angel's trail, the energy of angels moving across space. Seeing also means that we see signs from Heaven, such as pennies from heaven that fall in front of us, or feathers, or butterflies, or birds that are just these loved ones sent to us as a sign—rainbows, flowers, clouds, or mists that look like angels.

That's the visual way we connect with the angels and their messages. Or the number sequences they show us. If we keep seeing 11:11 on every license plate or every clock, that could be a definite sign. Or any number sequence. I actually have a book called Healing With The Angels that has a whole chapter on what the number sequences mean.

The third way is through our FEELINGS. I find a lot of people discount their feelings, thinking that it's not valid, but emotional or physical feelings are just as valid a way to talk to God as is hearing, if not moreso.

And it really goes back to that old Joseph Campbell adage: "Follow your bliss." Bliss IS the message from Heaven. It's a road map to keep us going in the direction of our life purpose.

Physical feelings can also include smells, where you get a sense of a disembodied odor, like smoke or flowers. That's a sign that the angels are near. It can also include when your stomach tightens up for no seeming reason; you're just sensing something is off, then pay attention.

And the fourth way is THOUGHT—where we get a sudden insight, revelation, or just a knowingness, without knowing how we know. And I find that folks who get messages this way sometimes discount their messages because they think: "Well, everybody knows that!"

Martin: Right.

Dr. Virtue: And yet that's usually not true. These are the folks who get the great ideas for inventions or books, and if they don't follow through, two years later they see that someone else did, and they kick themselves.

Martin: I noticed you refer to these as clair-audience (clear hearing), clair-voyance (clear seeing), clair-sentience (clear feeling), and clair-cognizance (clear knowing).

[Editor's note: Go back to page 31 of last month's SPECTRUM, under the "Hearing Your Angel's Messages" heading, for a lengthier explanation by Dr. Virtue of these four categories.]

Dr. Virtue: Yes.

Martin: Many people have misconceptions about what they can or cannot ask from the angelic realms.

Dr. Virtue: Oh that's for sure.

Martin: Would you please speak for a moment about mundane matters versus important spiritual intervention?

Dr. Virtue: Right. And I believe this must be from religion. There's this belief that you can only ask for big things from God, or else you're just wasting their time in Heaven. That comes from the limiting belief that the angels and God can only help one person at a time, and not realizing that they help all of us, simultaneously.

It also comes from the belief that money is evil, and not seeing that money can be a tool to help, like Mother Teresa was such a great example of showing us.

The angels say matter doesn't matter; that it doesn't matter what we ask for, because all matter is illusion anyway. So, it's very much like Course Of Miracles says, that there's no order of difficulty in miracles. One is not larger or smaller than the other. They all come from love, ultimately, which is the ultimate miracle.

The angels also say that they are doing their best to alleviate the stress of the human race that is the cause of so much violence erupting. And the stress comes from the so-called "little things"—the parking-lot jam, the unpaid bills, the misunderstandings with your partner. The angels are doing their best to help us with the little things, but gosh, it goes back to: we've got to ASK for their help, and KNOW that we deserve their help with all things, small and big.

I'm talking to the angels continuously. I think that this is what the apostle Paul meant when he wrote about "praying without ceasing".

Maybe angels are like a basketball team. They're around us, so we need to be continuously passing the ball to whoever's closest to the basket, and not worry whether we're passing to the right angel or not. They're ALL the right angels around us. And all we have to do is ask, and they'll just come and help us out.

Just a couple of hours ago I couldn't find my keys, so I said to the angels: "Need your help here—gotta find the keys!" And boom, there they were. And, it was as if the keys materialized, because I had looked in that spot three times before.

Martin: (laughter) It almost seems like angels are an idea who's time has come.

Dr. Virtue: Well, yes. I think that more people are aware of them, more than ever. The belief in angels and life-after-death is up, statistically, right now.

Martin: Is it?

Dr. Virtue: Yes. In fact, the belief in life-after-death is up, significantly, for college educated adults. So, that's kind of interesting.

Praise From Our Readers

"I really admire you all for standing up for what you believe. Thanks so much for the paper—it is most interesting and helpful. I had a few bucks come my way and I am happy to share some of it with you. Thanks again." — V.R. from Canada

"Thank you for all your kind remarks and printing spiritual truths from our Creator or I would not have had this much enthusiasm to share 'it' with a 'talent'. I always liked the parable of the talents, 'When using them for God, we get more!' It is happening at this time in my life. You all have a constant strenuous life, not many could have done what you are achieving. I am not a teacher—only sharing what I like to do most—sharing Aton's words. Much Love & Light." — M.G. from PA

"My dear friends, I do hope and pray that your 'cup' runneth over with love and funds to keep The SPECTRUM alive and well. I consider this paper to be one of my greatest blessings. I hope there are many others who share my sentiments. Thank each one of you for your unbelievable contribution to my life! In love and appreciation." — D.W. from NC

"Enclosed is my donation to keep the dream alive." — J.T. from CT

And in all religions that have been studied, Catholic, Christian, Jewish—belief is up. That's according to Andrew Sheeley, from the University of Chicago. According to Gallop, the number of people who believe in angels is anywhere between 82% and 85%.

Martin: Oh, really. I didn't know it was that high.

Dr. Virtue: Yeah. The lowest you see in all the polls is that 75% of American adults believe in angels. I don't know the international figures.

Martin: That's actually good news.

Dr. Virtue: Well, what it means—and I'm not, my training is as a psychologist, you know, I have a B.A. and a Ph.D. in psychology. And the way we psychologists designate what is normal and abnormal is by statistics, and "what does the majority do". So, in this case, according to this definition, it is abnormal to be skeptical. It's normal to be a believer, right at this point in history. Isn't that great?

Martin: I think it's great!

Dr. Virtue: And you know what's going on is, 32% of the people say that they've encountered an angel. CNN says that 40% of Americans say that they have a Divine figure that they've encountered. What a miracle.

What I find when I travel, which is continuously, I'm always traveling and I'm very much open about this. I'm out of the spiritual closet, so I'm talking to taxi-cab drivers, I'm talking to flight attendants, people on the plane next to me, I'm talking to everybody, not just people who come to my workshops. And I really feel like I got my finger on the pulse of belief. And here's what I find: almost everybody believes, but they are afraid to admit it, for fear of seeming crazy.

Martin: Right.

Dr. Virtue: And my job, as a psychologist—I'm actually a retired psychologist—is to be the one to say: "Look, this is not crazy; it's normal." Let's just admit it, because you know, everyone knows that when you admit it to someone, then you have the most wonderful conversation.

Martin: (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: They'll say "You, too? Let me tell you what happened to me!"

Martin: Yes.

Dr. Virtue: And you swap these miracle stories and you just feel like a million bucks. But it goes way beyond, of course, good feelings. It's about being teachers of The Truth, and helping others to remember that we're not alone, that we're these wonderful children of God, made in the image and likeness of this awesome Creator, who loves us sooo much.

Martin: In your understanding, in what ways are prayers answered? You talk about this in your book.

Dr. Virtue: Yes. Well, prayers can be answered by a direct intervention. You pray for enough money to pay the rent, and this check comes from out of nowhere. They can be answered with the angels giving you guidance, such as: "Go call Ned." And you call Ned and he offers you a wonderful new job. You know, that's where you get the Divine guidance. They can be answered through someone else, God speaking through someone else, and it's just the message you need to hear.

Martin: I've always said, in talking with friends over the years about asking for Guidance, that it will never come the way you think it's going to come.

Dr. Virtue: Yes.

Martin: Just expect the unexpected.

Dr. Virtue: Exactly! And it's similar to what I say to people: "the how" is up to God. Because we can't just hand God a script and say: "Here. Fix it this way, Father." It's really just asking, and then letting go of how the answer's going to show up, like you said.

Martin: You can, literally, ask for help and it could take a week for the unseen helpers to orchestrate a situation that is absolutely perfect to the situation.

Dr. Virtue: That's right.

Martin: So, I think there needs to be an awareness with people, and I think there is—but often we don't talk about this—that when you're asking for help, first of all, don't expect it any particular way. And secondly, allow enough time for the answer to come.

Dr. Virtue: Right, because it's all about Divine timing. I agree.

Martin: I'm talking to the choir here, I know.

Dr. Virtue: Well, no. I've had (laughter) to learn this lesson practically every day. You know, it's all perfect and everything is in Divine and perfect order. And if we keep affirming that, then we don't get uptight when things seem to take a little longer than we like.

Martin: Yes. Well, I guess impatience would be another one that I'm sure a lot of people experience—either impatience over money issues or relationship issues or work issues. (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: Yeah. Well, you know, what I find is, when someone feels stuck, like they're not making progress, it's because they're not following the Guidance that's been given them. And, again, it's that old thing we discussed, where they're handing God a script and saying: "Here. Follow this script, God, and give it to me this way."

When I work with people who want to find their soulmate, sometimes angels come back and say: "Get to the gym and get your body in shape first."

Martin: Yes.

Dr. Virtue: They don't want to hear that. They ignore that part and they get mad at God, thinking: "Well, where is he? Why hasn't he shown up yet?" They're not hearing those steps. When I was praying to meet my soulmate, the message was: "Go to yoga." And that's where I ended up meeting him.

Martin: (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: You know, it's usually always different—different ways that we get Guidance, as you mentioned, than we expect.

This one woman who I was working with, her name was Jackie, she prayed for help with her teenage son. And the message she got was: "Go to the car wash, go to Danny's Family Car Wash, right now." And she heard that as a booming voice from Heaven.

And she said: "What? I don't need my car washed. I need my son fixed."

And she heard it again: "Go to Danny's Family Car Wash, now!" And she was arguing with God, and finally she said: "Ok, I'll go."

She drags herself to the car wash, and as she pulls up, the lead man says: "You are going to get your car detailed, now." And she felt like she was in the Twilight Zone by this point. And she said: "I am? I don't have time."

He says: "Yes, you do."

So she goes over to the waiting area, where there's a man who's asleep with a lot of books covering his eyes, to shield the Sun. And she just casually glances at the book titles, and notices that every one of them had something to do with teenage psychology.

So, she starts to understand the connection now—why she's there—and she wakes the man up, out of a deep sleep, and says: "Why do you have all these books on teenage psychology?" And the man recounts the story that his own son had been having behavioral problems very similar to Jackie's son, but that they had found this miracle-worker psychologist who'd absolutely fixed the son and had assigned the parents to read these books. And Jackie said: "Give me the name of the psychologist, right now!"

Martin: (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: And now her son is healed because she went to Danny's Family Car Wash, rather than ignoring the advice and just sit and think: "Well, that has nothing to do with what I'm asking for."

Martin: It seems like, again, people ask for help, you ask for help, and if the answer is "Go to Danny's Car Wash"—you have to trust that that is an appropriate answer to what you're asking for and follow that, instead of the ego overriding that, and canceling it out. I think what happens with people, I know it has happened with me in the past, is that there is a tendency to override.

Dr. Virtue: That's the bottom line of all this. You said it in a nutshell, Rick, right there. That's the article. (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: It's about walking IN FAITH. And if we need more faith, gosh, we can ask for that, too. It's not like we have to clean-up the house before the housekeeper gets there!

Whatever we need, whether it's more faith, whether we need to release the fear that we're going to do something wrong—the easiest way is, before we go to sleep at night, ASK the angels to come in and clear away the fears that keep us from having full faith. And right there is a big, big part of trusting—so that we can (a) hear, and then (b) follow.

I'll tell you, they have pushed me, sometimes, to walk away from situations where I would have made a lot of money. They say: "Don't take the money; walk away." And I do! And it turns out that it was a horrible situation, and the money will later come from a different source, in integrity.

Martin: Yes, I understand that one.

Dr. Virtue: You know, I'm just so grateful that I've learned to trust and follow such Guidance. My life has become such a blessing because I absolutely, absolutely trust my angels.

They do everything for me, like whispering in my ear that: "Ok, it's time to pay your bills today." I'll go home and I'll see this bill that's due right now; and so, they are my accountant. They frequently tell me to take this road or that road, so I'll avoid an accident or traffic jam. "Buy this house, not that house." They just absolutely guide me in every facet of my life, and I've let go of feeling like I'm alone, or I have to worry.

Martin: This, I'm sure, gets back to fear. Why, in your experience, do people block out Divine guidance and "Divine prescriptions"?

Dr. Virtue: The reason that people don't hear it and don't follow it is because the ego has convinced us that it's dangerous to follow love. The ego, being 100% fear, wants us to believe in our littleness, wants us to think that we don't matter, that we can't contribute, that we are not qualified to hear the voice of God. And so it comes down to that we're allowing fear to rule us, rather than the voice of love.

I work with a lot of folks, helping them to realize that they are beautiful masterpieces of God. And that, of course you deserve God's help, just like you want your own children to have happy, healthy, abundant lives.

I also help people to "forgive" God. There's many times we don't hear Divine guidance because of this. For example, a woman I worked with last week came up to me, after our session, and said: "You know what? I actually thought of God as being evil, because of what my church taught me—that God was vengeful, and jealous, and angry, and was going to send me to Hell if I did anything wrong." And so she realized how frightened she was of God, and so why would she want to listen to that?! And I helped her to reframe that, that God is the Voice of Love. These teachings that she had—I mean, we should respect and honor those people as children of God, but we can't listen to fear coming from ANY source, including religious leaders!

Martin: Well, that's why the Master Teacher taught the Golden Rule as being the most important thing: Love your neighbor as yourself.

Dr. Virtue: Yes.

Martin: The whole message was love and compassion.

Dr. Virtue: Exactly, and the key—

Martin: And nowhere in that message was there judgement.

Dr. Virtue: Right.

Martin: Or anger or hatred.

Dr. Virtue: I know. Well, we—you and I could have a long discussion about that, I have a feeling. (laughter)

Martin: Well, we can start right now. (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: I mean, that could be a can of worms, too, because you're talking about mistranslations of the Bible, as being a big part of it.

Martin: Well, our readers are very familiar with how the Bible has been edited and "adjusted" and altered.

Dr. Virtue: Yeah. So they know.

I think that the beautiful news is that more of us are having "mystical" experiences. And at my workshop, I'm finding folks of mainstream backgrounds—there's almost always medical doctors at my workshops, now, learning how to hear their angels, openly saying: "I'm a medical doctor; I love angels."

I have lawyers, accountants, stock brokers show up—you know, what we usually think of as "three-piece-suit folks"—are now showing up at these New-Age workshops to get in touch with Heaven.

So, I'm just thrilled with the direction that society is going right now, with more people admitting that they believe in mystical experiences than ever before. More of us are praying than ever before, actively, collectively. How can that not continue to help us go into a positive direction?

The angels give me some clear pictures of where we're going, collectively, as a human race. They say that we are all becoming more telepathic, and we're allowing that telepathy to occur. Studies, scientific studies, show that the human mind is telepathic. I don't know if we need to go into the scientific studies so much.

Martin: No.

Dr. Virtue: We have the natural psychic gift, in our brain. As we lose fear, and actually start to feel—not a moral obligation, but almost like that—that we have these gifts and we need to use these gifts in service, then we kind-of donate our psychic gifts to the cause, if you will. Then we, collectively, as a human race, will very soon let go of clumsy communication modes.

The angels say that e-mail is a precursor to all this, that e-mail is giving us all a craving or a taste for instant communication. And you see how frustrated we get, now, when an e-mail takes five seconds too long to go through.

Dr. Virtue: Right?

Martin: Yeah.

Dr. Virtue: Isn't that true? We're all getting so spoiled that we want "instant communication". And the next step, after e-mail, is telepathy.

And they say, as soon as we allow this to occur, then what happens is that lying will no longer be an option. That's why the angels, right now, are telling all of us to get our lives in order, in integrity. That's why their central message is: get your life in shape, get rid of the parts of your life where you're selling out or compromising. Get into integrity, because it's coming up that the whole world will be in integrity.

When that happens, there's going to be a shift in agencies and groups—government, legal, educational, media—that have foundations of dishonesty or lack of integrity. They will fall, necessarily, and we need not be afraid of that when it occurs. It's a "good riddance" type of switch.

Martin: Yes. We have been sharing messages on that subject from various Ascended Masters for some time.

Dr. Virtue: The new children, what we call the Indigo Children, have been brought in to help us, to usher in this new change. [Editor's note: Rick Martin conducted a front-page, in-depth interview with Jan Tober, co-author of the astounding book, The Indigo Children, back in our March 2000 issue. Back issues are available of that lively interview. Also, Jan's book is available from Wisdom Books & Press, whose contacting information is noted elsewhere in this newspaper.] These children, ages zero to twenty-two, the millennium children, are very psychic, very sensitive to lies, to lack of integrity, and also to toxins and additives in foods; they are generally highly sensitive beings.

They are openly psychic; they openly say "Yes, I see angels with these people." And, these new children also have, kind of, an aggressive personality, many of them, because they've been brought in to no longer tolerate the mess of government and other agencies.

We, our generation, was supposed to do this in the '60s and '70s, and we started off really in a good direction, with protest marches and such. Many of the people, like yourself, in the media, have continued that good work, but others got distracted, fell back asleep at the wheel, forgot who they were.

These new kids won't do that. These new kids are kicking butt and taking numbers, and unless we put them in chemical "straight jackets" of Ritalin, because we call them ADD and ADHD, these are the new kids who will usher in this beautiful age of peace that comes through integrity, through authenticity.

Martin: I did a front-page story, some months ago, with Jan Tober, and the front-page story was on the Indigo Children.

Dr. Virtue: Good, excellent. I'm right now writing the follow-up to that book, called The Care And Feeding Of Indigo Children.

Martin: Oh, great. That sounds terrific. Well, it was Jan Tober who was quite adamant about me interviewing you. She said: "You have to talk to Doreen Virtue!"

Dr. Virtue: Bless her heart.

Martin: So, that was how we made the connection.

Dr. Virtue: Oh, beautiful. She's a sister, definitely.

The angels also say that the quantum physicists are coming out with research to show that our focus, our over-focus on time, earthly time—through wearing watches and looking at calendars—is limiting the number of miracles we experience, by flattening our experience into the third dimension. I'm sure you've noticed, Rick, maybe you've done it yourself, that many Lightworkers are taking their watches off.

Martin: Yes.

Dr. Virtue: I know, among my friends, sometimes we'll say: "Does anyone know what time it is?" and none of us have watches on.

Martin: Yeah.

Dr. Virtue: We'll have to pull out a cell phone and turn it on to see what time it is.

The angels say that we are near the Aztec end of time, noted with the Mayan calendar—the end of time meaning the end of measuring time at the 2012 mark. They show me a world where we are all going to be much more natural. The precursors we see now are that many of us are being guided to clean up our diet, have more organic food, become more vegetarian. Get away from the grid. Get away from the hustle and bustle—just become more natural and authentic, it all comes back to.

Martin: Sounds good to me. Let's go. (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: Yeah. Change. Change can seem scary, but it's ultimately "out with the old and in with the new". (laughter)

Martin: Well, one thing that I've observed over, well, since 1987, I have in front of me, on the wall, Gordon Michael Scallion's future map of the United States.

Dr. Virtue: Ah-huh.

Martin: As I'm sure you've seen or heard about.

Dr. Virtue: Oh, yes.

Martin: And there was a lot of channeled guidance from the Masters and others about the Earth changes and the necessity for Mother Earth to cleanse herself. And there was, what I'll have to say was, a lot of fear-based information—

Dr. Virtue: Yes.

Martin: —that created, one, the necessity to prepare, but two, created kind of a fear energy, with a lot of people. And what I sense, just intuitively, about the world now, is that things have kind of mellowed.

Dr. Virtue: Yeah.

Martin: And I don't know if it's because there's been an alteration in the time sequence, or because of the level of compassion that people are feeling within themselves that somehow created a new probable future, that's different and less geophysically impacting than the one that we lived in ten years ago. I don't know.

Dr. Virtue: Well, the other thing—and this is kind of mind blowing—is that the angels show me that there's these parallel realities that you touched on. The parallel realities are likened to 7 movies in 7 VCRs that are continuously playing. There's a masterpiece movie, and there's all the way, ranging to the horror, "b"-grade, low-budget film, and everything in-between. So those who believe and who put their focus on the tragedy, actually are experiencing that type of reality, right now.

Martin: Do you think there's been a change?

Dr. Virtue: I think that those of us who have faith are in the masterpiece movie, and those who don't have faith are in a "b"-grade horror movie. I think we all have different realities. I think there's a lot of souls who, during the millennium shift, had pain occur.

Martin: Yeah.

Dr. Virtue: That's what they expected. And those of us who experience peace, that's what we expected.

Martin: Ah-huh.

Dr. Virtue: So, everyone's experiencing a different reality. You're in a reality where there's peace and helpfulness, because that's your mindset. If that makes sense.

Martin: It does.

Dr. Virtue: I spoke out adamantly when the so-called prophets—I used to call them P-R-O-F-I-T-S (laughter)—were selling generators and water purifiers, right before the millennium.

Martin: Right.

Dr. Virtue: The angels had clearly told me that the Y2K issue was going to be expensive, in terms of a lot of computers and computer programming, but that we'd be fine, and just, absolutely, don't panic. I mean, they told me that two years before the millennium 2000—and there were a lot of people, including Jan Tober's ex-husband, who were out, just as loud as they could, saying: "It's not that the end is near, it's the opposite. The now is happening, and the now is beautiful, and so is the future; there's nothing to fear." But, it's sexier, sometimes, to say that there's a problem.

Martin: Ah-huh.

Dr. Virtue: The 10 o'clock news—do you tune in because they talk about problems or solutions? Sadly, the majority still like the tragedy story. So, that particular map that you have in front of you, I call it "the onion map", and it stinks; it stinks to sell that kind of fear. You know?

Yet, if you followed one of my favorite authors, Dolores Cannon, who wrote the Conversations With Nostradamus books—I'm a big fan of her work. I feel like she really is very careful with what she prints. And Nostradamus, if you'll recall, said that we were at a fork in the road at the millennium, where we needed to make sure we didn't go to World War III, before the millennium shift. And I find that we still have the angels warning us about the Middle East situation.

Martin: Yes.

Dr. Virtue: Archangel Michael, who I channel, has come to me in the last week or so, and really put his foot down and said, you know, "You humans, this is enough! You're toying with something very dangerous here." And it culminated yesterday, on November 12.

Martin: The worldwide vigil?

Dr. Virtue: The worldwide vigil that we held overseas. I was actually channeling Archangel Michael over the Internet. He wanted to come through and identify himself. And I said "No, I'm not ready to announce this is Archangel Michael talking." But he, I don't know if you listened to it, but he was—

Martin: No, I didn't.

Dr. Virtue: He was very passionate that we all need to stop toying around with lukewarm measures to achieve peace. And we need to put our foot down, collectively, and say "Enough! Enough!" That "I will no longer tolerate these guns and these weapons."

He said, not only is it dangerous, in terms of our potential future, but it's wasting our time because what is ahead of us is so awesome, so beautiful, that we can't open that new door until we close this old door of violence.

He really, really wants us to put our passion into vigilantly seeing only what we want, not what we don't want; only see peace, and of course that means at a micro level, as well as at a macro level. When we go to, say, the grocery store, the post office, only see the Divine spark in everyone. And don't allow ourselves to go into any ego judgments, about anyone, including ourselves. And he seems a little impatient with us, or urgent, lately.

When I channel him, I'm doing trance channeling. And my students copy it down, very often, and post it. I don't know whether they post it on my website or not, because I'm so "in the moment" that I don't stop to check.

Martin: Right.

Dr. Virtue: But I should write it down. It's just that I don't, I'm not aware of it a lot of times. But you can go to the angeltherapy.com Internet website and then maybe there is the channeling.

Martin: How do you recommend that people emotionally clear themselves to hear angelic council?

Dr. Virtue: Well, the first thing is to ask the angels for help with any fears you have. My favorite way is to ask before you go to sleep at night.

The second thing is that the angels very often give us guidance to purify the piano case that we live in, that we call the body. They liken it to a piano case, so that we can get more harmony in the music. They often ask us to make changes in our lifestyle, including diet, to have a more pure, organic, and vegetarian-based diet, to stop eating the processed foods that lower our frequency, such as caffeine, nicotine, sugar, white flour.

They usually prescribe us to get outside in Nature, as a way of increasing our spiritual frequency and attuning to what are called the Nature angels, or the elemental kingdom, to clear the aura, like air purifiers clear the smoke out of the air.

The angels also help us to increase our frequency through yoga and meditation, charka clearing; these methods are very powerful and have a measurable result in terms of psychic abilities. And, you know, I've found that the greatest part about discernment, about being in-tune, is to be really honest with yourself, vigilantly honest, to always be monitoring your thoughts and your feelings. The angels really, really say that our only path, as humans, is to be responsible for the contents of our thoughts, at all times, and to not allow ourselves to have the luxury of negative thoughts or thinking about what our fears are. As soon as we're aware of any pain at all, psychic pain, existential pain, physical pain, to ask for help and not tolerate pain at all.

The angels would like us to adopt a "zero tolerance for pain" policy, and not think that any amount of pain is acceptable. But, as soon as we become aware of it, to mentally ask for help with it. They're upping our standards, in other words.

Martin: Well, again, I think there's often reluctance with people to do that, and it's back to the worthiness issue.

Dr. Virtue: Right.

Martin: And also, it's like waiting for the truck that's barreling down on you—you know, THAT'S important so, HELP! (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: Right.

Martin: But the other stuff is, it almost seems, well again, it gets back to worthiness.

Dr. Virtue: It does! It's absolutely that, and I work continuously with my students on that very issue because that's the big hurdle, right there. Do I deserve God's help?

You know, there's the argument that ego gives us: "Well, you haven't been to church enough. You haven't been to temple enough. So you're ignoring God; why should He help you?" Or: "You haven't tithed enough." I mean, that's based on the Santa Claus theory, isn't it? You have to be naughty or nice, and that's how you relate to God, like God is Santa Claus.

And the angels just look past all the surface. They look past our mistakes; they look at our mistakes with compassion, with a good sense of humor, sometimes. They look past our surface personality, our race, our religion, our weight, and they see within us that Light. They see God within us. They're in love with God, and so, therefore, they're in love with us. It is their pleasure to help us to have joy and peace. In other words, we help our angels when we give them a task to do. There's so many unemployed and bored angels out there.

Martin: And, I'm sure, unappreciated, unrecognized.

Dr. Virtue: Well, you know what? That's ok with them; they'd rather be unrecognized than bored and unemployed.

Martin: (laughter)

Dr. Virtue: Their main mission that they've got me doing, is teaching people TO ASK!

Martin: That comes first.

Dr. Virtue: And it doesn't really matter if you scream at God. You know: "Help, help, help!" even yelled disrespectfully. They just want to be enlisted because they know, ultimately, we'll come around and lose our anger—which is always fear, isn't it?

Martin: Yes. Fear has so many disguises.

Dr. Virtue: Sometimes people want to know what specific invocation or prayer you use for specific situations, and I provide those in my books, and it's not necessary. ALL THAT IS NECESSARY IS A SINCERE REQUEST FOR HELP.

Martin: Heart intent.

Dr. Virtue: Intent, exactly. You got it.

Martin: I know you're feeling the time restraint, so let me just ask you one last question, and that is: What words of counsel would you like to leave our readers with?

Dr. Virtue: The main thing I want to let everyone know is that you really do have angels with you, right now. And if you'll just spend a moment, maybe close your eyes and take a couple of deep breaths, ask your angels to help you be aware of them, you'll feel their presence on either side of you. They're next to your shoulders, they're above your head, they're in your house—we are literally swimming in an aquarium of angels at all times.

And, the angels are here and on our side. They're not here to wrong us, or shame us, or to take away our goodies. They're really aligned with what we ultimately do desire.

So that comes down to, you can let go and you can trust. And they really will heal every part of our lives, and our world.

You know, I think the bottom line is, if someone reading this article says: "How can I help the world?" the greatest way you can help the world is start talking to your angels, because your angels will accelerate that process of peace through creating individual peace.

As you know, world peace starts with me, starts with you. When I'm at peace, and everybody takes responsibility for their peace, you have world peace. And, in my opinion, the quickest way to achieve that is through working with angels.

Martin: That's a perfect place to end. Thank you for taking the time to share with us.

Dr. Virtue: Oh, my pleasure.

The Cure-All: Chaparral (Larrea Tridentata)

Editor's note: Over the years, whenever anyone has asked me (E.Y.) about selecting a good book on herbs, I always say "Look up 'chaparral' and you'll know right away!"

That is, if you're in a bookstore at the shelf full of herb books, you can sort them into three categories: The first are the books that don't even mention chaparral (toss them in the garbage can, quickly); the second are the books which mention it, but with a lot of disclaimers and cautions in step with the disparaging FDA/AMA thought-control police policy concerning chaparral (also toss in the garbage can); the third category are the books to keep and treasure for their Truth.

These are the ones which begin with something like how the medical expert and longtime dedicated herbalist, Dr. John Heinerman, begins one of his many excellent herb books (this particular one I'm looking at right now is called Miracle Healing Herbs). Here is how he puts it, short but sweet: "Chaparral is one of the most amazing herbs ever found in the plant kingdom."

Is that direct and clear enough for you? And if what Dr. Heinerman says is true, why do you suppose this herb is either missing from, or heavily "discounted" in, so many so-called books on herbs? (Oh no—not another conspiracy!?!)

The same FDA/AMA scare-war waged on the Western United States desert herbal plant called chaparral in the early 1990s was also waged on the wonderful Eastern United States herbal tree/plant called sassafras (root and bark) about a dozen years earlier. Like chaparral, sassafras is now back on SOME health store shelves and mentioned properly in SOME herb books. But since the root beer manufacturers had to find synthetic flavoring substitutes for sassafras back at the time of the contrived government scare in the later 1970s, they've continued using those "imitation flavorings" and so root beer is now completely devoid of the natural goodness (and great flavor) it once possessed. (The sad addendum here is that some "natural" root beers boast sassafras in big letters on the front of their labels—until you read the very fine print connected to a tiny footnote elsewhere on the label, which then says they're using a SYNTHETIC sassafras flavoring. How's that for a well-calculated deception aimed at catching those who know the true value of this herb?!)

I personally mix chaparral with equal parts red clover and spearmint for making herbal tea that is not quite so "strong" of taste as is chaparral alone. Those who are familiar with Native American healing remedies know how highly and widely this humble desert "scrub" plant is regarded by many tribes.

We here at The SPECTRUM would like to sincerely thank Ingri Harkins of The Idaho Observer for having the courage to write and publish the exceptional article we are sharing here with you about this extraordinary—yet not generally very well known—herb. Once you read the following, you'll probably see why the FDA and AMA police have tried so hard to "protect" you from this powerful herbal gift.

AUGUST 2000 INGRI HARKINS

(from The Idaho Observer)

Chaparral is one of the best non-toxic blood purifiers on Earth. The history of chaparral dates back to ancient Indian times, when medicine men administered chaparral tea brewed from the leaves of the desert creosote bush.

The Shoshone Indians used chaparral tea as a cold remedy, a diuretic, and a venereal aid. The Papago Indians used chaparral both internally and externally. It was considered a universal remedy for stiff joints, festering sores, poisonous bites, and menstrual cramps. The dried and powdered leaves were used on a newborn infant's navel to promote healing, and a tea of the leaves was applied externally to the mother's breasts to stimulate the flow of milk.

The Pima Indians relied on chaparral when they needed an emetic to cleanse the stomach. The resourceful Pima sometimes heated creosote bush branch tips to obtain healing sap which they dropped into the cavity of an aching tooth.

The Coahuilla Indians called chaparral a-tukul and drank chaparral tea for bowel complaints and consumption. They also gave it to horses suffering from distemper and colds.

It is interesting to note that the scope of Native pathology consisted of bowel and stomach complaints, coughs, colds, milk fevers, sore eyes (from fire smoke), sprains, muscle soreness, injury, and occasional rheumatism. After White contact, which included White man's trading items of sugar and alcohol, measles, whooping cough, smallpox, venereal disease, and tuberculosis were introduced.

Chaparral was an official medicament in the United States Pharmacopoeia from 1842 through 1942, and was listed as an expectorant and pulmonary antiseptic.

Before my mother knew about other herbs for healing, our family used chaparral as a cure-all for whatever ailed us. The alkalinizing, cleansing action of chaparral could always be counted on to do the job of effecting a cure, since most of our illnesses were caused from excess toxicity accumulating in our bodies.

The most dramatic cure was when my mother developed a polyp in her uterus which was the size of a small lemon, and the doctors who diagnosed her condition recommended a hysterectomy. She politely declined and began drinking chaparral tea and taking chaparral capsules in earnest. A couple months later, when she returned to the same doctors for a pap smear and diagnosis, they were sure they must have made some mistake—since there was not a trace of the original tumor and her pap smear came back totally normal.

We have since shared the value of using chaparral with other women who have tumors or cysts in their reproductive organs. All the women who have used chaparral on a daily basis for several weeks report back that their tumor/cyst has disappeared and they are ever so grateful for learning about this wonderful plant.

Chaparral is best known today as an anti-cancer agent. There are countless testimonies of people who have used this herb successfully to rid their bodies of melanomas, tumors, and most forms of cancer. Jason Winters Tea, a popular cancer remedy, contains chaparral as its number-one ingredient. Winters claims that he cured his cancer using his proprietary formula of three herbs. [Editor's note: There is a great story of determination concerning the history and evolution of this tea. For awhile, during the early 1990s FDA/AMA war against chaparral, Jason Winters Tea had another ingredient listed in place of chaparral. Now chaparral is back, but not listed as the main ingredient. Jason Winters Tea is widely available through health stores and related merchandisers. Just be sure to check the ingredients in case the store is pushing old stock that may not contain the chaparral ingredient.]

I have often referred to chaparral as an "internal detergent". I tell people: "So you bathe everyday, but never think about giving the inside of your body a bath? If you do not do regular detoxing and internal cleansing, you are welcoming health problems into your life."

So how does chaparral work to reduce and eliminate malignant tumors and other complaints? The following is paraphrased from Dr. Kelly's book One Answer To Cancer:

As a blood purifier, chaparral cleanses deep into the tissues and assists the body in eliminating toxic debris. In our modern society our pancreas, liver, and other tissues and organs are so congested with poisons from pharmaceutical medications, sprays, metallic poisons, and other pollutants that our organs cannot carry on normal activity. This serves as an antagonist to the enzyme, mineral, and vitamin metabolism in our bodies. In cancer, specifically, the pancreatic enzymes are locked with the antagonists and are rendered totally ineffective. By chelating these antagonists (with chaparral) from the pancreatic enzymes, we find that the person's own cancer defenses take over and destroy the malignant tumor. It has also been found that chaparral works well in chelating the toxins and drug residues out of those who have been drug addicts.

Fifteen years ago I was in Tempe, Arizona, working at Gentle Strength Food Co-Op in the herb section. Many people came to our department for various ailments. Although we were not supposed to diagnose and prescribe, I couldn't help sharing with people the power of the creosote bush that was native to the area.

One man in his late 20s wanted something that would help his complexion. I suggested that he take six chaparral capsules a day for a week, and then take ten capsules a day after that, spread out in doses of three times a day. He came back after a couple of weeks elated with the results. His complexion had improved dramatically. But the most significant change for him was his steady weight loss and increased energy level.

He began sharing chaparral with all his family members. His mother, who had suffered from arthritis, was also deriving tremendous relief by taking chaparral capsules daily. He came in every couple of weeks for more and more chaparral capsules to share with his friends and others who crossed his path.

Another woman came in who was suffering terribly from poison ivy. I suggested she make a poultice with chaparral leaves and leave it on overnight. She, too, came by to thank me since the itchy rash was completely gone when she removed the poultice in the morning.

Naturopath Eileen Marsh gave the following testimony:

"I started taking two tablets of chaparral with each meal, and in six weeks I noticed a marvelous sense of well being. I also noticed a little 'crick' noise I had heard in my knee when I went upstairs had vanished. So then I decided to take four with each meal and see the effect, for I always believe in being my own guinea pig. After five days, I noticed that a warty cyst on my skin had completely flattened. I had been trying for at least a year to get rid of it. Now I know that it helps arthritis and has an effect on 'lumps' and bumps.

"I then experimented with taking five with each meal. This made me feel wonderful. It made me have four to five bowel movements a day, so although it is not a laxative, it helps the bowel.

"I have a cancer patient who is taking 24 tablets a day, six with each meal and six just before retiring. It has already reduced the swollen look of his face and enables him to pull his ear now without pain, all in one week, so it does have a beneficial effect."

Before trying this yourself, you need to know that chaparral is the most powerful detoxifier I know of. Most people experience their skin breaking out in pimples or rashes when taking it the first few days.

Start out slow and increase your water intake. A dear friend of mine, who had terrible body odor and admitted to having taken LSD regularly over the course of a year in his youth, took a concentrated blood purifier whose main ingredient was chaparral. He experienced hallucinating at the job site and luckily trusted my explanation of chaparral's properties and continued to take the product.

The first week of consumption is often an unpleasant experience, as one can go through a period of headaches and low energy as the toxins surface. However, the end results are definitely worth the temporary, initial discomfort.

I, personally, have known when chaparral needs to be incorporated into my daily regimen. After experiencing a lot of stress coupled with chemtrails, I knew I was due for several weeks of daily chaparral ingestion. Most of us do not do anything until crisis hits, and it hit me in the form of hayfever. I immediately began to make up chaparral and cayenne capsules, and am gratefully experiencing the benefits.

Chaparral is very inexpensive and can be purchased in many forms at your local health-food store. Through my many years of using and recommending this herb, I have found no adverse side effects.

The FDA attempted to take it off the market in the early 1990s, claiming that it caused damage to the liver. It has since been vindicated enough to be available today. The pharmaceutical industry has long been envious of products that grow wild in your own yard since they cannot patent them. As long as natural, inexpensive remedies in the form of herbs or weeds are growing around us, we need to learn how to utilize them.

We encourage you to make chaparral a key ingredient in your own personal pharmacy.

We would love to hear from you!

At This Holiday Season Awaken The Gift Of Your God-self Within

11/30/00 ESU "JESUS" SANANDA

Good evening, my friend. It is I, Esu "Jesus" Sananda, come in the Radiance of our Father, Creator God—The One Light.

Be at peace, for there is great work yet to be accomplished and the time is drawing near when darkness will be a thing of the past.

Your world's population is in great need of remembering the Christ Within. The Christ Within does NOT mean find Jesus within. The Christ Within means developing an awareness of the Infinite Creator God who lives within and through you. Such an awareness includes a personal understanding of your Divine inner connection to Source.

This is to say that each and every one of you who read this should be consciously striving to recognize for SELF the meaning of the statement "I and my Father are One." This was not some statement meant for just me, Esu "Jesus"—but rather, a statement used to express to you ones the true nature of your own spiritual heritage.

Let not the perception of separation from God, the Creator of All That Is, linger within your mind, for this is the greatest LIE! We are all of the same Source. I am NOT greater than are you with respect to OUR Father. I am simply a brother who has progressed further in my understanding and recognition of the ONENESS we all share with Creator Source—The One Light. That is one reason our Father has given me the name Sananda, which means "One with God". It is a level of accomplishment or progress that ALL may attain.

The majority of your world perceives God as some sort of mythical entity who sits on a throne "out there" somewhere, in a mythical place called Heaven. No, dear ones; this is NOT the case.

Creator Source is a LIVING God who resides within each of you, as well as within every speck of matter, and likewise permeates the entirety of "empty" space, all the planetary bodies, and all perceivable expanses of the universes. Within this endless domain that we often refer to as The Creation, is the All That Is—Creator Source.

This God-Energy that penetrates all matter is often referred to as prana. Prana is the Infinite Life-Force Energy (which is God) in its un-focused state. Man (This includes woman; I just use the term "man" in a generic sense for simplification sake.) was created in the image of God—in that all the abilities and attributes of God are given to man. Man alone has the ability to focus and use this infinite Life-Force Energy as he will. Man alone is granted free will to choose his own path—even if the path chosen is one wherein man chooses to ignore the Inner Connection that gives the very breath of life to the physical form and gives consciousness its ability to think.

There are Laws that govern all of God's creations. The highest and purest is the Law of Love which states: GOD LOVES ALL HIS CREATIONS WITHOUT CONDITIONS OR JUDGEMENT, AND FOREVER OFFERS THIS LOVE TO ALL ONES, UNCONDITIONALLY, AT ALL TIMES.

This may be difficult for many ones to believe—that God judges you NOT! God IS you and you are God. God knows that many of His children have lost conscious awareness of this Inner Connectedness that permeates all ones. He also knows that what you do in your ignorance is a result of this same ignorance. He also experiences along with you the many perceptions you carry around regarding self and others. There is complete understanding of your condition, and still God loves you with all of His heart and all of His being, for God IS you and you ARE God!

There are many ones among the various religious factions and priesthoods of your planet who have taken the many teachings I taught over two thousand years ago and perverted their meanings and deliberately altered them so as to keep their "flock" under their own control and determination. I spoke these same concepts of Oneness then, as I do today, for it is The Truth that I came forth to example to the world.

Man longs for the understanding and remembrance of his true spiritual heritage. Man longs for the wholeness that goes along with this understanding. There is NO separation when you KNOW for yourself that: I (you) and our Father are One!

Many denounce this teaching today as they did, lo those many years ago. For it is beyond the conscious grasp of many that they ARE the Living God, manifest, and that through all of His creations God expresses and experiences. There is nothing but Oneness.

I know you each, for you are as I am. Give recognition to the inner God-connection. Acknowledge your own spiritual self, and in so doing you acknowledge Creator God.

The illusion of separation is a byproduct of several factors. The greatest factor is your choice to gaze upon conflicts of others and, in your awareness of a conflict, you perceive a separation or a division, and ones want to try to determine who is "right" and who is "wrong".

Many hundreds of thousands of millennia past, man existed in the highest states of Awareness and Oneness with God. All were perfect creations who expressed themselves deliberately and purposefully, and for many thousands of millennia all was well.

Over time, ones began to compete with others as to who could create the most grand and most beautiful that could be expressed through them. In undertaking such activities, others were called upon to judge. This created the first conflict—what many of you would call a contest.

How can you judge one of God's creations to be greater, of more importance, or more perfect than another? This question then led to the creation of "rules" by which the "game" or contest would be "played". This led to further division, as "rules" place parameters and limitations upon the participants who would otherwise know no limitations.

These SELF-IMPOSED limitations quickly (relative to the many millennia of perfection) led to the downward spiral of perceived separation that now exists upon your world. The first "loser" of a competition was caused to experience great self-doubt, and thus were created the first "seeds of doubt" which caused ones to ponder their perfection and their connection to and with Source.

And yet this judgment was not from within self, but rather from others who judged according to the "rules" of the competition. So great was this wave of negativity that all ones, everywhere, focused upon the event, and thus came about the great perception of duality—wherein ones questioned their own self-worth and validity.

Likewise was born a great challenge to be overcome. That is, as these doubting ones became caught-up in the perception of separation, their vibratory rates began to lower and lower to the point of near solid mass. Thus the term “fallen ones” (or “fallen angels”) has come to be known as those who are somehow lesser.

No! These so-called “fallen” ones are merely aspects of God who gazed upon that which was a self perception of doubt, and then followed that idea, in an exploratory manner, until such point as they manifested the “reality” of separation for themselves.

This self perception of doubt and separation is NOT a perception held by Creator God, and therefore it simply is NOT TRUE. Often, when well-meaning ones attempted to “rescue” these “fallen” ones, they too would become enmeshed in these ones’ perceptions, in an empathic manner, and they too would become trapped in their own inner conflict with self doubt and separation from Source.

Over many hundreds of thousands of millennia, the condition as now exists on your world (and others like yours) is the result of this once original thought of competition as just described. The majority of ones on your world are still living and re-creating this LIE of separation. The majority see themselves as lesser than God. They make those of your brothers such as myself (“Jesus”), Buddha, and Mohammad out to be God, and offer their praise and worship to these ones who are “out there” somewhere.

This is an error in understanding and a false humility brought about through the ignorance that results from the very separation itself. The answer to this dilemma is to go within, and still the mind, and ask with all your heart for Creator Source—God, Allah, Jehovah, Buddha, Mohammad, Jesus, Aton, or any other name you ones wish to ascribe to the Prime Mover and Infinite Source of All That Is—to bring forth greater understanding and awareness of the true nature of the God-self. Ask this often and at all times of perceived confusion. FEEL His Radiant Light fill you from within.

As the diligent student continues along this path, there will come great rewards and greater personal responsibility wherein you will perceive that to deliberately lie, cheat, steal, covet another’s possessions, or to perceive any sort of lack only serves to negate your belief in the inner God-self (and the Perfection in which you were created), and thus lowers your vibratory rate, and thus you will naturally feel un-ease. It will take great discipline and self determination to “hold the course” and thus maintain and elevate your vibratory rate to an ever increasing level, until such time as you have the recognition of what has been widely termed the “Christ consciousness” state. This is another name for the recognition—and full realization, without doubt or reservation—that: I (you) and my Father-God are One!

The challenges you will face are indeed great, for they challenge the lie that is deeply rooted within. And your own beliefs, fears, and doubts will need to be studied and seen for what they truly are—the “weeds” in your garden, not sewn of God when He created you, but rather created by man in his perceptual state of ignorance, doubt, and separation. With each of these “weeds” that you confront and pull, you will become stronger, wiser, and better prepared to pull the next weed—tap root and all—on your way to the “Christ consciousness” state.

With this cleansing of the mind will also come greater and greater freedom from the material world, and your perception of self and others will become greatly shifted. For example, you will not see an enemy; rather, you will see God manifest in all ones, some of whom will be struggling greatly with the material world and their own ignorance, brought about from an unnecessary sense of loneliness, sorrow, and anger that results from the belief in the IDEA of separation from Source.

When you can see that God is the “Spark of Life” in ALL ones, you will not view anyone the same, ever again. Learn to focus the Life-Force (prana) Energy that flows through you, and send it forth with the intention of doing good, for all who come your way. This Energy is truly limitless, and is the substance from which all matter is manifest. With diligent practice and continual striving for greater Understanding, you will be able to manifest as did I show to the world as “Jesus”.

This IS the nature of your TRUE spiritual self. When there are no self-imposed limitations, no self doubts, nor feelings of separation, then you will have regained your rightful place as a Christed being who is “One with Creator God”.

I offer this message at this time, for it is often during this annual time-frame of your Holiday Season that the majority remember and acknowledge my Energy and the example I left with you. Even in its distorted teaching, that Energy carries with it great INNER emotional stirrings as ones are caused to recognize (remember) that which they once possessed—a Higher Perfect Understanding of who YOU and I REALLY are. Honor not the man that I was, but rather the Ideal for which I stood and brought forth as example to ALL ones. Know also that: “That which I do, so too can you do, and MUCH more.”

Go within and still the mind. Let go of that which happened yesterday. Focus upon where you are heading, and KNOW that it is Grand, Beautiful, and Perfect—for the TRUE destination of mankind is returning to the Perfection in which you are created, in which YOU ARE TRULY ONE WITH CREATOR GOD WITHIN.

I am Esu “Jesus” Sananda. I come in and of The One Light—Creator Source—who lives within us all. Call upon me and I will come, for I am as God IS—as close as your breath.

My greatest pleasure is to assist another to find re-cognition of the God-self within. May you forever seek within to KNOW THYSELF and KNOW THAT YOU ARE AS GOD IS. Hold this to be true, and never again speak of self, or look upon another, as somehow being lesser.

Much Love, Light, and Peace to you all, my Brothers and Sisters. Salu!

Daring Journalists Victorious In FOX News Censorship Case

Jury Awards Nearly $500,000—FOX To Appeal Verdict

Editor's note: The following superbly revealing story becomes all the more worth sharing if you ever have the chance to meet these courageous journalists in person and discover what warm and sincere professionals they are. Talk about being Tested Bigtime and electing to resolutely stand up for The Truth!

Of course the larger reason for sharing this story is to make the point—by way of a concrete, up-close-and-personal example—of just how the media is controlled. This is a powerful example to share with those friends of yours who “just can't believe” the media is anything but a straightforward presenter of news and related information. (Oh, barf!)

Just studying the single example of how the media has been presenting the election circus is enough to observe not only how these tightly scripted “entertainers” are very selective in what they report versus what they ignore, but then there's the subtle (some would say obvious) mind control injected almost subliminally: You're told what to get mad about and what to overlook; you're told what to think if you want to be “in” and what you should not question because the “experts” say such and such is what's important.

This story also has a kind of an “imbedded commercial message” since it makes a strong case for WHY we need sources of information such as The SPECTRUM—and under what great odds we try to stay alive. (As this note is being written and this article processed, we really don't even know if or when you might be seeing this—due to the precarious nature of our funding situation—though we work as if there will indeed be a paper, and on schedule.)

You sure didn't see a report of this matter on FOX television news or anywhere else—nor would you. Yet regular readers of The SPECTRUM are well aware of the multinational corporate giant Monsanto and their pivotal (some would say diabolical) role in advancing genetically engineered foods and related products, such as the Bovine Growth Hormone, dubbed BGH—which then enters the dairy products we consume from cows who have been injected with the BGH. (Moreover, regular SPECTRUM readers are even aware of the wonderful, Truth-is-stranger-than-fiction tidbit about employees at Monsanto's headquarters voting overwhelmingly AGAINST using their own genetically modified food products at their own cafeteria! Hmnnn.)

We would like to sincerely thank a very professional organization—Paul Hall and his The Jubilee newspaper (209-742-6397)—for not only allowing us to reprint this story, but assisting us by providing an electronic format of the story which made our processing job a lot easier than it could have been. They had already done the job of reporting most of this milestone journalistic event, and therefore there was certainly no need for us to “reinvent the wheel” in order to share the basic story.

Rather, read on and KNOW that, with persistence, The Truth can prevail. Spread this far and wide—and show the controlled media puppets that they've only helped to put a Bright Light on their often dark and dirty secret life.

Oh—and by the way—if The SPECTRUM can stay afloat through your financial help, we promise to fill-in some VERY interesting “color” about this matter by way of an in-depth interview with these resolutely courageous journalists who are as articulate as they are sincere. For teasers, what will we cover? How about the dynamite, devastating legal deposition in defense of these journalists from longtime “Mr. Evening News” Walter Cronkite. Walter—who has had a lot of time to think about his career from the perspective of retirement—spelled out in no uncertain terms his knowledge of (and feelings about) the chronic, sleazy, media manipulation that has been, in his experience, the norm of behavior in the broadcasting business.

And then there is the live testimony of Ralph Nader who, despite being in the thick of his presidential campaign duties when it was time to fulfill a promise made much earlier, cleared his schedule and pathway to be in that Florida courtroom on behalf of these journalists and the public welfare issue they held firm about.

SEPTEMBER/OCTOBER 2000
THE JUBILEE NEWSPAPER

Award-winning journalists Steve Wilson and Jane Akre emerged from a Tampa courtroom with an unprecedented victory over FOX Television Network and ostensibly the big guns of chemical manufacturer Monsanto.

Editor's Note: The Jubilee's interest in this unprecedented story is because it is the first time journalists from the dominant media have actually had the fortitude to challenge their employer for deliberately altering a story due to pressure from a multinational company. We have reported for over a decade how the media lies to cover up corruption, both government and private, here now is the proof in the pudding – pudding, we might add, that is made with tainted milk.

After five weeks of trial and deliberations lasting over six hours, a Hillsborough (Florida) Circuit Court jury found that journalist Jane Akre was fired for threatening to report her employer to the FCC after being pressured to broadcast a false, distorted, or slanted news report. The husband and wife journalistic duo were fired in December, 1997, because the two refused to broadcast a story they knew to be false and misleading. Specifically, the couple would not agree to edits in their story that withheld pertinent information from the public about the safety of milk sold in supermarkets throughout Florida and the nation.

The four-part series questioning the safety of milk tainted with the controversial hormone BGH became a year-long debate after Monsanto, the manufacturer of BGH, sent threatening letters to FOX. Wilson and Akre subsequently filed suit against their employer, FOX affiliate WTVT (Channel 13 in Tampa, Florida) in April of 1998 using the Florida Whistleblower Act. Wilson and Akre alleged FOX executives ordered them to lie in their television series that criticized the use of the controversial hormone. Ultimately, using a provision in their contract, FOX fired the couple.

The jury awarded $425,000 in damages to Jane Akre on August 18, 2000, after finding that FOX fired Akre solely because she threatened to blow the whistle to the FCC. The jury did not award Wilson any damages because his termination was NOT based solely on a threat to call the FCC. In order for the jury to find WTVT violated the Florida Whistleblower Act in terminating Wilson or Akre, they had to find it was the sole reason for the termination. Wilson speculates the jury did not sustain his complaint, probably because FOX raised other issues as possible reasons for his termination (i.e. discussion of the story on the Internet violated the confidentiality provisions of his contract).

Wilson and Akre twice refused FOX's six-digit offers to keep quiet about what they knew before filing their case, and survived three FOX efforts to have their case summarily dismissed. It is the first time journalists have sought the protection of a whistleblower law to acquire a legal remedy after being fired for refusing to distort the news.

Wilson and Akre have not been offered full-time work in the "mainstream media" since their experience at FOX and in court.

DISPUTE BACKGROUND

When Steve Wilson and Jane Akre were hired by Tampa, Florida, FOX affiliate WTVT in December 1996, Steve was to be a part-time investigative reporter providing programs for key ratings periods known as "sweeps" and Jane was hired full-time as an investigative journalist and weekend anchor. The station told the journalists to produce hard-hitting, 60 Minutes-style investigative reporting—something Steve Wilson is particularly known for.

According to Wilson, WTVT promised that when their stories generated the inevitable heat and pressure from the subjects of their investigative reports, station managers would stand up and support them and ultimately broadcast the truth. They promised that the people and companies who would threaten to sue or cancel their advertising would never force the station to back down and pull the stories, or edit the heart of them.

Immediately the two began work on a story involving the use of Posilac, the controversial hormone widely used by dairy farmers.

Posilac is a genetically engineered replica of a hormone cows produce naturally to spur growth. By injecting the hormone twice a week into cows, farmers can increase milk production by as much as one-third. Posilac is the Monsanto brand-name for bovine growth hormone, or BGH.

Even though the FDA approved the hormone for use on cows in 1993, many scientists have voiced strong concerns about its safety for humans and bovines. BGH is banned throughout Europe and is unapproved in several other countries because of human health concerns. Scientists claim BGH is linked to higher levels of a growth factor suspected of promoting tumors in humans. Another concern is that BGH increases the incidence of infection in cows, with a variety of consequences. Many farmers are forced to inject their animals with powerful drugs to fight infections and other side-effects experienced by cows treated with the BGH.

No labeling law in Florida requires milk producers to tell consumers when their milk or other dairy products come from cows treated with the controversial hormone. In fact, Monsanto has fought efforts by dairies that do NOT use Posilac from saying so on their labels. Ben and Jerry's ice cream, which buys only from farmers who do not inject their cows with BGH, recently was forced into a costly fight with Monsanto over the labeling issue and ultimately secured a legal victory in Illinois that allows them to label their products "artificial-BGH-free".

When questions were raised about the safety of milk from cows treated with Posilac, some Florida grocers said they would request their milk providers not use it. And many promised they would not sell milk produced by cows being injected with BGH—at least until the public was comfortable with it.

Akre decided her first scoop at WTVT would be to see if that promise was being kept. Her husband (Steve Wilson) would assist her. What they found would be as shocking as the artificial hormone itself. In a random check of seven Florida dairy farmers, all seven were using BGH, which raised the obvious question: could Florida grocers tout their milk as BGH-free?

MONSANTO THREATS

While BGH helps farmers milk their cows, BGH also helps Monsanto milk the farmers of billions of dollars each year.

After running expensive TV and radio promos for weeks, the four-part series was scheduled to run during the February 1997 sweeps period. Three days before the series was to air, however, Monsanto attorney John Walsh sent a threatening five-page letter to Roger Ailes, President of FOX News Corporation, dated February 21, 1997.

Walsh criticized the series' premise and "reporting techniques" used by the couple. The multinational corporate giant said they were concerned about the "assault on their integrity...blatantly carried on by Ms. Akre and Mr. Wilson".

The letter put an even sharper edge on Monsanto's point in advising the television execs to back off: "There is a lot at stake in what is going on in Florida, not only for Monsanto, but also for FOX News and its owner" and "on behalf of Monsanto, I ask that you and your FOX News colleagues consider thoroughly what is at stake and the enormous damage that can be done by the reckless presentation of unsupported speculation as fact and the equally reckless publication of unsupported accusations or innuendo of fraud, deception and bribery in connection with something as serious as the obtaining of approvals for a product such as rBST." [or BGH]

After reviewing the letter, provided by their employer, Wilson and Akre advised station management that nothing in the letter raised any credible claim as to the truthfulness, accuracy, or fairness of their four-part report.

The decision was made, however, to postpone the airing of the series in order to "carefully review claims made in the letter".

According to court documents, the station's news director at the time, Daniel Webster, admitted to Wilson and Akre that the reports were being withheld solely because of the Monsanto letter.

What followed was a nearly nine-month process in which Wilson and Akre were ordered to write and re-write some 83 versions of the broadcast script. Meanwhile, FOX repeatedly threatened and carried out various threats of retaliatory employment actions to coerce their reporters to broadcast information that Wilson and Akre demonstrated as unfair, inaccurate, false, and misleading.

The revision process was becoming arduous. Rather than back their journalists as promised, FOX management took the side of Monsanto and suddenly began arguing that their own reporters were being "unprofessional".

TERMINATION CRUSADE

After attempts to loosen the noose around their neck proved unsuccessful, Monsanto would send another letter to FOX. This time the threats became even more pointed, predicting "dire consequences for FOX News" should it broadcast certain information disputed by Monsanto. The letter also rejected an offer to conduct an additional interview [by Wilson and Akre] because Monsanto had concluded interview subjects would "become the target of accusations repeated by Ms. Akre by unidentified and, in all probability, scientifically incompetent persons".

In response to this second letter, the rescheduled broadcasts were postponed yet again without explanation to Wilson and Akre and another meeting was scheduled for Wednesday, March 5, 1997, with Wilson, Akre and WTVT news management and their staff and outside counsel. Without explanation, however, Wilson and Akre were excluded from the meeting and were subsequently directed to revise their reports and provide additional documentation for new questions that were raised. A two-inch binder was promptly provided by Wilson and, in further discussions with management, Wilson and Akre agreed to make numerous additional changes to the script.

According to the suit filed by Wilson and Akre, FOX management would ignore the documentation they provided which “clearly verified the truth and accuracy” of the reports as written and [FOX] would further instruct the duo to “include information [in their report] which plaintiffs [Wilson and Akre] knew to be false or misleading”.

The crusade to rid themselves of the uncompromising husband and wife team and their damaging report was intensified when FOX’s own station counsel, Carolyn Forrest, wrote a letter charging the journalists’ reports contained “unfair treatment, unbalanced attacks, careless representations, questionable links to unrelated points or unsubstantiated assertions”.

The letter also offered to release the duo from their employment contracts and warned that “failure to adhere to and cooperate with our procedures and directions constitute insubordination and are a breach of your employment agreement”. The letter was sent to the President of the FOX Television Stations, the largest group of stations in America, and to other top officials throughout the company.

Pleas to Station Manager David Boylan to review the reports by Wilson and Akre were summarily rejected. Boylan’s response was that he “wasn’t interested” in the story and, instead, pressured Wilson and Akre to follow whatever directions company lawyers made regardless of how such directed changes “may conflict with the truth or fairness of the broadcasts”. He made it clear that failure to do so would have detrimental effects on the employment status and future careers of Wilson and Akre, warning them: “Are you sure this is a hill you’re willing to die on?”

Wilson and Akre assert that on April 16, 1997, Boylan ordered them to broadcast material known to be false and misleading.

“We paid $3 billion for these television stations” Boylan touted. “We will decide what the news is. The news is what we tell you it is.” Boylan then notified both Wilson and Akre: “You will be fired for insubordination within 48 hours.”

Undaunted, Wilson and Akre (with some 50-odd years of combined journalism experience) responded by informing the station manager that if a false and misleading report were aired, it would be their responsibility to file a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission charging willful and intentional falsification of the news by a television licensee, a violation of the Communications Act of 1934.

HUSH MONEY

Given the impasse, Boylan suggested the other alternative [to firing them] was a settlement in which both Wilson and Akre would be paid for the remainder of 1997 in exchange for a confidentiality agreement not to disclose details of the BGH story or how it had been handled at WTVT. The offer was refused.

Wilson and Akre were not terminated within 48 hours as promised. Wilson reports that he sent letters to Forrest reasserting his willingness to cooperate as long as he did not have to compromise the integrity of the story by adding false or misleading statements.

By May 6, Wilson and Akre were again offered “no-show consultant” jobs—a deal tantamount to termination with pay for the remainder of the first and second year of the two-year contract. The deal offered the duo to be paid full salary in exchange for a release of “all potential claims they have or may have against the company and its related entities and persons, and for [Wilson/Akre’s] silence on all information, knowledge, or data about the company or related entities which has been designated and/or treated as confidential”. (The jury did NOT hear about the second hush deal since the judge decided it was part of a “settlement offer” and not admissible.)

The second offer was also flatly rejected. Incredibly, on May 29, 1997, Forrest telephoned Wilson saying: “I don’t think this story is worth going to court and to trial spending a couple of hundred thousand dollars to fight Monsanto.” Forrest added: “It doesn’t matter if the facts are true but whether a possible lawsuit by the chemical maker Monsanto could be dismissed quickly and easily by summary judgment.”

It was clear the threat by Monsanto affected the thinking of management severely. Wilson was not willing to compromise his principles but continued to make an attempt to placate his employer in the interest of getting the facts to the public. By June 19 the script had been rewritten 18 times. Wilson maintains that even though editors constantly omitted material, at no point could they identify a single example of an inaccurate or misreported fact in any of his numerous scripts.

Further attempts by management and Wilson were made to edit the script in a way pleasing to all, but WTVT counsel refused to approve the versions acceptable to Wilson, Akre, and VP of News Mr. Metlin. Still further changes were made and a new air date was set for August 10, but counsel would again reject it; it would be the sixth air date set and cancelled by WTVT.

Wilson and Akre took a scheduled vacation and while away were notified they may be terminated. A provision in their contract allowed the company to terminate them by December 2, 1997, if written notice was provided by September 1, 1997, to September 21, 1997. Wilson received his termination notification by mail within the prescribed time. He was dismissed “without cause”. Akre returned to work because she maintains she had not been notified of her termination until one day after the contractually stipulated notice period had ended.

Wilson contested his termination in a letter to Station Manager Boylan, stating his termination was not “without cause” as claimed but was actually in retaliation for his refusal to go along with the station’s “desire to slant the story in favor of a corporate giant who has threatened you with ‘dire consequences’ for telling the truth on television”.

Akre wrote a similar letter to Boylan contesting her dismissal but also charged the station with “Breach of Contract” citing her one-day-late notice. (She included this in her suit against WTVT, but Circuit Judge Ralph Steinberg threw it out on the last day of trial.)

Incredibly, on September 24, 1997, the VP of News Mr. Metlin, asked the duo to remake two more versions—one they liked and one management would approve. At this point the Wilson/Akre team had already submitted over 80 versions of the script. While writing yet two more versions (per Metlin’s request) the two were suspended for 10 days without pay for “insubordination as evidenced by their September letters contesting their dismissal and indicating they would pursue remedies through the FCC and courts”. And further, they were told, they must finish the two versions (without pay) or “risk termination for cause, the cause being failure to perform work as assigned”.

Wilson and Akre finished the last two rewrites without pay even though—as a result of their suspension—they were locked out of their building and computers where their notes and files were stored. Boylan would recant his “without pay” decree but add another week to the suspension. The WTVT general manager would then promise NOT to terminate them and added that the story would run. Then, suddenly, Wilson and Akre were sent a fax from the FOX Inc. Los Angeles headquarters announcing: "Your services are terminated on December 2, 1997."

Ultimately, FOX did air their own version of the four-part series—one which Monsanto would not likely sue them for airing. In court papers, FOX denied it wanted to broadcast an uncritical piece, saying it did air "a hard-hitting investigative piece on a subject of controversy that contained a number of statements highly unfavorable to Monsanto".

But Akre and Wilson say the station was still catering to Monsanto. They said FOX's use of lawyers to alter scripts compromised the journalistic integrity of the process.

"Nathan Lang, WTVT's new reporter for the story, did many of the things we refused to do" Wilson said.

Lang omitted several charges in the Akre-Wilson stories:

- Information that Monsanto had sued to stop ecologically conscious companies from labeling its milk as free from the synthetic hormone.

- Allegations that grocery chains misled customers about their efforts to avoid selling milk from treated cows.

- Monsanto's history of manufacturing government-approved products that later proved harmful, such as Agent Orange and PCB.

Did WTVT drag the "editing" process out long enough to exercise the company's option to end the two-year contract a year early? Wilson told The Jubilee: "Perhaps that was their goal near the end of the process, but for a long while I think they figured they could pressure us into either running the story the way they/Monsanto wanted, or just run us off altogether and get rid of their 'problem' that way. In the end, by throwing away the final scripts without even reading them (one of which was written exactly the way they claimed they wanted

As late as April of 1998—four months after the termination of Wilson and Akre and the same month Wilson and Akre filed their suit—FOX was quoted in news reports saying they had no plans to run the story. Wilson says it was after the suit was filed that FOX attorneys suggested they do run the series so that FOX could not be accused of having no intention of doing the story. The series ran in May of that year. Wilson said airing the piece was not because they had important things to tell, but rather, "It was pure damage control."

Following their termination Wilson and Akre filed suit—seeking protection under Florida's Whistleblower Act. (As in many states, Florida protects workers who are fired either for refusing to participate in an activity that is against the law, or for threatening to report such activity to a government agency.)

TRIAL AFTERMATH

The Wilson-Akre-FOX relationship became a tumultuous one, starting with the day the first Monsanto threat letter arrived at WTVT-TV. And now, after the trial, the jury's decision has even become a point of controversy.

FOX is calling their obvious $425,000 loss a "victory" since Steve Wilson, who represented himself, was unsuccessful in getting any financial relief from the jury. And because, FOX says, the jury did not find that WTVT was guilty of actually distorting the news.

Wilson disagrees: "First, we did not go to court for money; we went to get a jury to establish that this television station did deliberately pressure us to falsify the news and that we were fired because we threatened to report them...and the jury saw that to be the case by finding for Jane" Wilson told The Jubilee.

The jury determined Akre was fired for threatening to report WTVT to the FCC for an "activity, policy or practice of the employer that is in violation of a law". In this case, the violated law was the FCC Act of 1934, which prohibits "the deliberate falsification or distortion of the news".

The question now becomes whether the Whistleblower Law, which was clearly violated, automatically implies that an actual violation of the law (FCC Act of 1934) took place or whether the plaintiff [Akre] simply "believed" it did. The Whistleblower Law itself, as cited in the jury instructions, does not use the term "reasonable belief" anywhere. It is not until the judge interprets the law (Fla. Stat §448.102) in the jury instructions that we see the term that has caused the new rift between the plaintiffs and the defendants.

FOX Attorney Ted Russell told The Jubilee that: "The jury's only requirement (per their instructions) was to determine if Akre 'reasonably believed' FOX was distorting or falsifying the news...not that FOX actually did."

Tom Johnson, Akre's attorney, responded: "To a degree, FOX is right, but several things have to be taken into consideration. First, the jury definitely found that WTVT violated the Whistleblower Act. That ought to be bad enough for a television station." Secondly, Johnson explained: “Was the jury required to find that there was a violation of the Law (FCC Act of 1934 which prohibits the deliberate falsification or distortion of the news)? No.

“The jury was required to find that Jane had a good-faith reasonable belief that there was a violation. That leaves us with a six member jury who found any objective person would have believed that WTVT’s actions violated the FCC Act of 1934.”

Johnson says there are two reasons the jury did not find that there was an actual violation [of the FCC Act]. “One, only the FCC can determine if there was an actual violation; the courts can’t do that. And second, they weren’t required to.” It is more inappropriate for FOX to claim the jury did not find FOX violated the FCC Act than it is for Wilson to say they did.

While the WTVT case was never brought before the FCC, Johnson stresses the jury found that any “objective, reasonable person would look at these circumstances and believe that Ms. Akre was entitled to think that there was a violation of the FCC Act of 1934. That means that however many FCC commissioners would have looked at it, they would have more than likely found the same thing—a violation of the FCC Act”.

Technically, the jury’s verdict did not prove the violation, “but where does that leave FOX?” Johnson snickered. “That leaves FOX in a place where they spent millions of dollars and five weeks trying to get six people to believe that there was no objective basis to believe that they [FOX] told somebody to slant and distort the news, and they couldn’t do it. Now, if that’s a badge of honor, I’ll pin it on them myself.”

So did the jury find that FOX did deliberately distort the news? Maybe not specifically, but they did find that FOX violated the Whistleblower Law, “and if you think about that” Johnson said, “that may be even more damning than violating the FCC Act itself because they retaliated against reporters who wanted to tell the truth”.

“I don’t care what Ted Russell says” Johnson quipped. “That jury found out that WTVT did the wrong thing, and they did the wrong thing about the truth. They did the wrong thing about something that has been entrusted to them by the public. They tried to mess the public over for fear of Monsanto and they got busted for it.

“The only adjudication that we have one way or another, as to whether or not FOX violated the FCC Act, is a jury verdict on August 18, 2000, that awarded somebody $425,000 for the damage FOX did to a reporter” Johnson concluded.

FOX, represented by Williams and Connelly (the same firm that represented Bill Clinton and brought us the definition of “is”), has spent an estimated $3 million trying to defend their in America” Wilson said. “You can stand up and do the right thing and not be destroyed in the process.”

WHAT’S NEXT FOR WHISTLEBLOWING DUO?

Since leaving WTVT, the couple sold their “dream home” in a ritzy Florida neighborhood. “When our family income dropped to zero, it seemed prudent” Wilson said.

They now live in a modest home they purchased in Pinellas County, Florida. Wilson says the TV news business may have no place for him or his wife—leaving him convinced that executives are more concerned with selling advertising time than presenting quality stories.

“There’s a growing mindset in this business, where they’re marketing the news like they market socks or any other product” says Wilson. “Everybody should be concerned about that.”

“We set out to tell Florida consumers the truth about a giant chemical company, and a powerful dairy lobby clearly doesn’t want them to know” Wilson said. “That used to be something investigative reporters won awards for. As we’ve learned the hard way, it’s something you can be fired for these days whenever a news organization places more value on its bottom line than on delivering the news to its viewers honestly.

“Had this been a story about some guy turning back odometers” Wilson said, “it would not be worth falling on your sword and ending a 28-year career. But this is about the difference between telling the truth and lying to people; this is about something we all pour on our kids’ cereal.”

position. Curious observers can only assume the $3 million is a bargain compared to the loss they might have incurred had they had the fortitude to take on Monsanto.

FOX’s legal dream-team filed a motion and a 62-page memo asking the trial court to vacate the jury’s decision in favor of Akre and to grant a directed verdict in favor of FOX. The motion will be heard October 26. The judge has already told FOX attorneys he is “not inclined” to change the jury’s verdict. FOX plans to move the case to the appellate court, a process that can take many more months—and at an estimated $650 an hour for the Clinton shysters—another million bucks.

Steve Wilson has also filed a motion on his own behalf, asking the court to correct a ruling regarding the jury instructions in his case and to order a new trial on only his whistleblower claim. FOX, however, is arguing his motion was not filed in a timely manner, a matter the court will need to review.

Who Are Steve Wilson And Jane Akre?

STEVE WILSON has spent more than 28 years as a working journalist in print and broadcast news. His reporting is characterized by a passion for telling the truth in a hard-hitting, plain-talking, no-nonsense style.

Besides his position as Senior Investigative Reporter for Fox-owned WTVT in Tampa, he was Senior Investigative Correspondent for the nationally syndicated television newsmagazine Inside Edition for more than five years before resigning in 1996 to take a break from the constant travel demands of the national program.

Winner of four Emmys and numerous other awards, the National Press Club has honored him with an award for Consumer and Investigative Reporting on Television for a series of reports about faulty rear-door latches in 4.2 million Chrysler-made minivans. It was Wilson's reports that first revealed the hazard.

His reporting on the faulty latch situation also characterized Steve's tenaciousness on a story. When Chrysler finally responded with a proposed solution the government accepted, independent testing arranged by Steve showed the fix was worse than the original problem. Ultimately, the government withdrew its approval and Chrysler came up with a replacement part that would work.

Other recent Wilson reports have revealed fire hazards in Ford ignition switches, a series which prompted the largest-ever recall of automobiles in the U.S.; U.S. Senators taking expensive gifts and favors from special interest lobbyists; and the transgressions of TV preachers Robert Tilton, W.V. Grant, and Benny Hinn.

It was Wilson who also made news for stories that exposed ABC Newsman Sam Donaldson taking federal subsidies while he used his Sunday morning network soapbox to complain about others doing the same thing, and Dan Rather for his reporting years ago about a Los Angeles doctor CBS linked to insurance fraud.

Earlier in his career, Wilson syndicated his own investigative reports to television stations across the country. He also headed investigative units at an ABC-owned station in San Francisco, a CBS-owned station in New York, and he worked at stations in Buffalo and St. Joseph, Missouri.

JANE AKRE has spent 20 years as a network and local television reporter and anchor at various broadcast news operations throughout the country. Most recently she was Investigative Reporter and Anchor for FOX-owned WTVT-TV.

Her career has included numerous assignments in the specialty reporting areas of health and medical issues, as well as investigative and consumer reporting in addition to her anchor assignments. She has won a number of awards, including an Associated Press award for investigative reporting. The birth of her daughter in 1994 heightened her interest and curiosity about all issues related to health.

Akre began her broadcasting career in Albuquerque as a radio news director. She moved to television in 1980 when she accepted a weekend anchor job for an ABC affiliate in Tucson, and later accepted a reporter-anchor position at KTVI in St. Louis.

For three years she anchored and reported for CNN in Atlanta before moving to a main anchor position in the San Francisco market. Prior to anchoring positions in Tampa, Akre also anchored news broadcasts at WSVN in Miami.

David Icke's Journey: A First-Person Account

Editor's note: "We are on the cusp of an incredible global change. A crossroads where we make decisions which will influence life on Earth well into the future of what we call time. We can fling open the doors of the mental and emotional prisons which have confined the human race for thousands of years. Or we can allow the agents of that control to complete their agenda for the mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical enslavement of every man, woman, and child on the planet with a world government, army, central bank and currency, underpinned by a microchipped population.

"I know that sounds fantastic, but if the human race lifted its eyes from the latest soap opera or game show for long enough to engage its brain, it would see that these events are not just going to happen—they ARE happening."

The above is from a writing called "Days Of Decision" by David Icke. It is how he begins the Introduction chapter of his monumental 1999 book THE BIGGEST SECRET.

Longtime readers of The SPECTRUM are certainly well aware of David Icke—possibly the most controversial man on the planet today. Through his many books and lectures, David has not only courageously uncovered and shared information far outside the range of any other investigator, but he has also been a gracious "team player" and enthusiastic supporter of this newspaper since the moment of its initial launching.

Because David has taken the time recently to share his own story in a concise and warmly personable writing, we would like to share that with you here. Needless to say, his Awakening has included a genuinely fascinating array of Guided experiences. Why is it one gets the feeling that his story has REALLY only just begun?!

Many who are new to my work have asked me how I got into all this. So I am going to briefly tell the story here—or as briefly as I can, because so much has happened.

I was born in Leicester, England, at around 6:15 p.m. on April 29, 1952. I was brought up in what they call in Britain a "working class" family on a big council housing estate and money was short, very short, throughout my childhood. I wanted to be a professional soccer player for as long as I could remember, and I achieved that by leaving school to play for Coventry City and Hereford United in the English league.

Just six months after my soccer career began, however, my left knee swelled up for no apparent reason, and after months of tests they told me I had rheumatoid arthritis. I decided to play on because that was all I had ever wanted to do, and I continued for the next five years, progressing in my career, but also watching the arthritis progress into my ankles, left knee, elbow, etc. In the final year of my career, at the age of 20, I was in agony every morning at training, until my joints were warmed up and loosened a little. But I was enjoying a successful period and I wanted to carry on.

It activated still more of a fierce determination I have always had—not to capitulate to adversity and to overcome whatever life may choose to put before me. Or, in truth, what my own journey chooses.

Towards the end of that soccer season, the pain disappeared for around a month and I thought I was going to be OK. But then one morning I awoke to find that every one of my joints was in agony, like a knife being stabbed into them—and my career was over. It took some days to even be able to hobble, never mind walk again. I was just turned 21 and I was led to believe that I would end up a cripple. It hasn't happened. It won't happen. It is not in my reality at all.

I decided I wanted to be a television presenter with the BBC and began to start on that goal by looking for work as a journalist. This was not easy because school had bored me rigid and I left to play soccer before taking any exams. (Thank you, God.) I would do my learning on my terms, in my time, and the "educational" system barely touched me. I rejected it all with a sort of inner knowing that it was not relevant to me.

I managed to get a job on a small weekly paper in Leicester—not least because I was the only applicant. From then on, I advanced quickly through newspapers, local radio, regional television, to become a national sports and news anchorman and reporter. Soon after I achieved this, in 1982, I moved to an island off the south coast of England called the Isle of Wight, a place to which I had been attracted since I was a small child.

It was here that I began to campaign on environmental issues, and this led me to becoming a national spokesman for the British Green Party, a post I held at the time of the Greens' greatest, indeed only, success at national elections in the UK, the election for members of the European Parliament in 1989. But I saw that, while the Green Party talked about being different, it was, like all the Green parties I have come across, just the old politics under a new name. I lost interest and left, as my life went through the most unbelievable upheavals.

From the mid-1980s onward, I had also lost interest in television. I was doing it to earn money to spend on what I really wanted to do—environmental campaigning—and not because I actually desired to do it. I found television to be an empty, soul-less world, in which insecurity and fear abounded. And after the events of March, 1990, my time in television was soon to be over.

I wrote a book in 1989 called It Doesn't Have To Be Like This, setting out the vision and agenda of the Greens because I felt they were talking to each other and not to the public as a whole. As I was writing the book, and in my work for the BBC, I began to feel a presence around me, like there was always someone in the room when there was not. It got to the point where I sat on the side of the bed in a hotel room in London, in early 1990, and said to whoever or whatever: "If you are there, will you please contact me because you are driving me up the wall."

Soon afterwards, events began to move quickly.

In March, 1990, I was playing soccer with my son, Gareth, on the seafront at Ryde on the Isle of Wight, and I said to him we would go and have some lunch at the railway station cafe, a short walk away. The cafe was full, and we turned to walk away when someone recognised me and began to ask me questions about soccer. When the conversation was over, I couldn't see Gareth, but I knew he would be in the newspaper shop nearby, looking at books he liked.

So it was. I stood at the entrance to the shop and said we were going now to find another cafe, but as I turned to leave, my feet were stuck to the ground as if two magnets were pulling them to the floor.

I don't hear voices or anything; I just follow my intuition. But in this early period of awakening I did hear three voices very clearly. This was the first. It said: "Go and look at the books on the far side."

"What the hell was this all about?" I thought.

I knew this shop very well and the books in that section were of no interest to me. But given the voice and what was happening to my feet, I went over to see what would happen.

The first book I saw was one by a psychic lady. I was immediately intrigued because of this presence I had felt around me. I wondered if she would be able to tell me what was going on. She was also a hands-on healer, and so I wrote to her and made an appointment for healing, not telling her about the presence or anything else. To her, I just wanted to try her healing on my arthritis.

I only saw her four times. In the first two visits nothing happened of note, except that I talked with her about other dimensions and the wider vision of life.

Then, on the third visit, I was lying on the couch while the healing was done, when I felt like a spider's web on my face. I had remembered reading in her book that this can happen when "spirits" are trying to make contact. I said nothing to her, but within fifteen seconds, no more, she pushed her head back and said: "This is powerful; I'll have to close my eyes for this one!"

She said she was seeing "a figure" who wanted her to pass on messages to me. The same happened a week later, and this is what the figure asked her to tell me on those occasions:

He [David] is a healer who is here to heal the Earth and he will be world famous. He will face enormous opposition, but we will always be there to protect him.

He is still a child, spiritually, but he will be given the spiritual riches. Sometimes he will say things and wonder where they came from. They will be our words. Knowledge will be put into his mind, and at other times he will be led to knowledge.

He was chosen as a youngster for his courage. He has been tested and has passed all the tests. He was led into football [soccer] to learn discipline, but when that was learned it was time to move on.

He also had to learn how to cope with disappointment, experience all the emotions, and how to get up and get on with it. The spiritual way is tough and no-one makes it easy.

We know he wanted us to contact him, but the time wasn't right. He was led here to be contacted, not to be cured. But one day he will be completely cured. He will always have what he needs, but no more.

Don't try to do it all alone. Go hand-in-hand with others, so you can pick each other up as you fall.

One man cannot change the world, but one man can communicate the message that will change the world.

He will write five books in three years.

Politics is not for him. He is too spiritual. Politics is anti-spiritual and will make him very unhappy. He will leave politics. He doesn't have to do anything. It will happen gradually, over a year. (Exactly what happened.)

In 20 years there will be a different kind of flying machine, very different from the aircraft of today. Time will have no meaning. Where you want to be, you will be.

There will be great earthquakes. These will come as a warning to the human race. They will occur in places that have never experienced them. Taking oil from the seabed is destabilising the inner Earth. The centre of the Earth will move and the poles will change. The sea spirits will rise and stop men from taking oil. The sea will reclaim the land, and humans will see that they cannot do these terrible things. They cannot abuse the elements. They have to be treated with respect.

All this was told to me on March 29, 1990, and on the second visit about a week later. At the time, I was a BBC television presenter and national spokesman for the Green Party, and had no idea what this was all about. Yet, ten years later, most of it has happened or is happening. Even down to the five books in three years, which I wrote to the month.

I told some of the Green Party leadership about these experiences, but their reaction was just as closed-minded, ignorant, and uninformed as you would find in the system the Greens were claiming to challenge. "I think David is going crazy." Yea, right. Welcome to the new politics!

I wrote of these early months of awakening in a book called Truth Vibrations (Gateway Books). Then came the most astonishing event of all—in an endless stream of fantastic experiences I was having and continue to have.

I felt this enormous urge to go to Peru in late 1990, early 1991. I headed there in February 1991, purely on the strength of this intuition. A series of stunning things happened to me there and it culminated with the following experience.

My Peruvian guide had booked us into a hotel called the Sillustani in Puno, not far from

by David Icke

The long awaited NEW RELEASE by David Icke. The blockbuster of all blockbusters! With stunning information never before released on the murder of Diana, Princess of Wales.

David Icke's most powerful and explosive book to date includes the astonishing background to the murder of Diana, Princess of Wales. Every man, woman, and child on the planet is affected by the stunning information that Icke exposes. He reveals in documented detail how the same interconnecting bloodlines have controlled the planet for thousands of years. How they created all the major religions and suppressed the spiritual and esoteric knowledge that will set humanity free from its mental and emotional prisons. It includes a devastating exposé of the true origins of Christianity and the other major religions, and documents suppressed science, which explains why the world is facing a time of incredible change and transformation. The Biggest Secret also exposes the true and astonishing background to the British Royal Family and, through enormous research and unique contacts, Icke reveals how and why Diana, Princess of Wales, was murdered in Paris in 1997. This includes information from a close confidant of Diana for nine years, which has never before been made public.

The Biggest Secret is a unique book and is quite rightly dubbed "The book that will change the world". No one who reads it will ever be the same again.

Lake Titicaca, the highest navigable lake in the world. Sillustani is an ancient Inca site about an hour's drive from Puno, and there were pictures of this around the hotel for obvious reasons.

I said that I wanted to go there, and I had to hire a tourist mini-bus for myself because it was out of season and there were no scheduled trips. There was just me, the guide, and the driver.

Sillustani is a mound next to lagoon with the Inca ruins on the top. It is in an uninhabited area and it was very quiet when I was there—just a couple of children with a lama waiting to sell photographs to tourists, not that there were any.

After I had walked around the ruins for an hour or so in the piercing Peruvian Sun, I went back to the tourist bus to go back to Puno. I thought the trip was over, but it had hardly begun. About three minutes drive down the road, I was looking out of the window and I saw a mound to my right. As I looked at the mound, a voice in my head began to say: "Come to me, come to me, come to me." Very strange, to say the least, but I asked the driver to stop because I wanted to go and look at the mound.

Although I could not see it from the road, I found there was a circle of standing stones at the top of the mound and they had clearly been there for a very long time. I stood in the centre, looking back across to Sillustani, with the mountains way off in the distance. There was not a cloud in the sky and the Sun was extremely hot, burning my face.

Suddenly, I felt my feet pulled to the ground again, like a magnet—the same as in the newspaper shop, but this time far more powerful. My arms then shot up above my head, with no decision by me for them to do so. Put your arms above your head, slightly outwards at about 45 degrees, and see how they start to ache within a minute.

My arms were like that for well over an hour, yet I felt nothing until it was over, and then they were agony.

A flow of powerful energy began to go into the top of my head, like a drill, and I could feel the flow going the other way, up from the ground through my feet. It was then that I heard the third voice in my head, something that has never happened since. It said, very clearly: "It will be over when you feel the rain."

What? What rain? There was not a cloud to be seen anywhere, just a glowing Sun in a clear blue sky!

I stood there as the energy increased and increased, to the point where my body was shaking as if plugged into a power station. After a while, I saw a light grey mist over the distant mountains, and as I watched, it got darker and darker.

It had begun to rain far away. Very quickly this storm emerged from those mountains, filling the sky with clouds, and covering the Sun. Eventually it was over me and I was seeing faces in the billowing clouds. The storm was moving so fast, it was almost like time-lapse photography. Then it began to rain, and as I felt the water on my face, the surge of energy suddenly stopped—as if someone had flicked a switch. I staggered forward, my legs like jelly, my shoulder and arm muscles now very painful.

Energy was pouring from my hands with fantastic power, and I went down to the bus to grab a crystal in an effort to diffuse some of it. My feet continued to burn and vibrate for some 24 hours. I could hardly sleep that night because of it.

My life was to change dramatically—in fact as dramatically as you could imagine, in the weeks that followed. I felt like a dam had burst within me and my consciousness was thrashing around trying to rebalance itself under the new circumstances. That took some two months to happen, and in that time of enormous confusion, Truth Vibrations was launched and I went on national TV in the UK, to be ridiculed beyond belief.

For two years and more I could not walk down any street in Britain without being laughed at by most of the people. Comedians only had to mention my name and they got an immediate laugh.

But nightmare as this was, it set me free of the prison that most people live in—the fear of what other people think. Only by breaking free from that could I now be going around the world talking about shape-shifting reptilians occupying the positions of global power. If you need people to respect you as your sense of security, there is no way you would do that—one key reason why it has so rarely been communicated before. That ridicule was a major part of my journey and it set me free of so much.

From that time, I have followed the flow of life. Exactly what I was told would happen, through the psychic lady in 1991, did. I have been led to knowledge, more and more all the time, which has revealed a picture of how the world has been controlled, by a tiny few, for thousands of years. And how the suppression of the spiritual knowledge—the understanding of who we are and the nature of life itself—has been the foundation of how this has been done. I have also learned of the Great Awakening, the Great Transformation, that is upon us.

The trickle of information became a river, and now it is a tidal wave. Yet, we have hardly begun, and the rest of the story promises to be even more amazing than what has already happened in these last ten incredible years.

Revelations of a Mother Goddess

—VIDEO—

An Interview by David Icke

The staggering story of human sacrifice and satanic ritual, involving the most famous people in the world.

Arizona Wilder, formerly Jennifer Greene, was mind-programmed from birth to become one of the three most important female conductors of Satanic rituals on the planet. Her programmer was Josef Mengele, the notorious "Angel of Death" in the Nazi concentration camps. When he died in the late 1980s, her programming began to break down.

In this video interview with David Icke, she describes human sacrifice rituals at Glamis Castle and Balmoral, in which the Queen, the Queen Mother, and other members of the Royal Family sacrificed children in Satanic ceremonies.

She talks of the same experiences with Henry Kissinger, George Bush, Bill Clinton, members of the Rockefeller and Rothschild families, and a host of the most famous names in the United States and the United Kingdom.

Your view of the world will never be the same when you hear the revelations of Arizona Wilder and consider their relevance to your daily life.

Do You Smell A Set-Up?

Cool Calculation Behind

Ongoing Election Brawl

Editor's note: Regular readers of The SPECTRUM are well aware of the various "situations" that are on the drawing board for provoking a state of Martial Law as just one of several mechanisms to advance other blanket population enslavement agendas of the New World Order gang.

One of the game-plan scenarios would keep Clinton on as president for a third term. Another, which we previewed in a News Desk item last month from Sherman Skolnick, was titled "The Scheme To Make Jay Rockefeller 'President'".

And then there is the obvious tug-of-war going on between Gore and Bush, fronting for different squabbling behind-the-scenes "interests"—who both thought that THEY had the election "in the bag" through their own unscrupulous, covert, vote-adjusting "techno-tricks". How can one call the other a crook, now, without risking exposing their own fraud?

Remember that the early-on information advanced by some with an "inside track" on high-level decision making stated that the behind-the-scenes power rulers were going to make Bush president; this was the news put forth well over a year ago. And to strengthen that, one unofficial after-election report of counties across the United States showed 677 for Gore and 2434 for Bush.

So, exactly how did the election get to be such a "close" one? Are we watching what happens when "conspiracies" clash? And then—is this clash itself a manufactured one purposely engineered as just one step toward advancing a more sinister agenda?

Yes, the ongoing election pageant or circus or brawl or whatever is high on the list of such "situations" which is rich as a tool to manipulate the psychological climate of the entire nation into a frenzy, on the one hand, and yet demoralize many into apathy, on the other, since there is no sensation of an outstanding presidential winner to represent the nation. Rather, there is the purposely engineered growing frustration with, and suspicion of, the election process.

This is large-scale, very skillfully executed mind control at work toward very practical population-enslavement goals wishing to be advanced by the so-called "elite" would-be controllers. A country in psychological disarray is a mentally weak country whose people are very open to "suggestion"—however planted like hypnotic instructions.

And for those of you who keep in mind the more subtle uses for electronic "broadcasting" systems such as HAARP and all of the many cell phone towers around the country, it is an understatement to suspect that such electronic mind-control avenues may be called upon to work overtime to take advantage of such cranked-up election-induced psychological confusion—when the right moment is reached.

The following information provides an insightful look into various aspects of this manipulation exercise, beginning with how FEMA—an important subject of our September 2000 Front-Page story—plays a central, yet so far subtle, role in the election brawl orchestration machinery.

Sherman Skolnick did not put all of these writing excerpts together as "parts" as they are presented here; however, they build upon each other in such a logical progression as to lend to such an outlay.

Moreover, the first part of this discussion was written and circulated a number of days BEFORE Election Day, and thus provides some rather prophetic background hints about the later, unexpected developments we have all been subjected to in a relentless, stir-up-the-public way, through the well-orchestrated print and broadcast media blatherings.

As Skolnick points out below, if you want to have a pretty good historical idea of the game plan underway, go read author Gore Vidal's recent (coincidental?!) book called 1876, and know that while the crooks in high places may not always be much in the way of original thinkers, they certainly know a good idea when they've found one—and besides, the same old tricks keep working on the sleeping public over and over and over again.

Emergency Provisions For Year-2000 Presidential Election

PART ONE (11/1/00)

This is a story almost too sensitive to be told. What do you really know about FEMA, the Federal Emergency Management Agency?

Our research and investigation group learned a lot about FEMA as a result of an unpublicized federal lawsuit we brought against them in January, 1991. In fact, it was filed on the same day that President George Herbert Walker Bush ordered the bombing of his former, long-time, secret business partner in Baghdad, Saddam Hussein.

We put together upwards of a thousand pages of the secret background of FEMA. Some of the appendix to the lawsuit was in compressed, reduced form, so as to prevent it from being so bulky. Among other things, it pointed out the unconstitutional nature of FEMA. That is, some of the Federal Judges in the U.S. are also secretly officials of FEMA. Wearing two hats like that is unconstitutional.

Various presidents, however, have entered little known dictatorial fiats into the Federal Register, or not recorded at all, mandating that in a so-called "emergency", it is forbidden for federal judges to take jurisdiction of any challenge in court to the fascist-like orders of FEMA, suspending habeas corpus, property ownership, right to travel from place to place, and more.

We identified one of the U.S. District judges in Chicago as being a secret official also of FEMA. A crony of his in the court seized upon our lawsuit, and without legal formality ordered our lawsuit "dismissed" and removed from the courthouse. No lawful citation of authority was given. And we had no legal recourse. Of course, we had no opportunity for "open court" hearing or proceedings of any kind.

The corrupt bench and bar promote the idea that we, as the American people, proceed on the law and the facts. In important cases, it is a complete fantasy—as I, as a court reformer, have discovered in more than 40 years of experiences.

The one good thing that came out of it was that we added to our inside sources, even in FEMA, persons who secretly admire our work and assist us with details as best they can. Over the years I, as the head of our group, Citizen's Committee To Clean Up The Courts, have been jailed—not for committing crimes—but for “contempt of court”, for absolutely refusing to divulge sources of our data. The fact that the “authorities” hauled me away in my wheelchair, as if I were a violent bank robber, repeatedly outraged the public, and after a while each time, I was released.

Key honchos in finance and banking, in international business, and domestic and foreign espionage agencies, have studied the Year-2000 Presidential Election. They have determined that there may be what appears to be an “emergency” as an outgrowth of the election.

As a consequence, they have sent what purport to be “US Government” officials to deal with the situation. These “officials” purport to have authority ABOVE the Presidency, above the Congress, above the Courts, AND ABOVE THE CONSTITUTION. (Do not heckle me with naive protests that such is “unconstitutional”, as if I do not already understand that.)

What they have ordered is the following:

1. If a question remains as to the “Electoral College” vote, as provided under the US Constitution 12th Amendment, then they have ORDERED, under pain of extreme action, that the “electors”—who are to meet after the election and cast their ballots for the one they as “electors” believe should be President—that the “electors” are to, instead, pick a different person as President. A person not on the ballot, but of private wealth and, therefore, supposedly immune from bribery and corrupt deed.

The one who would allegedly fit such a description would be U.S. Senator John D. Rockefeller 4th (D-WV), who calls himself “Jay” like he is just one of the common Americans. I, for one, do not accept that “Jay” is above being “bought” because he already is so rich.

2. The oil-soaked monopoly press is under these same fascist-like orders to hint of an emergency, but give no details, as if they are oblivious to what is going on. It has been more than three decades since I outraged the press-fakers by beginning to identify FBI and CIA “assets” in key places at local and network media outlets. (My public-access weekly cable-TV program from time to time continues identifying the FBI and CIA “assets” within the monopoly press. As a result, the press, if they admit I exist at all, have rotten things to say about our work over 43 years time.)

3. These sinister super-government operatives have contacted key “Electoral College” electors. Informing them what they are ORDERED to do—supposedly for the survival of the nation and the central government—upon the failure to carry out “ORDERS”, what violence will be inflicted upon them as electors. Few in the US even know WHO the electors are.

4. Quietly inserted into the political party slates of ELECTORS have been stooges, order-takers, especially in the key high-Electoral Vote states. They do not have to be threatened into following ORDERS.

A foreign aristocracy is NOT the enemy of the American ultra-rich. The ENEMY is the common American, who looks to his guns for the ultimate guarantee of all the other beautiful sounding rights, privileges, and immunities which the central government is forbidden to take away. The Year-2000 Presidential Election, and what follows, may be the final proof that the American organic law, the US Constitution, is a dead letter after all.

Self-educated in law, in the 1960s and 1970s, in Illinois I brought and won most every federal case to force the re-apportionment of gerry-mandered election districts. I was called “Mr. One Man, One Vote”, a slogan for re-apportionment of districts. For awhile, I benefitted minorities in Chicago. As a result of my suit against the City Government, equal population districts were drawn, giving Blacks and other minorities more representation in the Chicago City Council.

When Chicago's first Black mayor, Harold Washington, was assassinated right before Thanksgiving, 1987, I was the only journalist and commentator of any kind giving out the details about how he was poisoned with a cup of coffee, like done in Italy in the Middle Ages.

As the moderator and producer of our television program, cablecast since 1991, I occasionally outrage some naive viewers by pointing that I, as once “Mr. One Man, One Vote”, feel we as Americans are beyond voting. That what ails America cannot be rectified by the voting machine, now taken over by Votescam secret computers in New York. “None of the above” not being on the ballot, there appears to be no quick cure to revive the beautifully worded Bill of Rights.

The alleged emergency, promoted by sinister FEMA operatives, may later be described as “financial”, “caused by terrorists”, or such. My cynical friends point out that people like me will be the most well-informed inmates in America's built-and-waiting concentration camps. We will know exactly how we got there and why.

Do you really think FEMA will allow the Internet to operate as if nothing is happening?

The fact is, the e-mail and web servers do NOT have the capacity to deal with a flood of communications among ordinary people. Like what happened back when President Kennedy was blown away by a CIA-Oil Industry plot, the phones in the District of Columbia all went dead. Do you really think, if an alleged “emergency” is about to be foisted upon us, that we can send one another e-mails like nothing is happening? Stay tuned, if possible.

* * *

The Alleged “Election” What Is Happening

PART TWO (11/8/00)

In effect, the Year-2000 Presidential Election has been cancelled.

So, to be legally accurate, I prefer to call it the alleged “election”. Here is what is happening as of the time I am writing this posting:

1. Good sources told us long before the alleged “election” that the matter may be resolved in Chicago. The Mayor of Chicago, Richard M. Daley, has his brother, William, as the Gore Presidential Campaign Chief.

In previous stories, I have written about the Federal Emergency Management Agency. FEMA officials, some of whom are also federal judges, such as in Chicago (unconstitutional, right?), have reportedly been communicating with the two Daleys. They demand “co-operation” (implied threat)—that is, that the Mayor and his brother not stand in the way of the FEMA officials orchestrating the outcome.

As we have pointed out in 1991 in federal court, and in my previous posting, FEMA is ABOVE the U.S. Constitution, ABOVE the presidency and the Congress (unconstitutional, right?).

2. The Florida presidential vote matter is to be submitted, under Florida law, making it mandatory, to an automatic recount because of the closeness of the alleged result. Vote fraud has been raised. (What about the TV and radio networks' OWN VOTE FRAUD through their Votescam computer in New York?)

The recount matter could take at least until after February, at the earliest, making the usual Presidential inauguration cancelled. Some thought President Clinton was hallucinating when, months ago, he said he is not leaving the White House—even after the Year-2000 Election.

If the recount is challenged in court, the matter would go on, according to my estimate, to April or June, 2001, at the earliest.

If the matter gets to court, the Democrats may well publicly proclaim that Florida judges are beholden to the American CIA.

Remember how the Florida judge barred testimony implicating George Herbert Walker

Bush in the Manuel Noriega prosecution. Old man Bush, as former head of America's secret political police, the CIA, installed various dictators, including Iraq's Saddam Hussein and Noriega, among others. Revelations about the CIA's domination of the Florida judiciary inevitably may have something to say about the Coca-Cola company and the CIA and the courts, in next door Georgia.

[Editor's note: Go back to last month's issue of The SPECTRUM for the possible Coca-Cola connection to this large and intricate spider's web controlling the presidential election circus.]

3. Like in the Tilden-Hayes mess in the 19th Century, the Bush-Gore matter will most likely be submitted to the Electoral Commission, under the 12th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

In the prior commotion, they reached a compromise as to how post-Civil War reconstruction was to proceed. In the current controversy, they may ORDER a compromise, that is, that a person not on the Year-2000 Presidential Election ballot be selected, by the Electoral College, as the "elected" President. That has been pre-judged to be John D. Rockefeller 4th, who calls himself "Jay" to be cute.

The Democrats have various blackmail bargaining chips when blackmail has traditionally been the criterion as to key matters:

- Documents exist showing the elder Bush was implicated in covering up the plot to assassinate President John F. Kennedy. (One such document is posted in a previous story of mine as to Bush.)

- Documents exist showing the Bush family is directly in business with the Queen of England through her bank, Coutts Bank, London. (See our prior series, Greenspan Aids And Bribes Bush.)

Since the War of 1812, the British have vowed to take back this continent as a British puppet colony. William Rockefeller Clinton was sent by the Rhodes Trust to be educated at Oxford. The Rhodes Trust is pledged to overthrowing the American government and restoring British domination.

The Brits played a role in stirring up known hostility between the South and the North, Divide and Conquer, to foment the American Civil War. The Brits ran the Union forces blockade to supply weapons to the Confederacy. One Confederate top official fled this continent and lived out his life in England.

The British played a role in the political assassination of President James Garfield and President William McKinley, who opposed Britain trying to dominate American aspirations and industrial development.

Clinton took a pledge to support the Rhodes Trust. He did not finish his Oxford education, having been ordered, under threat of criminal prosecution, to leave England for having raped a British woman. Later, as President, he twice took an oath at Inaugurations, to support the U.S. Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic. Which oath did this pathological liar intend to keep? To the Rhodes Trust or to the U.S. Constitution?

- When he was vice president and later president in the 1980s, the elder Bush arranged to flood the U.S. with dope from Colombia. As v.p. Bush was supposed to be head of the South Florida Dope Interdiction Task Force, or some group with a similar government name. His sons, George W. Bush and Jeb Bush, were implicated in picking up cocaine for their own use in airplanes they flew into a Florida U.S. military base. The Bush family are implicated, through 25 secret bank accounts worldwide, in laundering billions and billions of dollars from the dope traffic. (See our website story with documents attached there.) Greenspan, as czar of the Federal Reserve, authorized this dirty business. (Greenspan's secret authorization codes are shown on some of the posted documents.)

[Editor's note: We shared this important information with you in the March and April 2000 issues of The SPECTRUM and, if there is any point to keep in mind here, it is that this gang is a very busy and diversified group of "entrepreneurs"—at the expense of the hard-working and largely unsuspecting public.]

- A picture exists, made by an undercover team of the Drug Enforcement Administration, showing George W. Bush snorting cocaine with his buddy William Rockefeller Clinton. You have been asleep if you did not know that Clinton and the Bush family are cronies and get together at old man Bush's mansion in Kennebunkport, Maine. The picture has long been suppressed, although in the possession of top news people of the major news networks. The Gore campaign reportedly has, for some time, had the picture. (They would like to show George W. but not Clinton.)

- Greenspan has conferred with Clinton on the matter of whether to close down the stock and commodity exchanges, and even interfere with transactions of U.S. bonds.

(Little known fact: large purchases of U.S. bonds by Japan and Saudi are backed by gold. U.S. purchasers of U.S. bonds have no such benefit.)

Foreign countries may have reason to lose confidence in the American central government. Britain relishes that idea, when, as mentioned, since the War of 1812, England vowed to overthrow the American government.

In its simplest form, Clinton has been a British agent, bringing intentional discredit to the American government through his lying and his sexual predatory episodes, such as raping Juanita Broaddrick, and using the room next to the Oval Office for his episodes with Monica Lewinsky.

(Since Clinton is an illegitimate great-grandson of old John D. Rockefeller, who created the infamous Standard Oil trust, no sensible member of the U.S. Senate would have dared be in favor, at an impeachment trial, of removing Clinton as President. Legitimate great-grandson, John D. Rockefeller 4th, may be foisted as alleged "president" on the American people by blackmail and trickery.)

- Great secrets of the U.S. may come out in the apparent unfolding "emergency". Such as the high-level CIA plots to assassinate President Kennedy, Malcolm X, Kennedy family friend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Robert F. Kennedy, and the airplane-bombing that took the life of John F. Kennedy, Jr., who intended, in 2000, to run for president. The Kennedy family, however, has been silenced by financial benefits awarded them following each assassination. (See my website series titled "What Happened To America's Golden Boy".)

In an era, starting some 40 years ago, when political murder is the unofficial policy of the American secret police, I intend to keep with our strict policy of not risking or revealing sources, even to those who are skeptical despite our four-decade history of exposing profound secrets and corruption.

The Internet may get mysteriously plugged up. Stay tuned, if possible.

The Bush Family, Florida, And The American CIA

PART THREE (11/15/00)

The former head of America's secret political police has three of his sons and their cronies, in and out of state and federal government, in various covert and reputed fraudulent enterprises. Family patriarch, George Herbert Walker Bush, has a lot to answer for, which the oil-soaked monopoly press never seems to question. The elder Bush, as we have demonstrated, together with three of his sons, George W., Jeb, and Neil, have 25 super-secret bank accounts worldwide, through which they have laundered tens of BILLIONS of dollars of illicit funds from the dope traffic, from weapons smuggling, and clandestine and illegal gold smuggling overseas. The commissar of the Federal Reserve, Alan Greenspan (we prefer to label him Redspan), through his secret authorization codes, arranged the clandestine wire transfers for the Bush Family. (See our website series called "Greenspan Aids And Bribes Bush" and documents thereto attached.)

The major news networks have not publicized what they already know and have corroborated about the Bush family and their cronies. One of the most active of the family has been Jeb Bush, at the time of this posting governor of Florida. He and his two brothers, and their cronies, have reportedly committed a series of real estate frauds, bank swindles, and other reputed massive rip-offs, for which they should have been prosecuted and imprisoned, and which have caused the taxpayers and innocent parties billions and billions of dollars.

A list of their reputed fraudulent enterprises includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- Marco Island Securities
- Cosmos Development Group
- Destin Country Club Development (Destin, Florida)
- Harken Energy (Bahrain oil development and financial laundry)
- Swissco Management Group
- American Bank and Trust of Pensacola, Florida
- Orange State Bank of Miami, Florida
- Cadillac Development Group, Miami, Florida

Jointly with his father and the American CIA, Jeb Bush used these enterprises as a reputed massive money laundry for illicit funds, including funds for bloody dirty tricks of the spy agency, such as overthrowing foreign governments deemed unworthy or unfriendly to the spy shop and, on occasion, assassinating foreign leaders. Reportedly participating in these schemes has been Porter J. Goss, more recently a Congressman (R-FL), and previously a covert operations officer of the American CIA.

Also interwoven with these fraudulent enterprises has been Henry Hyde, Congressman from Chicago suburbs. In violation of the U.S. Constitution's mandate of Separation of Powers, Hyde is also head of the CIA's "black budget"—using the dope trafficking proceeds to finance dirty tricks. Hyde was supervising authority of the Mena, Arkansas airport dope trafficking for CIA, jointly with George Herbert Walker Bush, Ollie North, and William Rockefeller Clinton. Hyde has reportedly assisted the Bush family in laundering illicit funds through the Paradise Island (Bahamas) gambling casino. (As we have pointed out elsewhere, Hyde has been criminally implicated with the Paradise Island gang since 1969.)

Goss, a Congressman from Florida's 14th Congressional District, has been Chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence that, in secret sessions, supervises the American CIA and their murderous dirty tricks. The Majority Staff Director of the Select Committee, John Millis, was murdered, and typical of an intelligence "hit", was disguised as an alleged "suicide". Just prior to being murdered, disgruntled for various reasons, Millis arranged to leak to a certain outspoken independent-minded journalist, lists of CIA proprietary firms, used to disguise CIA dirty tricks. The lists, with accompanying details, criminally implicate George Herbert Walker Bush and his three sons, Jeb, George W., and Neil, and their cronies in Florida state government.

Some of these CIA adjuncts, privatized for "cover", have been owned, in turn, by Caribbean and European tax havens, where local laws guarantee absolute secrecy, and where financial enterprises and "shell companies" launder the illicit proceeds from the dope traffic, weapons smuggling, gold covert traffic, and the sale of nuclear bomb triggers.

(An Italian-based scandal, interwoven with this, was the Roger D'Onofrio Affair, subject of Reuters and other wire service stories not well-publicized in the U.S. These stories, under a Rome dateline, early in December, 1995, mentioned, for example, that the Archbishop of Barcelona, Spain, was accused by Italian authorities of being a kingpin in using the Vatican Bank for these illicit doings, including the sale of osmium nuclear bomb triggers. In our series on Greenspan/Bush, we showed documents of how the Bush family laundered huge sums through a bank in Malaga, Spain.)

Upwards of $75 million of these bloody clandestine funds, of Jeb Bush, brothers George W. and Neil, and their father, reportedly have been parked through the Chicago unit of a major French bank, Credit Lyonnais. Reportedly acting as "laundry lady" and surrogate for these funds, through Credit Lyonnais, has been Katherine Harris, in recent years Florida Secretary of State.

In her position, she controls and supervises the filing—or reportedly, on occasion, the concealing—of corporate data and corporate charters and annual reports, on the basis of corporations considered domestic to Florida or listed as "foreign" corporations, actually meaning corporations domiciled elsewhere in the United States. In that capacity, she has reportedly sought to keep secret records, known however to John Millis, relating to the "shell" companies operated as part of the massive swindling of her boss, Governor Jeb Bush, his two brothers, and their father.

Katherine Harris also reportedly played "laundry lady" and surrogate for her boss, Florida governor Jeb Bush, and the Bush family, in huge amounts of illicit funds laundered through another French bank, Banque Paribas. Katherine Harris has played a key role in the Year-2000 Presidential Election mess centered around Florida.

Long-time sources in retirement in the intelligence community have contended for some time prior to the Year-2000 Presidential Election that it would be orchestrated on a mammoth scale from a prior historical example as a blueprint.

A recent book of Gore Vidal, entitled 1876, is a reconstructed discussion of the 1876 presidential election mess involving Florida and two contenders for the White House, Samuel J. Tilden and Rutherford B. Hayes. Because of complications with the Electoral College and an extremely tight race, a compromise was necessary by which Hayes became a highly-damaged U.S. president, called various names of fraud during his term.

Some contend that the fine hand of the American CIA is evident in the Year-2000 Election ruckus. Through a reported computer "glitch", upwards of 65,000 presidential election ballots "disappeared" in Tennessee, causing presidential candidate Albert Gore, Jr., to be embarrassed by supposedly not carrying his home state in the election.

Did the American CIA play a role in the Year-2000 Presidential Election, using 1876 as a blueprint? Clinton for months prior to the election contended to confidants that he expected to remain in the White House after the election and such, by some kind of an emergency. Did Clinton, early in his career, being a CIA darling, have inside information or was he just hallucinating?

One of the major news networks, despite having corroborated much of the foregoing details, has covered up the role of Florida Secretary of State Katherine Harris with respect to Jeb Bush and his reputed fraudulent enterprises, and her role in seeking to apparently block counting of questioned election ballots.

There is more to this story. Stay tuned.

Oil-Soaked Fixer In The Florida Election

PART FOUR (11/22/00)

When the lead of George W. Bush in the crucial Florida Year-2000 Presidential Election slipped beneath 400 votes, the reputed bagman was brought in to help put in the fix. That was James A. Baker III, who had been U.S. Secretary of State in the administration of the Elder Bush.

Baker's apparent job was simple. He had to remind, if necessary, Florida Secretary of State, Katherine Harris, to favor Bush in certifying the election returns. Baker was there to let her know, as if she did not remember, that she might be fingered for reportedly having been the "money laundry lady" in billions and billions of dollars of proceeds from dope trafficking and weapons smuggling for a gang that included her boss, Jeb Bush, Florida Governor.

With the aid of the British monarchy and British counter-intelligence, George Herbert Walker Bush has been a kingpin in the oil cartel. He had a falling-out with his secret private business partner of the decade of the 1980s, Saddam Hussein, the Iraqi strongman. For that decade they shared pay-offs from the weak and degenerate sheikdoms of the Persian Gulf. To keep Saddam, the bully boy of the Gulf, happy with his business partner Bush, the kick-backs from each barrel of crude sent amounted to upwards of a quarter of a trillion dollars for the ten years.

The secret Hussein-Bush partnership was the subject of a little-known federal lawsuit in Chicago in 1990-1991. I was the only journalist attending the federal appeals court hearing, and then interviewing the participants afterwards in the back of the courtroom. Only one news outlet, a Washington, D.C.-based populist newspaper, SPOTLIGHT, dared print my uncensored report.

After all, the Elder Bush, when he was head of America's secret political police, created Saddam by arranging the assassination of his predecessor. By 1988, Bush, as a major stockholder of Pennzoil through a fraudulent bankruptcy, got a stranglehold on Texaco, which obtained much of their oil from Iraq. To facilitate the $12 billion bankruptcy cover-up, the Elder Bush reportedly corrupted both the Texas Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court.

At the close of the Persian Gulf War, President Bush and two of his top generals, Colin Powell and H. Norman Schwarzkopf, were paid millions and millions of dollars in gold and jewels from the Emir of Kuwait. (An apparent indication of discrimination, the Emir gave Colin Powell less than Bush and Sckwarzkopf. Little known, that late in the 20th century, Kuwait still had, according to a United Nations report, Black chattel slaves. By the way, what were Black American GIs doing fighting and dying in the Gulf War for slaveowners?) These pay-offs by the Emir of Kuwait were unlawful to be received by Bush and the two generals, under the U.S. Constitution, Article I, Section 9, which provides:

"No Title of Nobility shall be granted by the United States. And no Person holding any Office of Profit or Trust under them, shall without the Consent of the Congress, accept of any present, Emolument, Office, or Title, of any kind whatever, FROM ANY KING, PRINCE, OR FOREIGN STATE." (Emphasis added.)

In Part Two of our exclusive series called Greenspan Aids And Bribes Bush, we showed a portion of the secret report, the hand-written analysis by a senior official of the U.S. Department of the Treasury, Office of Internal Affairs, of the Bush family massive corruption with billions and billions of dollars funneled in and out of their worldwide 25 accounts, proceeds from dope trafficking and weapons smuggling. Attached to our series are some of the secret Federal Reserve wire transfer records showing Alan Greenspan, Commissar of the Fed, using his secret authorization code, facilitating this nefarious business. For example, shown is the Elder Bush's and his son George W. Bush's joint account with the Queen of England in the bank owned by the British monarch, Coutts Bank of London. (The hand-written analysis has the code on it for Vice President/President of the United States: Proteus/Potus.)

Knowledgeable sources, by the way, point out that when the documents refer to "Jorge Bush", they most likely mean his son, George W. Bush, who in speeches to Latinos, refers to himself as "Jorge".

James A. Baker III has been interwoven with many of the oil cartel deals of the Bush family. In a hand-written note on one of the documents, Baker is referred to as the corrupt fixer covering up pay-offs to Bush. (You can see the document on our website at <http://www.skolnicksreport.com/images/ustres3.gif> and also see ustres1.gif as a document.)

The Bush family—including Florida governor Jeb Bush and his gang of swindlers interwoven with the CIA and reputedly Katherine Harris—appear to be angry that their bagman, James A. Baker III, was unable to corrupt the judges on the Florida Supreme Court. Many Florida judges—evidently not those on the Florida high court—are beholden to the American CIA, a consequence of the massive money flow through Florida banks and enterprises from the dope traffic from Colombia, Mexico, Venezuela, Bolivia, and others, all south of the U.S. in this hemisphere. Unlike other key judges, evidently the Florida high court judges are NOT banker/judges—too often, as we have pointed out, typical of judges throughout the nation.

Just another story suppressed by the liars and whores of the Press. You know who—those with the fifty dollar hairdos and the nickel head.

More details as they develop. Stay tuned.

The Big Lie And The Oil-Soaked Monopoly Press

PART FIVE (11/25/00)

Reporters who cover the U.S. Supreme Court are turning in stories they know are the BIG LIE. In items in the New York Times and other major papers, they are stating that the Bush campaign's objections to the manual recount are granted to be heard by the U.S. Supreme Court.

I happen to know a lot about that high court in Washington and their procedures. I hold a record, of sorts—having, in the past, petitioned that court perhaps more times than most anyone else in that court's history.

In the Florida election mess, two petitions for what the high court calls "Certiorari" were filed. Listed on the clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court's records as #836 is George W. Bush, petitioner, versus Palm Beach County Canvassing Board, et al., respondents. In that one, according to the high court's order of Friday, November 24, 2000, certiorari was granted. The court narrowed down the petitioner to argue about the federal statute, Title 3 United States Code Section 5, dealing with the state's appointment of State Electors to the Electoral College. The court order stated: "The parties are directed to brief and argue the following question: What would be the consequences of this Court's finding that the decision of the Supreme Court of Florida does not comply with 3 U.S.C. Sec. 5?"

The procedure, seldom mentioned outside law schools and such, in the U.S. Supreme Court, is that the petitioner is to basically knock on the door and beg to be heard. It is called Petition for Certiorari.

In a recent term of the high court—since the judges are also lazy and indifferent—there were 1600 such begging petitions pending. Guess what? Using only one word, "denied", the nine judges refused to hear each and every one of the pending petitions and gave no reason for refusing them.

The second begging petition filed in the high court was listed as #837, Ned Siegel vs. Theresa LePore. The high-court order stated: "The Petition for a writ of certiorari before judgment is denied without prejudice." This case involves recount issues.

The oil-soaked monopoly press, to favor their CIA darling, George W. Bush, promotes the BIG LIE that ALL the issues mentioned on the TV by Bush's lawyers are going to be heard. Not so.

Hitler's propaganda chief, Joseph Goebels, was an amateur compared to the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Chicago Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, and others among the press-fakers. Among other things, their purpose is to ignore that one of the presidential candidates, Albert Gore, Jr., won the plurality of the POPULAR VOTE, and that Bush is seeking to gain the Electoral College trick through seeking to defeat any kind of manual count. (As Texas governor, Bush signed a manual recount law in his state on close elections.)

I do not appreciate being called a Gore loyalist simply for pointing out the truth. I am an independent.

In the 1960s and 1970s I was called "Mr. One Man, One Vote". Being self-educated in law, in Illinois, in the federal courts, I brought and won, on behalf of all voters and myself, various suits to re-do Illinois' then terribly gerry-mandered election districts, according to the principle of equal numbers of residents in each district. Some districts had 150 thousand more residents than other districts; thus a vote in such a district had less weight than elsewhere.

My suits re-apportioned various districts, giving them equal chance—for the first time, for example, for Latinos and Afro-Americans to have proper representation in Congress, in Chicago City Council, and other elected tribunals. Before the era of plain-paper cheap copiers, I used a high-speed mimeograph stencil machine to crank out stacks of court papers in each case, to combat as many as 50 opposing lawyers in each case. A few corrupt judges got steam-rollered by me, also, when they tried to hold secret proceedings, without me, in some of these publicly important suits.

Over the last ten years, on my weekly public-access cable TV show, I occasionally outrage some naive viewers by proclaiming that we ordinary Americans may be in a permanent post-election period. That what ails America most likely cannot be remedied anymore by elections, since the ruling elite pick only blackmailable types for high office. That the ultra-rich rule us BY THE BULLET, NOT THE BALLOT. Leaders, who some of us thought were charming and possibly good for the people, have been assassinated, and the blame falsely put on lone assassins.

And from here on in, will ordinary Americans be interested only in the right to bear arms under the 2nd Amendment—a guarantee by force against a central government tyranny to abolish all our other beautifully-worded rights, privileges, and immunities set forth in the Bill Of Rights?

I am often misunderstood as a result of being ahead of the parade. Stay tuned.

The Breakaway States In America

PART SIX (11/29/00)

In the beginning, this nation was referred to as the United States IN America. Somewhere along the way, this country came to be called the United States OF America.

The American Civil War had something to do with it. So did the federal law in 1863 authorizing NATIONAL banks. Then there were the post-Civil War flip-flop decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court regarding Greenbacks, U.S. Currency.

The U.S. Constitution took away from the states any right the inhabitants may have thought they had as independent states. For example, notice these provisions of the Constitution, Article I, Section 9: "No Tax or Duty shall be laid on Articles exported from any State. No Preference shall be given by any Regulation of Commerce or Revenue to the Ports of one State over those of another; nor shall Vessels bound to, or from, one State be obliged to enter, clear, or pay Duties in another."

More than whispers. Some are talking about the idea of an illegitimate CENTRAL GOVERNMENT in the United States. The consequence, so far, of the Year 2000 Presidential Election, is that one candidate won the plurality of the popular vote, and the other claims to have won the Electoral Vote.

Even those who are not conspiracy theorists have to recognize historical facts. The ruling elite in New York financed Leon Trotsky and the creation of the Soviet Union, in 1917, with V. Lenin, and later, Josef Stalin.

And following World War II, the American aristocracy spread the anti-Soviet feeling in the U.S. with the Red Scare. It was a way of temporarily strengthening the U.S. central government with the perception of a "foreign enemy". All along, of course, the enemy of the ruling elite was actually the common folk of America.

Among the cross-currents have been other events. Since at least the War of 1812, Great Britain has vowed to overthrow the American central government and return this continent and its inhabitants to being British subjects in puppet colonies. The Brits fanned the flames of a natural and regional hostility between the South and the North, leading to the American Civil War. British ships ran the Union blockade, to bring weapons to the Confederacy. (After the war, a key official of the Confederacy fled to England and lived out his life there.)

The Brits played a role in the political assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. In the 36 years after the War Between The States, as southerners call it, we had two presidents who greatly resisted British interference with the industrial and financial developments and aspirations of the U.S. One President, James Garfield, was assassinated with British connivance, and it was falsely blamed on a lone assassin. The other was President William McKinley, likewise so murdered and blamed on a "lone nut". (I recognize that you may have read otherwise in your high school U.S. history textbook. And maybe relied on the falsely published accounts that a "lone assassin" killed President John F. Kennedy in 1963, his brother Bobby running for President in 1968, and their friend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., murdered as well in 1968.)

By the late 1980s, the World Government promoters, and their secret societies, set about to destroy their creature, the Soviet Union. They did this by attacking their government structure, fomenting natural, ethnic, and religious hostilities between the far-flung provinces. And by attacking their poorly designed banking system and currency.

The Western press began calling the warring pieces of the Soviet Union, as breakaway provinces. These portions of the U.S.S.R. undermined the Central Government in Moscow, by refusing to forward taxes and fees that all along financed the Soviet empire.

The American CIA supplied modern weapons and financing to the opposition to the Soviets in their war against Afghanistan. The outcome, somewhat like the inglorious ending to the U.S. intervention in the Viet Nam civil war, resulted in great loss of confidence in the central government. The result as war-losers, disgruntled, the soldiers of the Red Army at times have gone unpaid and live as vagabonds in tents.

The British Monarchy, carrying out their anti-U.S. Constitution policies, have set about to effectively dismember, dismantle, and discredit the American central government in Washington. In the simplest explanation, William Rockefeller Clinton was chosen by the secret Bilderberg Group of world elitists to be president. As a then rather obscure southern governor, he was invited to be anointed at their 1991 meeting in Germany. A CIA darling since college age, he was put, in 1992, as a massive fraud on the American people, to run against his mentor, the former commissar of America's secret political police, George Herbert Walker Bush.

They mutually agreed not to rattle each other's skeletons—such as Bush's Iran-Contra treason. Bush became vice president in 1980, by a secret traitorous meeting with the Iranians holding 52 U.S. American embassy hostages. The Iranians agreed not to return the U.S. hostages until the successful inauguration of Ronald Reagan as President and Bush as Vice President in 1981. In return, Bush arranged to have U.S. weapons trans-shipped to Iran via Israel, so Iran could effectively keep up the price of Persian Gulf oil by fighting a war with neighbor Iraq.

All this destroyed Jimmy Carter's campaign for re-election, since he appeared to be a wimp unable to get back the U.S. hostages prior to the 1980 election. Published revelations called it "The October Surprise".

On the other hand, Bush agreed not to publicize or confront presidential candidate Clinton as a pathological liar and rapist, and jointly with Hillary Rodham, as a massive bank embezzler. (See our website for stories about the mysterious $50 million used to try to cover up a $47 million embezzlement of a Little Rock financial institution by Bill and Hillary.)

The alleged "Clinton" and his wife were actually a marriage of convenience, they being what is known as a "CIA couple". Each, from an early age, had duties with CIA. She later became Board Chairperson of the New World Foundation, a conduit for CIA funds to provocateurs, used to discredit grassroots movements. She was a director of the U.S. unit of a French firm, American LaFarge, in which the Elder Bush had a large financial stake. The firm reportedly supplied ingredients to Saddam Hussein of Iraq for the manufacturing of poison gas used against the dissident Kurds and war-enemy Iran.

In the Juanita Broderick rape, Clinton told her not to worry, since he was sterile since having mumps as a teen-ager. BUT—who then fathered daughter Chelsea?

With this as a background to be considered, there is a growing perception that the American central government is illegitimate. If George W. Bush becomes the actual or acting President, states with a plurality of popular votes for Gore are seriously considering to become breakaway states. Especially since Gore, nationwide, won the popular vote.

They are exploring how to go about refusing to forward taxes and other funds to the central government in Washington, sort of like the breakaway provinces in respect to the Moscow government. In the U.S., it is a step in the direction of a growing new secessionist movement (like what led up to the War Between The States).

On the other hand, if Gore becomes the actual or acting president, states with a plurality of popular votes, and electoral votes, for Bush are considering to become breakaway states as well. As of the date of the posting of this story, here is the list of the United States IN America considering to become breakaway units, provinces, or territories, disconnecting themselves financially and legally from the central government in Washington: California, Pennsylvania, and New York. Also, possibly, Florida, New Mexico, Arizona, and Texas. One of the only territories to join the union with a proviso, Texas reserves the right for their state legislature to split Texas into five separate states. Or in a secessionist movement, to become the republic of Texas.

The whole idea seems like out of an unbelievable movie. There is a growing feeling to split up, or balkanize, the United States IN America, into ten separate regions, as promoted by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. That agency, by the way, claims to sit

ABOVE the U.S. Constitution, ABOVE the U.S. congress, and ABOVE the presidency. Some federal judges wear two hats, one being that they are also secretly officials of F.E.M.A. (See our story "Emergency Provisions For Year 2000 Presidential Election".)

With America more and more caused to be perceived as a broken window, the anger of Americans seems to be directed against the central government in Washington. This anguish is promoted and fomented by the British, like the North-South mess leading up to the American Civil War. A financial tailspin may be the trigger setting loose a smart-bomb to wreck the Washington government. In a more pedestrian analogy, some call it simply a horrendous foreign-created train wreck. Stay tuned.

A Nation's Destiny In A Time Of Awakening (And Thank You, Too!)

12/1/00 HATONN

Good evening, my scribe. It is I, Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, come in the Light of, and in Service to, The One Light—Creator God. Be still and be at peace.

You of the United States have a great machinery in place that is designed to bring about a mental attitude and a strong outcry for the “need” for change with respect to your country’s Constitution. As you can well see, there has been a great focus of attention placed upon the presidential elections, and which “puppet-head” will win the nation’s highest seat. There will be appeal after appeal filed, and the “problem” (engineered by the behind-the-scenes shadow government) of the popular vote verses the electoral vote system will give rise to this “need” for amending the U.S. Constitution.

This will eventually lead to a rapid downfall of the control structure so delicately being held in balance at this time. Why?

Because, when the would-be controllers gain access to the Constitution, they fully intend to re-write various parts of it that have NOTHING whatsoever to do with the voting procedure—so as to further usurp the rights of the country’s citizens and place much tighter controls on each of you.

This attempt to further suppress the U.S. citizen will meet with great resistance, and the ENERGY released will eventually destabilize completely the current government, and come as a “shock” (both literally and figuratively) to the arrogant ones who think they have a higher understanding of human nature.

One of their biggest overestimations will be of their control and influence over all of the large media organizations, not to mention the nearly uncontrollable realm of the Internet.

Be the diligent student and watch with the eye of the skeptic. Question all things that you hear, and study very closely what is NOT being talked about. The sleepy members of society will become quite aroused when the realization of what is planned for them impacts their conscious mind. This will awaken many who have never even so much as flinched a muscle in the past when “buckets of water” have been thrown upon them in the form of bureaucratic legislation and laws that have eroded or undermined their basic freedoms.

The United States Constitution was, with the Bill Of Rights, set up to guarantee basic human rights. The framers of the Constitution were all respected and God-loving men who included God in their decision-making and, though there were those who opposed the document, the majority saw the Guiding Hand of Wisdom at work and realized that there was great Reason for it’s creation, as it is an Inspired work—not wholly perfect, but inspired just the same.

The United States Constitution was, with the Bill Of Rights, set up to guarantee basic human rights. The framers of the Constitution were all respected and God-loving men who included God in their decision-making and, though there were those who opposed the document, the majority saw the Guiding Hand of Wisdom at work and realized that there was great Reason for it’s creation, as it is an Inspired work—not wholly perfect, but inspired just the same.

The United States once stood as a torch of freedom that all the world admired, and desired to be a part of, in the early years. Many an immigrant came to the United States in order to find a better life. Many came and found what they sought after. As time has progressed, more and more immigration laws have been passed so as to limit ones’ ability to move to the United States, for with great numbers the issue of control becomes a greater concern.

It had been determined by those who eventually established the League of Nations (later to become the United Nations) that the United States of America had TOO MUCH FREEDOM, and thus would not conform easily to the ideals and control from a One World Government point of view. Thus it has been deemed necessary, over the last 100 or so years, to embark upon a campaign of systematic tearing down of the country to literally bring it to its knees.

This began with removing the country from a gold or silver standard, and introducing income taxation along with the strict governmental control and regulation of all trade and commerce conducted within her borders as well as internationally. So great has this control been perfected that ALL of your country’s major manufacturing companies have either set up business outside the U.S. or they have parallel factories in place as they prepare for the transition to do so.

The raw materials used by the remaining factories come mostly from outside the U.S. now. As the government regulators impose more and more costly regulations upon manufacturers of goods, their costs rose exponentially as they efforted to keep up with the ever increasing demands of “Big Brother”. Most never realized what was actually happening, or the REAL reasons behind their being regulated out of existence.

One only needs to look to the likes of Microsoft and observe the ongoing government meddling in the affairs of big business so as to “protect” the “little guy” from the large “mean” corporate giant. The end result will inevitably be higher prices to the consumer (that’s YOU, the “little guy”) and more sales tax revenue for the government.

Who really wins? Does this sound like a government OF the people, BY the people, and FOR the people?

What ever happened to the basic individual rights of the people to seek and find their own personal prosperity without the threat of government? The answer lies in the business philosophies and regulations that govern these formed relationships called corporations, partnerships, trusts and such, wherein INDIVIDUALS form entities which are NOT HUMAN and therefore fall under a different set of rules. This is the basic story of how such basic concepts of freedom have been circumvented in your country.

Your businesses DO NOT have the same protection as do individuals under the Constitution Of The United States. Your businesses are often granted various tax advantages so that individuals will be greatly enticed to enter into business in such a manner as, say, a corporation, never realizing that by doing so they have created an entity that can more easily be controlled by “Big Brother”—especially in times of EMERGENCY, which is going to be nearly constant in your country.

The United States is destined to be the torch bearer to the world as a symbol of freedom. As she continues to evolve spiritually, as a collective whole, there will come a time when those awakened to the true nature of their spiritual heritage focus great Love and Light upon the travesties designed to enslave the masses of the world, and in doing so will spark within the hearts and minds of all ones a resonance that will align great unseen Energy for the purpose of bringing about this desired end result.

In doing this, the United States will once again return to the respected status and symbol of freedom from oppression that she once held. So moved will be those who bear witness to this unfolding that similar change will eventually spread around the globe, and all ones will enjoy the great time of peace spoken about in many of your world’s prophetic books.

The United States Constitution was designed to serve as a shield of sorts that would guarantee those of your nation TIME and FREEDOM to mature spiritually, as a whole, while the rest of the world for the most part struggled in the ways of old, under various forms of dictatorship. It has taken the eagle’s strength and vision to hold your nation together as long as it has, but in the coming transition it will be the gentle finesse and wisdom of the dove that will carry her forward as a truly lasting nation under God, which truly stands for liberty and justice for ALL.

Let not the distractions of this past month bedazzle you into a hypnotic state of sheer distraction. It is a deliberate and calculated “emergency”—with both the problem and the proposed solution being perpetrated from the same source. Yes, the controllers who pull the puppet strings can and have orchestrated ALL of the events you have witnessed. But, as always, there will be loose ends left dangling and unexpected twists that will unfold as damage control is summoned forth to put out the many “fires” that will be started in the ensuing months. Such is the nature of the “game” when actions are taken that are not born of Goodly (Godly) intent.

Pay attention, please, to the happenings in the Middle East regions. America, in general, is DELIBERATELY being kept in the dark concerning the true happenings in that area so that the citizens do not become too outraged at the atrocities and blatant disregard for basic human rights. No person with a conscience would sleep at night if they knew the truth behind the senseless bloodshed of the Palestinian people—who fight mostly with rocks against well armed Israeli troops.

Where is the United Nations in all of this? You guessed it, backing the Israelis. Even if they do NOTHING, the UN ends up supporting Israel, since the Palestinians have no real power to defend themselves.

Who decides who is “right” and who is “wrong”? Would not great public outcry cause great difficulty for the UN to stand by and do nothing? Yes, it most certainly would—and that is the very reason the United States is being forced to watch election debates, as commentator after commentator swamp you with “logic” and “reasoning” from all sides. The viewer is left in an exhausting state of confusion, as opinion is shifted and swayed from one side to the other, only to be shifted back again.

For those of you who see this deliberate mind control for what it is, and you quickly turn away, you will miss the ten-second news morsel that describes “hundreds killed today as Middle East fighting continues”. You wouldn’t have missed much, but you would miss the confirmations of what I speak if you don’t at least look.

THANK YOU ALL

On a much “Lighter” note, I take this opportunity to express a HEARTFELT THANK YOU to all of you ones who are responding to the call for help to support The SPECTRUM newspaper. I am well aware that many of you simply have not the means to offer monetary support, and offer greatly needed and appreciated Energy in the form of PRAYER. This has not gone unnoted, and your prayers and focus of the God-Force Energy HAS greatly assisted these ones in MANY an untold way. Please continue to offer your support and prayers. See The SPECTRUM flourishing within your mind, and it will be so.

I would especially like to acknowledge those of you who have sent what little extra you do have. The Energy and beautiful, kind letters of thanks and appreciation bring great joy to the hearts of those who make The SPECTRUM a physical reality month after month. Your encouragement lifts them up when they are tired, and Lightens their load a bit as they learn to balance the challenges of the physical while offering a helping hand via their work. THANK YOU, ONE AND ALL, FOR ASSISTING IN THIS MANNER.

I would also offer to you ones that The SPECTRUM has been averaging at least 15 new subscribers each month now, for the last year, with about 200 more subscribers this year than last. This brings great joy to know that there is a measurable increase in circulation, even if it be ever so slight. I thank those of you who share these works with your brethren, for your efforts become GREATLY multiplied, both in the physical and in a non-physical manner.

Though I strongly encourage you to share The SPECTRUM with others, please be mindful of another’s free-will choice and do not force your opinions, beliefs, or viewpoints upon another. There are no absolute end-all sources of Truth in your world, and you each have ample room for growth and understanding. Please be not offended or harbor the feelings of rejection if another “spits” on you for offering your Truth. Not all ones are ready for the level of Truth offered herein, and will, of natural course, reject that which overwhelms them.

Be patient, persistent, and gentle, and go forth knowing that others are actually looking to prove you wrong so that they can place their heads back into the sand rather than confront the personal responsibility of following a more en-Light-ened path.

Never give up your desire to be of assistance to others, for in helping another you greatly help self and the return Energy is multiplied thousands of times and returned to you, especially in your time of need.

God bless you all. And may you all find comfort in reading, herein, a special message from your brother, Esu “Jesus” Sananda, for his great teachings hold powerful keys to unlocking the answers to any conceivable challenge you could possibly face.

I am Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, come in Light and Service to you ones, as a member of the Hosts of Creator God—The One Light. May you never again put your head in the sand or close your eyes to that which is offered in Love, in response to your heart’s petitions for Understanding and Peace.

God bless you, one and ALL! Salu.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Fill out the form below with your ad. If your ad runs longer, please write it out on a separate piece of paper and attach it to this form.

Signature _____

By signing you agree that the above ad is exactly as you want it to be presented in the paper.

Column inches are measured vertically. Each page has 3 columns and each column is 3.37" wide.

Display ads: Send your camera-ready ad and this order form to The SPECTRUM Ad Dept., P.O. Box 1567, Tehachapi, CA 93581, or feel free to use the fax. If you wish, you may send a 3.5" floppy disk or an IOMEGA zip disk with your camera-ready ad or ad information. The ad must be in Pagemaker or Photoshop 6.5 format, or have a graphic extension (i.e. tif, gif, jpg). Please send the best quality image you can. We will always do our best to make your ad look great; remember, poor quality camera-ready ads make poor ads. You may also send information via e-mail: spectrumads@tminet.com.

Classifieds: Classified ads are charged per line, at $5 per line. There is not limit on how many lines your ad may be. An average line has between 40-44 characters (including spaces, letters, and punctuation). Classifieds are easy to do over the phone with a credit card.

Ads will only be processed when payment is received. Rates are locked-in only for as long as you commit; rates subject to change.

* Discounts: If you wish to run your ad for more than one issue, then discounts are as follows: For 2-6 issues, deduct 5%; for 7-12 issues, deduct 10%. (These discounts apply to classifieds as well as display ads.)

 Design fee: If you do not have a camera-ready ad, we can design a nice ad for you (at a rate of $25/hour). Please call for an estimate.

All display and classified ads are due by the 15th of each month. Any ads received after the 15th are placed on a first come, first served basis, and any ads that do not make it into the upcoming issue will be placed in the next. We reserve the right to refuse any ad as an editorial decision. All payment will be refunded if this is the case. We reserve the right to resize ads to "fit" (ads will never be sized down, and you will not be charged for the larger ad size).

If you wish to place an ad that does not conform with the above chart, or you have any questions, please feel free to call us for cheerful answers .
